Last week's edition contained some welcome news for residents of Prospect Heights--much needed road improvement for that area.

They have been asking for action by Barney Runge, road commissioner, and Barney intends to give it to them.

The county highway department has agreed to help Barney to keep the pledge he has made.

The office of the Cook county treasurer has been mechanized. Hereafter only a foolish man will attempt to bribe his way out of his tax bill.

The warrant books used by the local collectors to record tax payment are only for the convenience of the collector. The actual receipt of payment is now the official record of the treasurer's office.

IBM equipment and microfilmed tax receipts are being used by county treasurer Lorenz to check tax payments.

In a matter of minutes the IBM equipment selects the card of the delinquent taxpayer. The machine hastens the auditing of the local collector's books, which in turn enables the treasurer to make early distribution of collections to taxing bodies.

This column is being written on the eve of the most important election in the history of this country. We do not know if we will be happy or sad on Wednesday morning. But if we lose, we promise the other fellow that we will accept the verdict of the majority of the voters in the same manner that we have accepted such verdicts in the past when we were on the losing side.

Candidate Committee To Form

In preparation for what promises to be one of the hottest village elections in history, the Arlington Heights Caucus committee this week announced the scheduling of its first public meeting.

According to Robert F. Bogan, Caucus chairman, the committee will hold a public meeting Monday, November 14, at 8 p.m. in the Miner junior high school cafeteria.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect a new candidate recommendation committee, Bogan indicated. At a second meeting to be held in January, he said, a slate of candidates will be selected to run in the village's April election.

UP-FOR-GRABS in the spring will be the seats of village president Edward G. Carlisle and trustees Robert H. Bukowski, Melvin L. Kurtz and Wendell L. Prunty, all of whom ran on the Caucus ticket four years ago.

This year's Caucus candidates are expected to face rugged opposition from a party now being organized by local businessmen and civic leaders. A spokesman for the businessmen said the group feels the present office holders have failed to work to bring industry and business to Arlington Heights.

As the Herald went to press, there had been no announcements of candidacy. Many reports have listed prominent residents ready to toss their hats into the ring, but the reports have not been substantiated.

AT THE MONDAY meeting, the Caucus committee will elect three persons from each of the village's six precincts to form the candidate recommendation body. A chairman will swell the committee's ranks to 19 members.

Lester Ploetz, a supporter of the Caucus system and chairman of the candidate recommendation committee in 1956, accentuated the need for the public to attend the meeting.

"In order to adhere to the Caucus principle that the best local government is secured when the office seeks the man," Ploetz said, "a generous cross section of citizens must turn out to take a hand in candidate selection."

Chairman Bogan pointed out that the candidate recommendation committee will consider names recommended from all sources, contact and interview those recommended, and present two or more recommendations for each office at the second public meeting.

INITIATED IN 1956, the Caucus committee has been a powerful force in village government. The seven members of the current village board were all supported by the Caucus.

"The Caucus believes the best interests of the village are served by keeping local government free from the influence of national and county politics," Bogan said.

"Caucus supporters also feel the "office seeks the man" principle produces substantially better candidates than are normally secured from privately formed slates."

The Caucus invites village-wide participation in every undertaking, Bogan said, and urges residents to attend the public meetings. Those desiring further information on the Caucus may phone Bogan at CL. 3-4782 or vice chairman Edward A. Huster at CL. 5-0138.

But Kerner Scores Big

GOP Stands Fast In Record Suburb Vote

The northwest suburbs retained their Republican reputation this week, although Democrats showed some gains in Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove, and Schaumburg townships.

The traditionally Republican communities showed no great signs of weakening as Democratic hopefuls were for the most part snowed under despite success at the state and national levels.

With the exception of the gubernatorial contest and the Paul Douglas-Samuel Witwer match for the United States Senate, Republicans more than doubled vote totals of their opponents.

Otto Kerner, new Illinois governor, was the bright spot in Democratic efforts to swing the suburbs, but incumbent William Stratton still managed to outpull the Glenview aspirant, 33,042 to 24,708, in the four townships. Kerner, however, carried the city of Rolling Meadows by 259 votes.

The rebellion against the Illinois governor was evident in Schaumburg township (Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg) where Kerner was the only Democrat to receive a majority of the votes, 2412 to 2354. Stratton's running mate, John Chapman, waas a 500 vote victor in the same township.

IN WHEELING township (Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Prospect Heights, Buffalo Grove, Mt. Prospect) where some thought Kerner would become the first Democrat to carry the township, Stratton received 15,497 votes to his opponent's 11,068.

Senator Paul Douglas, returned to Washington for his third term, received only 8,675 votes compared to Witwer's 17,419 in Wheeling township. Witwer held a 37,623 to 19,684 edge for the four townships.

Vice-President Richard Nixon more than doubled Senator John Kennedy's votes in the four townships, 40,198 to 17,887. Only in Schaumburg township, influenced greatly by Hoffman Estates residents, was balloting close (2,932 to 1,853). Still, Kennedy did not carry a single precinct in the four townships.

SCHAUMBURG township Republican committeeman Jack Reedy explained Kerner's success in his territory as a result of the former judge's popularity with Hoffman Estates residents who worked with Kerner at the time the village was incorporated.

Palatine township (Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Inverness) reported unanimously Republican results although Committeeman Jack Boughner pointed out that his party "lost" Stratton in six Rolling Meadows precincts and by one vote in precinct seven of Palatine. Witwer and Chapman also lost one precinct apiece in the otherwise Republican sweep.

Secretary of State Charles Carpentier was the strongest candidate on either ticket according to results in these four townships, piling up 43,656 votes to his opponent's 14,112 in his re-election.

Marguerite Stitt Church was again an easy winner, carrying the four townships 41,276 to 15,925. The popular representative won her sixth term in congress.

REPUBLICAN William Guild bested Democrat William Clark 8,467 to 3,599 in a lack-luster contest for attorney general while W. R. Arrington whipped Democrat Roman Domas for the State Senator seat, the latter candidate failing to carry a single precinct, even in his home town of Wheeling, where he is a village trustee.

Republicans J. W. Carroll and Arthur Simmons and Democrat Bernard Peskin walked off with the townships' favor for representatives in the state general assembly, and Ben Adamowski survived—at least in the suburbs—the Chicago Bar association's condemnation by toppling Democrat Daniel Ward, 9,070 to 3,232.

But while Republicans were rejoicing in their "local" conquests, television sets were casting a gloomy glow as reports from other areas made the suburban scene seem insignificant.

AND DEMOCRATS were far from discouraged by their showing in the four townships. Most enthusiastic was Otto Maleske, Democratic committeeman for Elk Grove township (Elk Grove Village and Mt. Prospect) who claimed his party had practically doubled in strength since the last election.

WHILE ELK GROVE Democrats claimed only one victory, Kerner's 483-475 favoritism in precinct four (Rupley school in Elk Grove Village), the party held its own in precinct three, which is billed as Cook county's largest precinct vote-wise. Over 1,950 persons cast their ballots at the Tonne rd. fire station Tuesday.

As far as voting numbers were concerned, both parties could boast of having brought the largest number of voters in the four townships' history. Some 94.6 per cent (26,808) of Wheeling township's 28,106 registered voters went to the polls.

IN PALATINE township a 95 per cent turnout was reported, 14,111 of 15,101 registered voters doing their duty. Similar records were set in Schaumburg, where 4,832 of 5,139 registrants voted, and in Elk Grove township, where 12,535 of 13,441 eligibles reported.

The potential votes of registrants in the four townships numbered 61,787: On this basis some 3,499 voters either stayed at home or had moved out of the area prior to the election.

Three Soldiers Killed by Auto

Three young soldiers stationed at the U.S. Army base south of Arlington Heights were struck and killed by an auto Tuesday night as they walked along Central rd.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community hospital were Pfc. Harry A. Lattch, 19; Pfc. Ronald C. Ketron, 19, and Pfc. Steven Sharp, 18.

ACCORDING TO State Police, the soldiers were walking eastbound on the south side of Central when they were struck simultaneously by an auto operated by Gary Klingensmith, 19, who is also stationed at the Nike site.

Trooper Joseph Wojcik of Arlington Heights said Klingensmith claimed he did not see the accident victims because of heavy rain and poor visibility. Klingensmith was driving a civilian vehicle. The mishap occurred one mile east of Wilke rd.

The dead youths were taken to the Black funeral home, Vail st. and Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights. A coroner's inquest will be held today (Thursday), police indicated.

Klingensmith was charged with failure to yield the right of way to pedestrians and reckless homicide. He was being held Wednesday at State Police headquarters.

EXCLUSIVE

'The Poor'

This week Paddock Publications presents the fifth chapter in its exclusive series of six special reports on "The Poor" of Illinois. The current article is concerned with the poorest of the state's poor, the Negro.

More than five month in preparation, "The Poor" is providing on-the-spot analytical, factual, and human reporting of the problems confronting the state's half million poverty-stricken.

Reported and written by the editorial team of Charles Hayes and William Dulaney, "The Poor" is illustrated with dramatic on-the-spot photographs by Larry Cameron, who accompanied the editors on a 1200-mile junket through southern Illinois' depressed counties and for days of first-hand interviewing and investigating in the heart of Cook county's slums.

Sauer Is Lone Dissenter

Trustee Is Dismayed By A&P Sign Hassle

An Arlington Heights trustee Monday shook his head in dismay when the village board voted to permit the A & P food store one sign ordinance variation but denied it another.

Trustee William Sauer was the lone dissenter in a 5-1 vote which backed up village manager L. A. Hanson's recommendation to (1) grant a variation on a 40-foot sign but (2) refuse the same variation on a 20-foot sign.

"This company asks to erect two signs which violate our ordinance and we tell them they can have only one sign which violates the ordinance," Sauer commented.

"What right do we have to tell the company it can install only one sign?" he asked.

THE SIGNS in question were planned for the new A & P store beigg built in the Market Basket shopping center at Palatine and State rds. Except for height requirements, the signs conformed to the village sign and structure ordinance.

At the board's Ocotber 17 meeting, the question arose as to why the ordinance prohibited ground signs of more than 15 feet. It was brought out that this stipulation usually applied to billboards and that perhaps the ordinance should be amended.

TRUSTEES Sauer and Wendell Prunty said they favored granting the request of A & P representative Carl Rupp since the signs were not out of proportion with the planned improvement. Prunty, however, voted with the majority of the board.

Manager Hanson, in explaining his recommendation, said the sign he approved should be lowered from 40 to 29 feet, as it should not exceed the height of the roof line of the building.

"While I considered recommending an amendment to the ordinance," Hanson said, "I feel that more study and consideration should be given before the board takes such action."

Election Facts In Sidelight Summary

Otto Kerner, apparent governor-elect, carried the City of Rolling Meadows Tuesday by 259 votes. He lost Palatine township, however, to incumbent Gov. William G. Stratton.

Residents of Arlington Heights' Scarsdale area, voting in Wheeling township precincts 14 and 23, gave Richard M. Nixon 6-1 majorities over Sen. John F. Kennedy, the largest in the northwest suburbs.

Democratic candidates Otto Kerner, Sen. Paul Douglas, and Sam Shapiro fared well in Wheeling township's precinct 27 (Dunhurst Heights) and Palatine township's precinct 20 (Rolling Meadows), receiving comfortable margins of victory.

IN WHEELING township's precinct 28 (Prospect Heights), Marshall Keehn, Democratic candidate for the state general assembly, did not receive a vote. Front-running GOP candidate Bill Carroll garnered 533 votes.

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier and Congresswoman Marguerite Stitt Church (13th), both Republican incumbents, drew more votes in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, and Wheeling townships than did Vice President Nixon.

Slightly more than 98 per cent of the registered voters in Wheeling township's precinct 3 turned out to cast their ballots at the Ridge school, Arlington Heights.

Shopping Center

Revive Old Zoning Issue

The three-year-old matter of rezoning from residential to commercial a tract of land at the Kirchoff-Wilke rd. bend came up again at Monday's meeting of the Arlington Heights village board.

The change in zoning for a proposed shopping area was originally sought in November, 1957, by Leo C. Reuter, beneficial owner of a trust holding 28 lots on the east side of Wilke rd. at Kirchoff.

A year ago village trustees voted to deny the developer's request for rezoning. Monday night, William Hennessy, attorney representing developer Nicholas Prassas, asked the board to rescind its denial and then reinstate the matter on the agenda.

"IN THE LIGHT of the increased population in the vicinity in question," Hennessy said, "We feel these shopping facilities are needed now more than ever."

Village attorney Stephen Jurco noted that the board's proper action would be to refer the developer's request to the village plan commission. Trustee Eugene Schlickman advised Hennessy to submit a formal request for the reconsideration.

When the plan for the commercial develpoment was first made public, much opposition was voiced by residents of Westgate and Rolling Meadows. Objectors claimed granting of the request would be "spot zoning."

3 Bowlers Are Theft Victims

Three Palatine men became theft victims Sunday while bowling at the Beverly Lanes bowling alley, 8 S. Beverly, Arlington Heights.

Ironically, the three were victimized by the same thief while they bowled in the same league.

ELVIS FOSTER, of 270 Cheryl lane, reported a fireman's blue portable flashlight stolen. Curtis McGowan, of 348 N. Brockway, said a coin purse containing two dollars was taken from his auto.

The third victim, Ralph Schroeder, of 223 W. Slade, lost two hub caps. Arlington Heights police are keeping an eye on parked cars in the vicinity of the bowling establishment.

City Fathers Praise Voters

City officials commended the people of Rolling Meadows for the manner in which they participated in the national election of 1960.

Reports that in precinct 21 out of a possible 1,023 registered voters 1,015 went to the polls and that in the city as a whole the vote was 96% of those eligible, prompted the aldermen to pass a resolution congratulating the people.

Village Hall Vote Is Set for December 1

Arlington Heights residents will decide the fate of a $350,000 bond issue intended to finance a new village hall on Saturday, Dec. 10.

Village trustees Monday selected that date for a public referendum after learning the hall's cost could be chopped some $18,000 to bring it within the price range suggested by the Village Hall Citizen's committee.

Lowest bid submitted for the building was $464,000. The citizen's committee, however, recommended the cost not exceed $450,000, with no more than $350,000 of this amount coming from the sale of 20-year bonds.

AFTER MEETING with architect Joe L. Bennett, Trustees Melvin Kurtz and William Sauer reported Monday that about $18,000 could be clipped off the general contract by not paving a parking lot, eliminating some acoustical insulation, omitting a radio tower, and holding up painting of the basement.

With the financial problem seemingly satisfied, trustees heard a report from Kurtz and Samuel Wit declaring the need for expanding the number of village precincts from six to 21.

According to the report, there are now 13,488 registered voters in the village. The reapportionment of precincts would provide one precinct for each 642 voters.

The committee for redistricting made its recommendation with the future growth of the village in mind. Village manager L. A. Hanson expressed the opinion the clerrical work necessary for the redistricting could be completed in time for the referendum.

VILLAGE CLERK Mildred Pearson noted it would be "very difficult" to meet the December 10 deadline, but opined the job of refiling all cards and hiring election judges "would be completed in time."

Village attorney Stephen Jurco was directed to prepare a bond and referendum ordinance setting forth all necessary details for the referendum. Jurco will also consult the Chapman and Cutler bond house for their recommendations.

John C. Woods, chairman of the citizen's committee, presented a final report of the village hall publicly committee, pointing out that several sub-committees have been organized to carry out an information program.

THE COMMITTEE is preparing a brochure, contacting 40 civic and service organizations to arrange speaking dates, formulating a one-page fact sheet, and arranging for visual and audio aids and telephone brigades.

Chairmen of the publicity committee are Richard Dunlop and Raymond Becker. The village hall is to be constructed on property north of the State rd. parking lot.

The Arlington Heights League of Women Voters has pledged its support of the referendum. (AF

Election Judge Openings Cited

Arlington Heights residents interested in acting as election judges for the December 10 village hall referendum are asked to phone the village clerk at CL 3-2340.

Clerk Mildred O. Pearson indicated Tuesday that the increase in election precincts from six to 21 necessitates the hiring of 105 judges. Judges must be registered voters and residents of the precinct in which they plan to work.

Judges will receive $25 for the day's work. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and a one-evening training session will be required of all judges.

Building Code Goes to Press

by STUART R. PADDOCK

The Arlington Heights building code will go to the printers this week, much to the relief of the village board and particularly the employees upon whom rest the responsibility of its enforcement.

The village attorney has spent many hours in making changes and getting its legal phraseology in a form that will stand up in court.

At the meeting of Oct. 17 trustee Schlickman said the village attorney had delayed the building code. The village attorney answered that the delay had been because of the numerous changes made and by the addition of the swimming pool ordinance.

Trustee Schlickman stated he didn't understand the swimming pool ordinance was to be added - however, this addition with others, was done on the motion of Trustee Schlickman. The ordinance was not passed until June 6.

THE BUILDING commissioner from time to time recommended additions. Before the final draft could be completed the commissioner resigned. The code is now receiving its final check by Bruce Nelson, acting building commissioner.

During the latter part of 1959 the first revised code was adopted by the board. Since that time additions and qualifications asked by the board have required a number of additional revisions which have delayed completion.

The code as finally approved is large and intricate. It required much checking and analysis from time to time by village officials and various village departments. This required many conferences between the village attorney and these officials. The last one was held in August. The final changes were made and sent to the printers early in October, and are now ready for publication in book form.

It will not be long now before contractors and others will be able to secure up-to-date, bound, printed copies of the code.

Appoint Village Committee

To Study Extension Of Water to School

Arlington Heights trustees Monday formed a two-man committee to study the feasibility of extending village water lines to the new Forest View high school.

Tabling a recommendation by village manager L. A. Hanson that the village install a water main to the school, trustees unanimously approved a suggestion by Trustee William Sauer that the investigation committee be appointed.

Acting president Robert Bukowski named Sauer and Trustee Wendell Prunty to the committee, charging them with exploring the ramifications of the village footing a $37,500 bill for the improvement.

PRUNTY SAID he would be inclined to question the wisdom of going through with the project without making it possible for the village to recover its cost. He also noted that Arlington Heights residents would be paying for an improvement designed to benefit other villages.

The school is to be located southeast of the village. Manager Hanson said it was imperative that the school board of district 214 receive an immediate decision on the matter.

He recommended the village enter into the project because (1) annexation of the area near the school is likely; (2) the party that controls the water will control the area; (3) the village has an investment in the school, and (4) financing would not be too difficult.

WHEN ASKED by Trustee Samuel Wit why this matter of water supply was not resolved a long time ago, the school district engineer said the former village building commissioner refused to make water available, and that other negotiations for the supply had fallen through.

The water committee will meet with school officials and others involved in the project and report as soon as possible.

Agreement Reached On Purchase Price

Arlington Heights trustees and eight property owners came to a meeting of the minds Monday in regard to a purchase price for the portion of Rockwell st. between Mitchell and Ridge.

Trustee Melvin Kurtz entered a motion favoring the acceptance of the property owners' offer of $600 each for the vacated street. The motion was approved unanimously.

THE TWO-BLOCK section of street was sought by residents of the area when village engineers reported it was not to be paved. The village offered to vacate the section, though retaining a 10-foot easement.

Trustees Monday discussd the possibility of a water main being installed in the area, indicating a 10-foot easement might be too narrow for construction purposes.

BUT IT WAS decided homeowners on the street "should not be left hanging" while major improvements were considered. The village attorney was directed to prepare an ordinance vacating the street.

The $600 settlement price represents a compromise between the $900 first suggested by the village and the $250 originally offered by the property owners. Before casting his vote in favor of the agreed price, Trustee Eugene Schlickman recommended the board adopt a permanent street vacation procedure.

Northside Postal Station Is Asked

A north side postal sub-station will be a reality in Arlington Heights, if the local chamber of commerce civic committee has its way.

The committee met again Tuesday to move another step toward creation of a north side spot for the sale of stamps and mailing of packages, possibly in time for the Christmas rush.

Postmaster Virginia Dodge is cooperating with committee chairman Clarence Hendrickson in the move that could help calm the traffic snarl ever present near the existing post office.

CURRENT suggestions center on either a small space in a present store or leasing of a vacant store, though only about 300 square feet of working space is reported to be needed.

Other projects being tackled by the chamber civic committee include eastbound access and westbound exit with the toll road, additional off-street parking, and possibility of street extensions to help the post office and village hall traffic bottleneck.

Board Accepts Auto Contract

Arlington Heights trustees Monday voted to accept the recommendation of village manager L. A. Hanson awarding a contract for four cars and a station wagon to George C. Poole, Inc., Arlington Heights.

Poole submitted a low bid of $6,616.00 for the five vehicles to be used by the police department. The cars are of the eight-cylinder type.

Trustee William Sauer pointed out that many cities and villages are experimenting with the new compact models. He suggested trustees examine the smaller car's potential when considering future purchases.

Developer Ready For Second Try?

Milford Tokoph, the Glenview builder who was recently denied permission to erect multiple dwellings in south Arlington Heights, was reported ready to present revised plans Wednesday to the village plan commission.

Tokoph originally proposed to construct an apartment building on a site east of Northwest Community hospital and north of Central rd. The plan commission, however, ruled the project constituted row housing rather than an apartment structure.

UNDER THE village's comprehensive zoning ordinance, row houses are limited to six attached one-family dwellings. Tokoph planned to build what the commission described as 30 attached units and 10 garages.

When informed his project could not be approved by the commission, Tokoph asked to be placed on the agenda for Wednesday. He was advised to study ordinances outlining R-5 requirements. (AF

Vandals Damage Parked Tractor

Arlington Heights police were on the lookout this week for vandals who Monday severely damaged a tractor being used by an excavating firm in the village.

Anthony Koske, of Koske's Excavators, said person or persons unknown smashed the vehicle's instrument panel, stole its air cleaner and radiator cap, and poured dirt into its radiator and exhaust stack.

The tractor was parked at Wilshire and Frederick sts. when the damage was done.

Arlington Teens to Tackle Shaw Comedy November 17-19

HARD-WORKING CREW members prepare scenery for Shaw's "Man and Superman," Arlington high's fall dramatic offering. Complicating the production is the necessity for three complete sets, including part of an automobile, which must be constructed prior to opening night, November 17. Left to right are Suzanne Anderson, Karla Stelling, Jill Anderson, and Gary Elledge.

IN REHEARSAL for Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman," understudy Joyce Berggren, Arlington Heights, stands ready to prompt as prop-holding Bob Stone, Arlington Heights, berates Elroy Schuler, Palatine. Production is slated for November 17, 18, and 19 in Arlington high school's Little Theatre.

by JO PARNELL

Arlington high school dramatists tackle another "big one" next weekend when George Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman" is staged in the Little Theater.

And from wherever he chose to spend eternity, the great English playwright will probably be pleased November 17, 18, and 19, when he looks in on the teen-agers' handling of his comedy and philosophy which delivered its Shavian shock to early twentieth century audiences.

Director Douglas K. Murphy, now in his seventh year of guiding high school thespians through what many would have considered impossible selections for inexperienced entertainers, risks a reputation for excellence in what might be considered his most challenging production.

But Murphy and his young dramatists are riding on a triumph, "As You Like It," which delighted audiences last spring and moved one reviewer to state, "They proved that high school plays need never be second rate when in the hands of a gifted director and can easily give adult community theatre a run for its money. It was without doubt the outstanding theatrical event of this season in our area."

DESPITE previous successes with "As You Like It," "Stalag 17," "The Crucible," "Madwoman of Chaillot," and "The Matchmaker," grooming a cast of 13 high schoolers for Shaw is quite a task, especially when only three have had speaking roles prior to "Man and Superman."

It was partly this shortage of experienced personnel which led Murphy to choose "an excellent play with a small cast." Has he taken the proverbial over-sized bite?

"We'll know the answer to that question November 17," Murphy smiles.

"Getting the students to discover Shaw's humor, to see the possibilities in the lines, is only half the battle," the Northwestern graduate asserts. "An adult, experienced actor may see the comic potential immediately, but the high school actor must raise all his powers of objectivity to get the humor.

"Then he has only begun. Making idea-talk into fresh, light comedy is the real rub. He may have it one minute and lose it the next without being the least bit careless."

Murphy's approach to the problem has been discussion, and lots of it. "The thing for the actor to see," he maintains, "is that the ridiculous side of the people we see makes the most fault-ridden character in the play no better and no worse than the people who live all around us. This has to be brought out in discussing the play, practically line by line."

"I know just what you mean," the young actor will insist. "I just have trouble getting it."

"Keep trying," Murphy encourages. "This is difficult material. You're tackling a part few professionals would touch without years of experience."

EVEN IF THE lines and tricky English expressions (there's some cockney thrown in) were perfect, the play offers other difficulties. Scheduled to arrive from New York next week are 21 complete costumes in the "new century" design. "That's after the bustle period," Murphy explains.

"Clothes of the time, and especially of that class were graceful, elaborate, beautiful, with an erectness that seemed to remember Victoria. But the costumes are no more of a problem than many shows we have done.

"I suspect that the thing that scares many directors away from the play is the difficulty and expense of the three elaborate, involved sets," Murhpy opines.

The first act takes place in a study of a handsome, solidly furnished English home; the second set is on the grounds of an English country estate comfortably outside London; and Granada, Spain, provides the last and most complicated setting.

THREE SETTINGS is enough to give pause, but a 1903 automobile in the second scene is the wheel that often breaks the planner's back. At Arlington the situation is being handled by turning the responsibility over to some boys "who wanted to build part of a car."

"We couldn't have gotten a whole car on the stage if we'd been able to find one," Murphy points out. The car motor must run during the second act, and the crew is searching for a good sound.

"The answer to a complicated setting question," according to the director, "turned up in the persons of Mrs. Mary Ellen Grasso, technical director; and Jim Walker, new member of the art department, who came forth with set designs complete with plans for statuary involving 200 pounds of plaster.

"I wouldn't have dared ask for anything so elaborate. Jim saw the statues as part of the settings; he and his art students put the ideas into chicken wire, two by fours, and plaster."

With many of the technical problems solved, the cast is laboring at the dialogue. Only one week remains before the 7:30 p.m. curtain Thursday night, November 17.

The show begins at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights. Tickets may be ordered through the high school. While seats are not reserved, tickets must be purchased for a specific performance. Depending on the advance sale, some tickets may be obtained at the door. (B8

Disclose County Roadway Program

Plans to accelerate Cook county's secondary road rebuilding program so that all 600 miles of such roads will be hard surfaced within three years were disclosed at the county board meeting last week.

County Highway Supt. William J. Mortimer submitted a budget request for 1961 of $9,225,829, an increase of $1,297,994 over 1960 appropriations.

THE LARGEST item in the increase was $300,000 for secondary road improvements.

"Only about half of our secondary roads are now hard surfaced," said President Dan Ryan. "We now plan a 3-year acceleration through which we will hard surface, mostly with blacktop the remaining 300 miles of non-expressways which are now gravel and crushed stone."

Other increases are for rising costs and to provide $10 to $20 monthly pay raises for some of the 1,600 employes of the highway department under the county's new classification program providing yearly raises for four years.

THE HIGHWAY budget does not include about $60 million to be spent out of bond funds during the year on the expressway building program, largely the South Expressway.

Hearings on the highway budget are set for Nov. 14, the date previously fixed for hearings on the $78-million plus corporate county budget. (B8

Colorful History Of Church Is Recounted

One hundred years ago Rev. T. L. Olmstead of the Arlington Heights Methodist church announced the purchase of a site and the erection of a building at the northwest corner of what is now known as Dunton and St. James Sts. The cost was $2,000.

The lumber came from Michigan forests and completed the last leg of its journey from Des Plaines by ox-cart.

By 1870 the building was outgrown, and the original frame building was moved to the rear, elevated by building a brick first story, and adding to the front of the second story a frame portion to complete it. The Civil War caused a delay on the completion of this expansion.

In 1928 the sanctuary and spire (the proportions of the spire still excite the admiration of present day architects) were completed and dedicated. Probably there is no building in the northwest suburbs which has had its history so well entwined and exemplified in its architecture.

IT IS A moving story in three chapters: the small, original frame building; the Methodist meeting house: and the suburban, early American church it is today.

This is the building which the Arlington Heights Evangelical Free church purchased in 1953 for $85,000, including the parsonage. The original meeting house is a generation older than the denomination which now utilizes it.

The history of the institution which completed the building, the present-day Arlington Heights Methodist church, goes back much further.

NEXT WEEK in recognition of the 100 years of Christian witness on this corner, the Evangelical Free church is planning an open house. Special displays of pictures and documents pertaining to the building's history will be made.

The open house will be held on Sunday, Nov. 20, beginning at 4:30 p. m.

Since there are many in the community whose childhood memories are associated with its influence, the Free church is happy to provide these people with an occasion for visiting and for viewing.

A light supper is planned and will be followed by the quarterly "Night of Music," presented by the senior choir and other church music groups.

ONLY THE PEAK of the roof of the 100-year-old portion of the Evangelical Free church is noticeable at the upper left, but the lines of the old Methodist meeting house are apparent to the close observer. Early American spire and sanctuary date the building. (B8

Music Group Gives Program for Aged

Residents of the Lutheran Home for the Aged were the audience Friday for a program of songs presented by the National Music association.

Highlight for residents, many of them bedridden, was the solo work by Mrs. Mary Smith, 67, of Palatine. Her selections were "Still be the Night" in German and an English folk song.

Since Mrs. Smith speaks fluent German, she was able to talk to many German language patients after the performance. The soloist sang with the San Carlo Opera company for 30 years and has a wide repertoire in German, Italian, and French.

PRAISING the elder citizen's activities, director of the home Rev. John M. Kempf, said "The motto of our home is 'Life begins at 60' and Mrs. Smith is an excellent example."

Group selections included "Beyond the Blue Horizon," "Getting to Know You," "Once in Love with Amy." "Baubles, Bangles, and Beads," "On the Street where you Live," and "Trolley Song."

Other soloists are Ed Joyce, "Chip off the Old Block;" Gloria Kolus, "Because;" Ellen Jandra, "Someday." Joyce and Rose Pfeiffer sang "Sympathy." Accompanist for the program and also at Brandt's restaurant, Palatine, where the group sang afterwards, is Margaret Couts.

THE NMA will rehearse Friday, Nov. 11, to add songs for a Christmas program. New members are invited to attend. Meeting place is the community room, Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan building.

Arrangements for group appearances may be made with Mrs. Rose Pfeiffer at FL 9-0891, or Anthony Citrona, chorus director, at GE 8-7493. (B9

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it really considered correct to accept a second helping of food when your hostess offers it to you, or is this a sign of greediness?

A. One may certainly accept a second helping if one wishes. It is really a compliment to the hostess' cookery to do so. However, if you don't care for a second helping, you may say, "No, thank you."

Suburban Housewife Stalks Wild Boars

Diana, Goddess of the Hunt, may be found any day in Rolling Meadows, tending her young.

The tall blonde statuesque woman who lives at 3002 Hawk ln. and has made her "kill" this season is Mrs. Orran Kief.

Armed with a quiver of steel-tipped arrows and a 33-pound bow, she has become so proficient in piercing the bullseye of a target, last Saturday, she accompanied her husband and four others on a wild boar hunt.

With the Kiefs were Walter and Clarice Krause, 252 W. Kenilworth, Palatine. Walter organized the Bo-Arro Hunters club in Crystal Lake a decade ago, and Dorothy Kief and her hubby have been members for the past two years.

ONCE WILD BOAR was target of arrows of Mrs. Dorothy Kief, 3002 Hawk ln., Rolling Meadows. Her kill is admired by husband, Orran, and son, Randy. The Kiefs returned last week from a hunting trip to Iowa.

LAST SATURDAY, they invaded the "wilds" of Iowa, private hunting grounds at Montour, Ia., some 200 acres "infested" with about 20 wild boar brought in from Louisiana.

The section is as 'rugged as could be, up and down hills, rivers, lake, rugged terrain," as Dorothy describes it.

Her first question when they arrived was: "Are they dangerous? I'm kinda scared."

The answer was: "One chased me over the fence. They're unpredictable animals."

THE KEEPER of the game preserves advised: "If you are afraid, don't corner them. Just step aside and give them room if they charge. They feed on acorns and grass and you'll have to look for them under tree stumps or where they burrow under brush piles and in the mud along streams."

Arriving in the area at 2:30 a.m. in pitch darkness and bad weather, the party was driven to their cabin by a farmer, and Dorothy had no sooner settled down when Krause was shouting: "Okay, everybody up."

The sign "Wild Boar at Large. Danger" did nothing to reassure her, and the suburban Diana felt like turning back, but the die was cast, and she hoped it would be the boar, not she.

The party fanned through the woods, 50 yards apart from each other. They found nothing. About 8 a.m., they began to roam about through the entire area, leaving the woods.

COMING UPON a river in a ravine, the party of hunters were quickly becoming disillusioned when Alex Spetley, standing on a hill, pointed to two boars right across the river bed from them.

Soon, without a sound, all of the hunters were pointing excitedly without a sound. The boars were right out in the open, eating grass, facing the other way. Soundlessly, the hunters crept up on them, and Krause nudged the two women. This was to be their game.

Diana had selected the largest one, black and white. After Krause motioned for the women to close in, she climbed down the river bed and up the hill, where the ground was soft, crept up close to about 20 yards.

HEART BEATING rapidly, Dorothy shot and missed. So did Clarice, who placed an arrow through her boar's ribs on the second shot. It was the fourth for Dorothy, but her arrows were coming like machinegun bullets, the men said later. Her arrow caught the huge black and white boar in the midriff. He squealed and ran off, leading the party on a bloody trail through the high brush.

"He rolled over and over in the river bed," Dorothy relates, "and the river was red with blood."

The men finished both boars off with more arrows and they were gutted and hung up in the fork of a tree.

Now, it was the men's turn, and four more boars came into sight, and Krause missed one at 50 yards. They fled, with the hunters after them, an hour's chase through the woods, with the boars running into the ravine and being cornered on the hillside.

"They wouldn't let us get closer than 50 yards," said Kief. "They spotted us and three made a break. One of them oinked, snorted and charged Wally. At 20 yards, Wally's arrow struck him in the head, but he chased him for four hours, since the arrow had worked itself out of his head."

THE HUNTERS found three more in the woods and one too far off, Tom will be hunting boar.

Meanwhile, dad is preparing to go hunting white-tailed deer in Vilas county, Wisconsin this Saturday.

"Next year," said the suburban huntress, "the three of us may go."

Kief, who is a methods engineer for Stewart Warner Electronics, is kidded by his fellow employees, who tell him he's crazy for hunting boar without a gun. "This way, the boar and the deer have a fighting chance, with bow and arrow at 50 yards."

But this past week, at the Kief home, as Dorothy states it, with the neighbors trooping in from everywhere to marvel at their two boars, "it's been like Grand Central Station." Now, nothing is left but the dressed meat in the freezer.

Diana, the huntress, is ready for deer.

Here then, is the real test, and the reason for breakdown sometimes goes further into the set.

Delay Flood Relief For Brickman Homes

Final solution of the flood problem in the Brickman subdivision east of Prospect high school has again been delayed through inability of the Mount Prospect village board and school district 214 to reach agreement.

Early in October in a joint meeting the board of education of district 214 agreed to install tiling on the vast school property which now drains into the open storm drain at Forest and Highland aves.

This agreement was contingent upon the village putting in a half-street from the south part of the school property along Memory ln. to the school entrance, with paving to be completed by September 1, 1961.

In addition William Lynch, an independent engineer called as consultant by the school district, had recommended the paving of Forest ave. This paving, to include storm sewers, would further carry the storm water flow north to Foundry rd. away from the flood areas.

IN A LETTER to the school board the Village of Mount Prospect this week stated the school plan for tiling was "satisfactory" and urged that work be undertaken. The village expressed the opinion that the street-paving question must be separate and should be studied later.

In effect this leaves the school district with the entire responsibility and bill for correcting the flooding.

The board has expressed the opinion that since the cause of the flooding is not entirely their problem the solution must be a joint effort with the village officials.

School board members voted to meet again with the village in an effort to find a "satisfactory solution."

Residents of the Brickman subdivision were present at the school board meeting Monday and expressed disappointment in the delay.

THE SCHOOL district paid $25,000 to tie into the Brickman sewer at Forest and Highland aves. This connection to a 21-inch sanitary sewer was designed to handle the school's roof drainage and sanitary flow. School officials stress this connection is vital for the operation of the school. A gate valve is to be installed at the opening of the sewer line to prevent flooding from the school sanitary flow.

THE SOUTHEAST quarter of the 69-acre school property normally drains storm water north toward Foundry rd. where it is carried into the Arlington drainage system. Construction of a part of the Brickman subdivision has partially blocked this natural flow. It is this 15-acre area which the school district will tile and prevent from flowing into the Mount Prospect sewer system.

School officials had expressed hope that work on the storm water tile lines could be started as soon as possible to avoid further floods with fall and spring rains. Many homes in the Brickman subdivision have experienced repeated basement flooding because of the drainage situation. (ACM

Wheeling Democrats Tell Satisfaction at Results

Democratic leadership in Wheeling township expressed satisfaction Wednesday with results of the general election.

Statements were issued by James Stavros, township committeeman, and Dr. Norbert H. Hruby, co-chairman of the Wheeling Township Democratic Volunteers.

STAVROS statement is as follows:

"The dramatice rise of the Democrats in traditionally Republican Wheeling township is a major development in the political history of the northwest suburbs. The 1960 election is a milestone.

"There are several reasons for the forward thrust of the Democratic party in this township. We had a supurb slate of candidates on the national, state and local levels. The population explosion has brought vigorous new blood into the political struggle. There has been work by an unprecedented number of dedicated volunteers. More and more suburbanites have come to realize that good government in accordance with Democratic ideals is the best hope of America and the Free World.

"The era of Republican monopoly in the suburbs has ended. The day of healthy two-party competition has arrived."

DR. HRUBY issued the following statement:

"The intensity of citizen interest in the 1960 election has been vividly demonstrated in Wheeling township by the rise of a sizable band of dedicated Democratic volunteers who devoted an incredible amount of time, talent, and energy to the cause of good government. The wholehearted support of Wheeling township Democratic committeeman James Stavros for the work of our group marks a new era of effective cooperation between concerned independent citizens and the regular party organization.

"The campaign has been hard, clean, and invigorating. Never again, we believe, will the Northwest suburbs of Chicago subside into the lethargic one-party system of the past. Responsible and responsive government everywhere depends on a vigilant and vital minority. We intend to continue our activity this year, next, and every year thereafter." ACM

Well-Known Comedy Slated by School

Prospect high school will have "One Foot in Heaven" November 18 and 19 when the school will present a three act play. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Tickets are now being sold and will be available at the door of the school's Little Theatre. Admission is 75 cents for students and $1 for adults.

THE PLAY, a well-known comedy by Hartzell Spence, is set in a small Iowa town in 1910 with the problems of a minister, his family and congregation members as the plot.

Director of the play is LeRoy Hollenbeck, the school dramatics teacher. Backstage crews and technical direction are in charge of Miss Marilyn Meyer, English teacher.

HEADING THE cast will be Newell Krogmann as the Reverend William H. Spence. Memory of the Arlington high school class of 1959-60 will be permanent at the high school through action this week by the board of education in accepting the class gift.

A large circular tile inlay will be placed in the foyer of the school gymnasium section. A bright red cardinal will be in the center of the white circle with the words "Welcome to the Home of the Cardinals" ranged around the circle rim.

Installation of the gift tile inlay is expected to start soon and be ready for the coming basketball season. (ACM

Q. I have just received an invitation to a bridal shower on some girl whom I scarcely know. Would I be justified in ignoring this invitation?

A. This would be a little on the rude side. You are, however, perfectly justified in saying you are sorry, but that you have another engagement for that particular evening.

What many people don't know about crabgrass

1. Crabgrass grows only from seed. The dead crabgrass plants you see now will disintegrate and disappear—leaving ugly bare patches in your lawn. Crabgrass is an annual. It re-seeds itself at the end of each summer.

2. Last year's seed is in the ground. Crabgrass is one of nature's most prolific weeds. Right now, literally billions of crabgrass seeds are waiting in most lawns for spring warmth to germinate. Then the vicious cycle starts all over again.

3. You can keep it from coming up. A single winter application of HALTS with the accurate Scotts Spreader creates an invisible barrier against crabgrass. HALTS lies in wait, kills crabgrass as it sprouts. (HALTS will not harm good grass—doesn't interfere with seeding.)

County Board Refers Petition on Zoning

Two subdivisions with shopping areas, a liquor store, and a gas station were among the subject matter of north suburban zoning changes sought in new petitions referred by the county board last week to the zoning board of appeals.

The largest planned development was 152 acres in Wheeling township bounded by River road, the Soo Line tracks, Foundry road, and 355 south of Euclid avenue. The Forest Manor Land corporation, 1000 East Foundry road, Mt. Prospect, asked that 47 acres of single family dwellings be kept in the R-4 district, (10,000 sq. ft. minimum), except that up to 10 per cent of any lot area could be below the minimum.

THE SAME project will have a five-acre shopping center, conforming to B-3 use, including a food store, grocery, meat market, bakery, hardware, variety store, haberdashery, shoe store, dry cleaning stations, and drug store.

The second planned development, consisting of 145 acres on the southwest corner of Golf and Busse roads, Elk Grove township, has four projected sections, in a present R-4 district. Remaining R-4 would be 134 acres of single family residences, except that the 10,000 sq. ft. lot minimums could be shaded by 12.5 per cent.

Three acres would be a shopping district consisting of a gift shop, hardware, bakery, drug store and supermart, while 2.5 acres would be multiple family residences, conforming to R-6 (General Residence), and six acres multiple family R-5.

PIONEER Trust and Savings Bank, Trust 11056, is the owner.

The liquor store is asked for as a food store with the sale of liquor incidental, and would be on one acre on the east side of Woodland drive 265 feet north of Morrison under a requested change from R-4 to B-3. Owners are William and Pauline Bahnmaier, 600 River road, Mt. Prospect.

The gas station is planned for ½ acre on the east side of Elmhurst road 215 feet north of Palatine road, Wheeling township. Robert I. Bluett, Box 245, Mt. Prospect, as trustee, asks a zoning change from R-3 to B-2 (Restricted Service) district.

A PUMPING station and electric substation in R-4 districts are asked in two other petitions referred for hearing.

Richard and Florence Evenhouse, 6021 Hawthorne, Rosemont, are asking the pumping station, of one story height, to serve Woodview Manor Unit No. 1 on 1/6th acre on the west side of River road 215 feet south of Camp McDonald road, Wheeling township.

Commonwealth Edison company is asking a special use for four acres on the north side of old Northwest highway 161.25 feet southeast of Stephen drive, Palatine township. The electric substation to be installed includes a control building, four transformers, terminals, and related switch gear. These structures will be at ground level, on a concrete foundation. A chain link fence and landscaping will blend with the surrounding properties.

A blacktop parking lot for an adjoining restaurant is the objective of a petition by Cosmopolitan National Bank, Trust 9383, to rezone 1/4 acre on the south side of Pleasant drive 142 feet west of Kendale drive, Northfield township, from R-4 to B-4 (General Service) district.

NORTHERN Aire Estates, Inc., 1000 West Northwest highway, Mt. Prospect, is asking a straight residential rezoning, from R-3 (20,000 sq. ft. minimum lots) to R-4 (10,000 sq. ft.), for 152 acres on the east side of Hicks road, 667 feet east of its intersection with Dundee road, Palatine township.

The county board again deferred action at the request of Commissioner Fred A. Fulle on an application by Exchange National Bank, Trust 9022, to rezone 3¾ acres 230 feet north of Rand road and 135 feet east of Grove ave. in Maine township, from R-4 to R-5 (General Residence 2,500 sq. ft. per dwelling unit). A similar action was taken on Oct. 3, when the zoning board of appeals submitted a report recommending granting of the petition.

The zoning board reported withdrawal of a petition by Cosmopolitan National Bank for rezoning of the northwest corner of Golf road and Sumac road extended, Maine township, from R-3 to R-5.

THE COUNTY board also deferred action on a request by George D. Suthers, 635 West Hillcrest toad, Palatine, to change to Suthers Lane the name of a street meeting Lake-Cook road between Barrington Woods and Englund's subdivision. Only six neighbors besides Suthers have signed the petition, out of 16 property owners on the street, less than a majority.

His condition is good after the amputation of the tip of the left middle finger. The child also had skin grafts to repair a laceration on the finger.

Stitches were taken in the finger of William Formuse, 39, of Roselle, who was injured in a power mower. Also victim of a power mower is Roger Fredrickson, 39, of Arlington Heights.

Fall Is Distemper Time; Vaccinate Young Dogs

Cold, damp fall weather triggers the distemper virus that kills roughly 70 per cent of the unvaccinated dogs it attacks.

This toll is unnecessary according to University of Illinois veterinarian Dr. Erwin Small. Vaccination against distemper is nearly 90 per cent effective, and it usually lasts the dog's lifetime.

Distemper commonly attacks young dogs. Puppies are likely to contract the disease before reaching one year of age. For this reason Dr. Small recommends taking a puppy to a veterinarian when it is two months old.

The veterinarian may vaccinate at that time or take a Normograph test. By indicating the amount of natural immunity the puppy received from its mother, the test tells the best time to vaccinate.

MATURE DOGS as well as puppies can catch distemper while in good health. Injuries, parasites or too little food, however, may lower an animals resistance to the distemper virus.

Natural infection results from direct or indirect contact with a dog that has distemper or that is a carrier of the disease. Because some animals recover, veterinarians recommend testing females before breeding and whelping to show the degree of immunity they might give to newborn pups.

Some distemper vaccines provide a three-in-one protection, Dr. Small said. They protect the puppy against hepatitis and leptospirosis as well as distemper.

FROM SHERWOOD

Back from a week in New York, Amy Fellingham, 1145 N. Patton, reports she had a lovely time visiting friends and seeing several plays there.

Last year's trip to Europe and the northern countries was so enjoyable for the Robert Fernstroms, 1219 Watling, that they decided to repeat the procedure this year and concentrated on the southern countries. They returned October 30 from a 2-month trip that included France, Germany, Switzerland, Austria and Italy. Sailing on the liner United States, they arrived in France picking up a car in Paris in which they toured the country.

They had no set itinerary and drove to the special places they wanted to see. Italy stands out in their memories, weather wise and scenery wise, especially the Italian Riviera. The Austrian, French and Italian Alps were gorgeous while they were there, however they found some of the passes closed because of snow. Coming home on the same ocean liner, they had plenty of time to relive their trip.

SATURDAY evening the G. A. Martins, 1409 N. Yale, went to the scouting banquet at the high school given for the leaders in the Blackhawk district. The program included a surprise for Mr. Martin. He received an award for the Explorer leader who had gone the 100th mile--an honor he wasn't expecting.

A welcome is extended to the Eugene Lepkowski family who have moved to 1345 N. Yale from Dearborn, Mich. The move came about when the Square D company, for whom Mr. Lepkowski works, transferred their offices to Park Ridge. Three children help complete their family: Jim, 12, and Tom, 11, both at South Junior High, and Carol, 8, at Ridge school.

From the many farewell parties given the E. J. Kuhnheims, 1111 N. Yale, it is clear that nobody wanted to see them move to Lexington, Ky., last week. Mr. Kuhnheim was transferred there, however they will be greatly missed by their friends and neighbors here.

BECAUSE KAREN will be 12 this month and her sister, Diane, 10, their parents, the Richard Oldenburgs, 1315 Watling, had a double celebration for them Sunday. The family went to the Ice Follies and then had dinner.

The George Thiemans, 1122 N. Patton, have been enjoying a 10-day visit from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Thieman of Aurora, Ind.

Jeannie DeWilde had an after the game supper Saturday night for 28 friends. After supper the girls rounded up their decorated socks and headed for the sock hop at South Junior High, where the whole group had a wonderful time. Jeannie is the daughter of the R. N. DeWildes, 1102 Burgoyne.

For two weeks, the Frank Sulleys, 1117 Watling, have been enjoying a visit from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sulley of Laurelton, N. J.

FROM RIDGE PARK

Sunday evening Virginia and Jack Bartik, 643 N. Kaspar, joined Barbara and Frank Kieca at the Scout dinner at the high school. Jack is assistant scoutmaster at St. James.

Although Johnny Lauer's second birthday fell on election day, he had a family party Saturday evening while his grandparents, the Gene Mestons of Indianapolis, were here. The Jim Mestons and their children also joined the party for Johnny, and after singing "happy birthday to you" they watched him blow out the two candles on the wooden train atop his cake. Johnny is the son of Joyce and Jim Lauer, 1020 N. Kennicott.

It took four celebrations to get Paul Nystrom through his eighth birthday completely. Paul, son of Betty and Walter Nystrom, 1615 Oakton, was 8 Wednesday and took a treat to school for his classmates. That evening there was a family party for him; Friday, after school he invited several school and neighbor friends to a bang-up party of ice cream, cake, games and prizes; and Saturday evening he finished celebrating with another family party, this one a dinner party.

Friends and neighbors of the Gene Loughrins, 1302 N. Kennicott, extend their sympathy in the sudden death of her father Halloween night.

THREE WEEKS ago Mr. and Mrs. Richard Surrette moved to 1004 N. Kaspar from Leominster, Mass. They have two children, Rickey, 1½, and Barbara Jean, 3 months.

Saturday evening the Bruce Nelsons, 1415 W. Oakton, attended a surprise 25th wedding anniversary dinner for his brother and sister-in-law. For the occasion, another brother and sister-in-law, Mel and Vivian Lemmerhirt came down from Sault Sainte Marie, Mich., with their son, while their daughter came down from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Many Ridge Parkers will remember the Lemmerhirts who lived here until five years ago.

Sunday in St. James church, Mary Dee Heinz was baptized by Father Lane. Joanne and Joe Heinz, 906 N. Patton, are the parents of Mary Dee and for her baptism, Joe's sister, Mrs. Suzanne Ryan, and his brother, Dr. John Heinz, were godparents. A dinner for 16 at home afterward celebrated the occasion.

Anne and Jim Christensen, 725 N. Patton, had her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hansen, for dinner Sunday to celebrate Mrs. Hansen's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cooley, 901 N. Princeton, packed a good deal in their recent trip to New York and Boston. They stopped in New York first, where they saw the French musical "Irma La Douce" and visited the United Nations before taking a train to Boston. The Financial Public Relations association convention was being held in Boston and the Colleys were representatives; however, they did have one afternoon free with busses available to the group to take them sightseeing around Boston, including such places of interest as the Old North church, Harvard and Old Ironsides.

Wednesday evening, Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops orchestra came in to play for them and the following evening the program was entirely different. Al Capp of comic strip fame was the main speaker and was just as amusing as the characters he has made famous.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD Wheeler, 714 W. Elm, are parents of a son born October 24 in Lutheran General hospital. They named their second child David Joel. He has a sister, Linda, 12. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R. Mueller of Des Plaines and Mr. and Mrs. N. Wheeler of Roselle. This is the sixth great grandchild of Mrs. Wheeler's grandfather, Jack Andrews of Chicago.

Susie LeBeau had every right to be just as excited as the bride at the wedding of her cousin in Villa Park a week ago Saturday. Attired in white fur hat and muff to complete her junior bridemaid's outfit, Susie had her first experience as a member of a bridal party and she liked it. The reception in Hillside included dancing, which meant Susie danced with her uncles and she liked that part of the wedding too. The whole family turned out for the wedding, staying at nearby motels and having breakfast together the following morning, making it something like a family reunion. Susie is the daughter of the Jack LeBeaus, 906 N. Yale.

Sunday, Bette and Ray Howes, 945 N. Kaspar, attended the retail grocers' cocktail party and luncheon at the Sherman hotel. (A

Diabetes Is Top Disease Challenge

Diabetes ranks seventh in the list of causes of death by disease. It is a chronic condition which develops when the body cannot use some of the food you eat, especially sugars and starches. Unless properly treated, it can be fatal.

It is estimated that there are more than 2,500,000 diabetics in the United States, and that almost half that number are unaware that they have the ailment. In other words, one person in about every 70 in this country is diabetic.

Diabetes is hereditary. Of the total population of the United States, one out of every four persons—or 45,000,000 persons—are believed to be diabetic "carriers." "Carriers" of diabetes are persons who are free of the condition themselves but who transmit the tendency to it.

THE USUAL signs of diabetes are increase in thirst, constant hunger, frequent urination, loss of weight, intense itching, easy tiring, pain in fingers and toes, changes in vision, and slow healing of cuts and bruises. However, diabetes may be present without any signs at all.

The people most susceptible to diabetes are those who are overweight, past 40, or related to diabetics. For a woman past 40, the chances of becoming diabetic are about 75 per cent higher than for a man. Diabetes, however, can strike anyone at any time. Cases are known of the disorder in a nine-day old boy and in a 99 year old woman.

Diabetes can be controlled by diet, exercise, and when necessary, by insulin. In some older and milder diabetics, recently developed oral tablets seem to be effective in reducing blood sugar levels. However, such compounds do not eliminate the need for dietary restrictions.

Neglect of the condition may lead to development of complications, the most serious of which are heart disease, failing eyesight, hardening of the arteries, kidney disorders, gangrene, cerebral hemorrhage, or diabetic coma.

IN THE Chicago area, there are 30,000 people who are diabetic but who do not realize it. And it is to find these people that the Chicago Diabetes association will conduct an intensified drive during Diabetes Week, November 13-19, using as its theme the slogan: 'Detection Is Your Protection.'

Free tests to alert, not alarm, these hidden diabetics, will be offered in cooperation with hospitals and health agencies throughout the Chicago area during Diabetes Week. Lutheran General hospital, through its Service League, is setting up pharmacies in the hospital's service area as collection centers. The urine samples will be tested at the hospital which also will serve as a collection center.

The results, which are confidential, will be mailed at no charge by the hospital to the person submitting the sample. Newly discovered diabetics are urged to see their physicians. With prompt detection and the proper medical care, a diabetic almost always can continue to lead a normal and productive life.

All 20 scouts in troop 559 participated in their first overnight last month when the group camped at Camp Pine. The girls followed an onion trail and hiked through the woods on a sign trail. Evening activities were highlighted by attending a special authentic Indian program presented by a tribe from Wisconsin. The scouts were accompanied by Mrs. Burke, Mrs. Haut, Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. McDade.

MANY TROOPS have celebrated Halloween with parties. Costumed parties were enjoyed by troop 557 led by Mrs. Duffy, Mrs. Jewell and Mrs. O'Rourke. Brownies in troop 708 made paper sack masks at their party. Masks were also made by members of troop 139 and Terry Lederleitner's was judged the best.

Troop 708 and its leaders, Mrs. Prochaska and Mrs. Rives, met at South church last month and planted tulip bulbs to beautify the church grounds. This was in appreciation for the use of their meeting room.

An outing at Deer Grove was an October meeting for troop 543. Accompanied by leaders, Mrs. West and Mrs. Shaw, the scouts cooked out and hiked.

Fifth graders in troop 557 had their first over night last month at Camp Pine. Mrs. Duffy and Mrs. Tangney are the troop leaders. The scouts also celebrated their troop birthday last month and at the same time observed the birthday of Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scouts.

By 11:30 a.m. cooking of three one-pot meals was underway, and apples were baked in foil for dessert. After clean-up, fires were put out, and everyone was ready for a leaf hunt and hike to the dam.

WORKING IN pairs, the girls were each given a list of six trees, and had to find and identify leaves from each. When they returned at 2:20 p.m. the flag was taken down and possessions gathered up; the girls returned to Busse school.

LUTHERANS BELIEVE...

Jesus Christ is the absolute paradox.

. . . and that's not just a lot of fancy words! It says something about God and man.

We'll begin with the term paradox. The word comes from the Greek para, meaning "contrary" and dokein, meaning "what is seen." Hence, a paradox is something that is contrary to what is seen.

For example, did you ever put a straight stick into a stream of water and have it appear to be bent? That's a paradox—contrary to what you see (a bent stick) you know the stick to be straight.

Or, have you ever sat in a train, looked out the window at the adjacent train and thought you were moving, only to find that it was the adjacent train that was doing the moving? That, too, is a paradox, a paradox that can be explained.

But an absolute paradox is one that cannot be explained.

Such a paradox occurs in Jesus Christ, who, when looked at, looked like any other man, yet claimed, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." Nobody can explain how Jesus can be man and God.

Lutherans believe that He is an absolute paradox. And either a man believes Jesus Christ is what He claims, or . . . charges Him with being an imposter.

The twenty-six Northwest Suburban Lutheran congregations invite you to worship with them next Sunday

Election Day Deadline Harasses Sidelights Reporter

If a landslide of errors appears here and an account of the (birthday) party of your choice reads like a political rally, let's blame it all on the election. At this writing, deadline, noon election day, the final outcome is still unknown and for some reason this correspondent is having trouble concentrating on local news. Monday's would-be social reports revealed, however, that nearly everyone had the same problem.

Visitors last week in the Frederick Westfall home, 843 S. Highland, were Mrs. Westfall's sister and nephews, Mrs. George Richter, Norman and Larry of Twin Lakes, Wis.

Clifford Peeke was eight years old Monday and celebrated a day early at a family party in the Peeke home, 13 S. Ridge. Bringing congratulations from Chicago were his grandparents, the senior Peekes and the M. E. Huhnkes.

MRS. ROBERT Sullivan, her son and Uncle Sam recently fouled up one another's plans to the extent that Mrs. Sullivan arrived on the west coast for a 2-week visit just in time to hear that son, Terry, was leaving for home on a 2-week furlough.

Mrs. Sullivan cut short her stay in Santa Monica with her daughter and family, the Douglas Johnsons, and had an abbreviated two days with Terry at home, 823 N. Walnut. The westward-ho trend was continued as Terry left here, heading for Tacoma and then Mom unwound with a "why parents turn grey" sigh.

Mrs. Orma O'Berry of Lansing left here Sunday after a 2-week visit in the home of her son John, 733 S. Mitchell. Her first week was spent in the company of her grandchildren while Mom and Dad were in New Orleans on a combined business and pleasure trip. The family circle was complete for the second week of her stay.

MR. AND MRS. R. E. Harlin returned to their home in Minneapolis last Wednesday after a 2-week visit with their daughter and family, the Howard Hansens, 730 S. Mitchell. Any time of the year is a fine time for family visits and Barbara's 10th Halloween birthday made the Harlins' current stay a just-right occasion.

Mrs. Joseph Ottengheime was the guest-of-honor Friday night at a farewell party in the Earl Schmidt home, 724 S. Chestnut, where 15 neighborhood friends enjoyed a final get-together. The Ottengheime household will soon be moved from 722 S. Chestnut to Charles City, Iowa and getting special attention in the moving will be the lamp presented to the honor guest Friday night as a gift of remembrance from her local friends.

Party co-hostesses were Mrs. Richard Graczyk, Mrs. George Hawkins and Mrs. Quentin Nagel.

NANCY GRABOW, 1201 N. Mitchell, was hostess Sunday afternoon at a luncheon for 12 in celebration of her ninth birthday. Hunting for hidden gifts after lunch was fun, but even better was the doll-dressing session afterwards. Each girl received a little celluloid doll, a quantity of crepe paper, lace and ribbons and instructions to "go to it."

The dozen fashion designers went swiftly, almost silently to work and amazed even themselves with their creative genius. Sunday evening supper guests, Grandmother Grabow and Uncle Ray Marshall and family, added their congratulations at the second installment of Nancy's "it's fine to be nine" celebration.

Helmar Adam, 510 N. Evergreen, returned early last week from a 3-week vacation in southern California that featured lots of boating with Hermosa Beach friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Laster, 742 S. Walnut, are home again after a month in Europe that combined business and pleasure. They visited the capitol cities in most of free Europe and enjoyed the hospitality of London, Geneva, Paris, Rome and Berlin. They also toured the city of Stuttgart which reflects the general prosperity of Western Germany and is in such strong contrast to the Eastern Zone.

THE HOWARD Stiefenhoefers returned home to 926 S. Vail early last week after a relaxing week at the Spring Mill Inn in French Lick.

The recent return from Virginia of the Earl Rileys heralded the beginning of an almost-quiet time at 738 S. Mitchell, the first in many weeks. Before their extended stay in Roanoke on a business matter, they had relaxed for a week at the family cottage on Lac LaBelle in Oconomowoc, Wis. and that week of restful therapy had followed the September marriage of their daughter Laurie to Tom Gore.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gore of Menlo Park, Cal., former Arlington Heighters and longtime friends of the Rileys, shared the well-earned week of repose at the lakeside cottage. They left for the west coast immediately upon the return from Wisconsin with the Rileys, and the Rileys began preparations for the trip east. Since coming home from Roanoke Mr. and Mrs. Riley weekended in Oconomowoc to winter-condition the cottage and were accompanied by Mr. Riley's mother and her friend, Mrs. Lillian Anderson who are vacationing there this week.

The quiet time, comparatively speaking, won't last long enough to get monotonous. Thanksgiving is practically here and then the newlyweds, both students at Kansas university, will quite likely be here for a holiday family reunion.

MRS. RICHARD Whitson and Debby, 834 N. Walnut, spent the pre-Halloween weekend in London, Ohio, visiting Mrs. Whitson's father, E. P. Speasmaker, and other relatives. Their trip was prompted by the homecoming festivities of the local high school of which Mrs. Whitson is a graduate. Her niece, Sandy Speasmaker, was in the court of the homecoming queen and it was an especially nostalgic time for Mrs. Whitson, recalling her own former reign as homecoming queen.

Mrs. Irving Ellefsen, 1221 S. Prairie, came home Sunday from Northwest Community hospital where she underwent surgery the week before.

WEEKEND GUESTS of the Jack Musichs, 403 N. Chestnut, were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Glavan, Mr. and Mrs. Hank Strukel and Mr. Musich's parents, the Nick Musichs, all of Milwaukee. Thy were here especially for the "Night of Harmony" presentation of the local barbershop singers whose president is the Musichman of 403 N. Chestnut.

Thirty-two local, Chicago, Elk Grove and Medinah family members were guests October 30 in the Richard Dolan home, 434 S. Dunton, at a triple celebration of a christening, a communion and a birthday. The family gathering followed the christening of the host couple's infant son, Donald, in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church of Arlington Heights.

The same day Nancy Dolan, daughter of the Earl Dolans of Medinah, observed her first communion and both christening and communion were on the third birthday of Nancy's younger sister Gale. Adding their blessings and congratulations to the 3-way occasion were the paternal grandparents of the three children, the senior Earl Dolans of Arlington Heights; the maternal grandparents of the infant Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seigler of Chicago; Nancy's and Gale's maternal grandparents, the S. Seligmans of Elk Grove and the infant's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton White of Chicago.

AN ACUTE infection of her news-notes-taking hand sent Paddock's Stonegate correspondent, Elsie Jedd, to the local hospital for treatment Monday. This in turn caused the acute shortage of Scarsdale-Stonegate news this week. The prognosis is good, however, for Elsie's hand as well as next week's news coverage.

The John D. Sullivans and William Carnes were hosts a week ago Sunday evening at a pre-concert buffet for 46 in the Sullivan home, 211 Stratford. Hosts and guests then attended the Community Concert at the Arlington high school, featuring Ivan Davis, pianist. Mr. Davis and a few friends returned to the Sullivan home after the concert for late evening refreshments and relaxation.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson, 635 S. Beverly, returned Saturday after a 4-day round of business conventions in Dayton and Cincinnati.

SIXTEEN neighborhood friends of Mrs. Walter Kellin, 105 S. Stratford, honored her a week ago Tuesday night at a baby shower given by Mrs. Lee Kiesig and Mrs. Robert Kramer in the Kiesig home, 1709 Kensington. If the new little Kellin is right on schedule there'll be a Thanksgiving birthday at the Kellin household.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barton, 321 Windsor, are home again after a business-plus-vacation trip to Florida and the Bahamas. They attended a convention at the Americana hotel in Miami Beach, then went on the vacation part of their nine-day trip.

The H. W. Colburns, 535 S. Burton, weekended in Cedar Rapids to attend the Parents days activities of Coe college where their daughter, Marilyn, is in her sophomore year.

VISITING with Iowa friends and duck hunting pleasantly filled the latter part of last week for the Ian MacLachlans, 1230 Woodford. They left here Wednesday for Maquoketa where they were guests of the Allan Kecks, then visited with the M. A. Nordstroms in Burlington. The Burlington vicinity provided duck hunting possibilities which the men pursued semi-successfully.

Chicago area visitors last week were the William Bowens of Providence, R. I., friends of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bredehoft, 201 Wilshire. Monday evening the Bowens were dinner guests of the Bredehofts in the Edgewater Beach hotel and enjoyed with their hosts the late evening performance of the Kim sisters in the Polynesian room of the hotel.

Mitchell Peterson is a visitor this week in the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kussow, 1203 Woodford, while his dad is in Wisconsin on business. Mitch and his father flew here from their home in New York Tuesday. Today the Kussows and their young visitor are in Neenah, Wis. while Mr. Kussow attends a sales meeting. Mitch will visit with his dad, then return here until the end of the week and the return flight to the east.

Washington st. in Chicago. Mr. Witwer, candidate for U. S. Senator, is the Cullison's brother - in - law. Guests also at headquarters were Mr. and Mrs. George Coburn, Mrs. Cullison's sister and brother-in-law from Gary. New Tests for Village Jobs

An exhaustive testing service has been put to use for the hiring of key village personnel, it was announced this week by Arlington Heights Village Manager L. A. Hanson.

In order to determine the psychological suitability of applicants and to pinpoint their aptitudes, Hanson explained, the village has begun to use the services of The Personnel Laboratory, LeRoy N. Vernon and associates, of Chicago.

"A week ago the laboratory tested two applicants for the position of building commissioner," the manager noted. "When we receive the test results, we'll know which man is best for the job."

Hanson said job applicants are first interviewed by village officers, who compare results and eventually narrow the field to two contestants. The survivors are then dispatched to the laboratory for testing.

"THIS IS A much more efficient manner of selecting those being considered for key positions," Hanson said. Described as key positions were the offices of chief of police, fire chief, superintendent of public works, civil engineer, village attorney and others.

Tests vary with different jobs. For example, a candidate for engineer will be given a stiff mechanics test, an applicant for finance director a rigorous mathematics examination.

Hanson pointed out there is a morale factor involved too. "When an applicant is awarded a job now," he said, "he knows he earned it on his merits.

"TOO OFTEN good talkers with convincing manners are hired and found to be lacking when it comes to performance. This testing service nearly eliminates that danger."

The name of the village's next building commissioner will be disclosed in the near future, the manager said.

NIXON-LODGE campaigners (left) and men from outer space were among 350 children who attended the second annual costume parade October 29 under the sponsorship of the Hasbrook Civic association. Panel to Discuss Churches Role in Expanding Suburbia

Where does the church fit into rapidly growing suburbia?

This weighty question and others will be discussed Saturday evening when representatives of Arlington Heights churches and civic organizations join in a unique inter-faith panel discussion.

The discussion, under the sponsorship of the Tri-S club of the First Methodist church of Arlington Heights, will be held in the Methodist church, 903 E. Euclid ave., beginning at 8 p.m.

Topic for discussion is "Suburbia Challenges the Church." The non-sectarian, community affair will include representatives of the First Methodist, St. John United Church of Christ, First Presbyterian church, and Faith Lutheran church of Arlington Heights, Rev. Edgar Behrens, pastor.

PANELISTS will include Dr. Hughes B. Morris, pastor of First Methodist; Rev. Robert McDonald, pastor of St. John; and Rev. George Kincheloe, associate pastor of First Presbyterian.

Also on the panel will be Maurice English, juvenile officer of the Arlington Heights police department; Charles Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, and Frank Palmatier, moderator and member of the sponsoring club.

According to William Griffin, club president, the panel marks the first time members of the various denominations have joined together to discuss common problems. The public is heartily invited to attend.

"This discussion is the beginning of an attempt to try to find the answers to several important questions facing the churches of suburbia," Griffin indicated. "We feel the churches are a good place from which to start this type of discussion."

TOPICS TO be covered by the panel include the factors of suburban life which challenge the church, social problems of the church, strengths and weaknesses of the church, and individual and group contributions to the church. (A

Large Crowd Jams 'Night of Harmony'

A record-breaking crowd of over 1,500 Saturday night jammed the Arlington high school gymnasium to hear the tenth annual Night of Harmony presentation of the Arlingtones, Arlington Heights chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

A well-balanced program of song and comedy provided what is considered to be the finest offering of the chapter to date. Area 11 champions themselves, the Arlingtones engaged three additional championship groups to add to the evening's musical menu.

FROM MINNEAPOLIS came the Hut Four, Land O'Lakes district winners and international semi-finalists; there were the Dunesmen of Gary, Ind., Indiana-Kentucky district champions, the Mid-States Four of Chicago.

Encores demanded of these three quartets kept the songfest going overtime until the "Keep America Singing" finale rang down the final curtain.

The show opened with the Arlingtones, toga-clad and solemn-faced, appearing in a satire of early Roman empire days, circa 49 B.C., when Caesar's army prepared to battle the barbarians to regain their Goddess of Love, Venus.

The script was by Lou Behrle, the setting, complete with bubbling fountains and marble pillars, was by Jack Musich and Len Straub. The costuming by Gene Loughrin, Len and Alice Klaproth. Easy-going patter led quite naturally into the close-harmony singing of such ancient Roman favorites as "Little Lize" and "Hard Hearted Hannah," with Miss Annette Schroeder as Venus in an adept dance interpretation of H. H. Hannah.

THE HUT FOUR followed the grand opening number, providing a fine balance of subtle comedy and barber-shop singing in its purest form. They were followed by the Arlingtones, under the direction of Earl Auge, singing "Dear Little Girl" and "How You Gonna Keep 'Em Down On The Farm," the two renditions which won them the area 11 championship early this year.

The Dunesmen and the Mid-States Four next added their musical dishes to the menu with the international champions offering everything from soup to nuts, with emphasis on the latter.

After the last encore and before the finale, Earl Auge introduced local chapter president, the aptly-named Jack Musich, and others whose time, talent and effort had gone into the night's production. Special recognition was given Harold Henry, longtime director of the chapter whose health demanded his resignation last year. (ACM

Auto, Dog License Applications Set

In an effort to increase efficiency and add to residents' convenience, the village of Arlington Heights will soon mail to all homes applications for both vehicle and dog licenses.

Tom DeRiemer, village finance officer, predicted this week the application blanks will be in the mail sometime between November 15 and 20.

Applications for village vehicle stickers have been mailed in previous years, but this is the first time applications will be sent to dog owners.

DeRIEMER explained dog license applications are also being mailed to all homes because of the high cost of preparing a special mailing list of dog owners. The dog applications will give dog owners early notice and enable them to avoid paying penalties, the finance director noted.

Village ordinances say every dog owned, kept, or harbored in the village must be licensed. Evidence of rabies inoculation must also be demonstrated.

These licenses will be sold through the mail beginning December 1, and will not be sold over the counter at the village hall until December 15. Licenses for vehicles and dogs are valid January 1 through December 31.

Infant Has 28 Adopted Mothers

SANDRA GOOSS SLEEPS through it all, but senior scouts are mighty interested in the baby they adopted in honor of the 100th anniversary of the founder of Girl scouting, Juliette Low. Honoring Sandra with gifts are (l. to r.) Karen Stitt, Arlington Heights, Trudy Totten, Palatine, and Ann Eueing, Arlington Heights. The girls are three of 28 scouts in troop 32 who will help take care of Sandra until she is 12. The baby is held by her mother Mrs. Otto Gooss, Mt. Prospect.

When Sandra Joanne Gooss came home from the hospital Sunday, she came home with one mother. She has acquired 28 "adopted" ones, however.

Sandra's 28 adopted mothers are members of Senior scout troop 32, Arlington Heights. Girls in the service troop decided to do special work for a baby born October 31 because this is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Girl Scouting's founder, Juliette Low.

Because Sandra is so small now, the scouts figured she probably wouldn't appreciate coming home to 28 new mothers, so two scouts were chosen to present her birthday gifts. Among them are a scrapbook of the troop's activities and a cradle tree made out of tiny walnut shells hung on tree branches.

IN ADDITION, the scouts will babysit for Sandra and her older brother. The baby will also receive a birthday and Christmas present every year until she is 12. At that time, she will be able to decide whether she would like to be a scout and senior scouts of troop 32 will be able to adopt another baby.

Sandra's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gooss, 400 S. See Gwun, Mt. Prospect. She was born at Northwest Community hospital Monday, October 31 at 3:01 a. m., 16 minutes after her mother arrived at Northwest. The baby's birthweight was 5 pounds, 10 ounces.

MATERNAL grandparents are the Raymond DeKimples, formerly of Maywood, now of Mt. Prospect. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. Gooss, Hensenville, N. Y.

More than one-third of the members of troop 32 have met together since their Brownie scout days in second grade. Their leader is Mrs. Thomas E. Matthews. Assistant leaders are Miss Cheryl Klein and Mrs. Charles Jenks.

Now in high school, the girls hope to serve as candy-stripers in the hospital when they are old enough. The troop meets at the First Methodist church.

Cross Country Trip Ends in Jail Cell

Edwin Jacobi took a long trip to end up in a jail cell.

The trip was to California. The cell is in Orange county jail, Santa Anna, Calif., where he is being held in technical custody for Illinois authorities.

Responsible for his capture are two alert women, tireless police work in Arlington Heights, and "fabulous cooperation" from police authorities in Alhambra, Cal.

Jacobi is wanted for trial on charges of fraud in Rolling Meadows. A felony charge (for skipping the Rolling Meadows. bond) also awaits Jacobi when he is brought back to Illinois.

In addition he is wanted on three charges of fraud for several blacktop jobs which he failed to complete.

A BONDING company also wants Jacobi for flight to avoid justice, and he is still a fugitive from justice from New Jersey where he violated probation.

The story of how he landed in the California jail goes to the city of Alhambra where the Jacobis tried to rent property from Mrs. Pat Luston. They gave a ficticious name. Mrs. Luston smelled a fish.

The landowner noticed a bill from Northwest Community hospital, Arlington Heights It bore the Jacobis' true name. Trying to check their credit reference, she called the hospital.

Bookkeeper Mrs. Jean Block said, "I think they are wanted by our police department. You had better check with them."

Mrs. Luston's second phone call to Arlington Heights, this time to the police department, brought jubilation to deskman Roger Kirchway who could hardly believe his ears. "Yes, we want him. Hang on to him."

KIRCHWAY then notified Patrolman Maurice English, who has "lived" with the Jacobis, trying to uncover their activities in the Northwest suburbs. English was even more ecstatic.

Authorities and bondsmen have been looking for the blacktop contractor and alleged bogus check passer since October 15, when the family disappeared from their rented apartment in Arlington Heights.

English called the Alhambra police. "Just pick him up for us," he said. On the basis of the phone call, the Alhambra authorities went to work. They had Jacobi even before a telegram arrived to confirm English's story and give his credentials.

"We had fabulous cooperation from their department," English said. "A phone call 2,500 miles away accomplished more than we can often get from the next town."

AND THAT WOMAN at the hospital (Mrs. Block); she is sharp," he added. "Police work is often 90 per cent luck, and this time we were lucky, thanks to Mrs. Luston, Mrs. Block, and the Alhambra police."

English estimates that by now between $20,000 and $30,000 is involved in Jacobi's Northwest suburban activities. This includes at least a dozen checks that have bounced, money taken for blacktop jobs that were never delivered, and rent and wages he owes.

Newest additions to bogus check complaints from citizens concern six checks cashed by the National Tea company which has also been working to track down the man. Five of the checks total $135; one, $134.

Three persons in Wood Dale, DuPage county, have signed complaints for blacktop down payments with no work received. They paid $60, $75, and $90 each.

ONE OF JACOBI'S workmen claims he has $300 in pay coming. Arlington Heights police are now awaiting proper papers and the funds to go to California to bring Jacobi and his wife back to Illlinois.

Justice of the peace Liston Pennington, who handled the first bad check complaint in Rolling Meadows and was responsible for gathering 15 persons who signed complaints against Jacobi for unfulfilled blacktop contracts, said that if Jacobi will waive extradition proceedings, charges of fraud signed in Des Plaines against Mrs. Jacobi will be dropped.

Pennington asks persons who have not yet signed complaints against the man to do so with their local police magistrate or justice of the peace. (A13

Item Appeal By Goodwill

Mrs. Frank J. Krettler of 114 N. Fairview, Mt. Prospect, local representative for Goodwill Industries of Chicago, has asked northwest suburban residents to donate repairable articles of clothing and household items to Goodwill.

Goodwill Industries, a non-profit organization, employs 500 handicapped men and women.

The workers are provided with the opportunity for employment, training in a trade or skill, and rehabilitation services.

Items contributed are repaired, refinished, and reconditioned by the handicapped in Goodwill training workshops.

THE REPAIRED items are sold in the six Goodwill Industries stores and the income from the sales pays the salaries of the handicapped employees.

Any area resident who can donate items to Goodwill Industries should contact Mrs. Krettler at CL 5-6664.

The Goodwill Industries representative will arrange to have the articles picked up from the homes and transported to the workshops. (B8

Understanding

We never understand how little we need in this world until we know the loss of it. -- James M. Barrie.

Navy Documentary Film To Be Shown Fri.

A navy department documentary film in sound and color will be shown Friday evening in Countryside Meeting House, Palatine, by Richard Schram, a representative of Chicago Aerial Industries, Barrington. The film, "A Summer Incident," depicts the events preceding and during the 1958 Lebanon crisis in the Mediterranean.

The film reveals for the first time, the events leading to the decision to land U. S. Marines in force on the shores of Beirut, starting with the meeting of the chief of naval operations advisory group in the highly secret plot room of the Pentagon, leading to scenes of carrier attack force flight and amphibious operation of Carrier Task Force Six.

OF PARTICULAR interest are the flights of reconnaissance aircraft from the carriers, during which colored films were taken by cameras mounted in the nose of the jet fighters on low level missions over the rolling terrain of Lebanon.

People at Chicago Aerial who have seen this film say the photography is exceptionally beautiful and is well worth seeing whether or not one is interested in reconnaissance as such. Chicago Aerial Industries is a pioneer in the field of aerial photography and is primarily concerned with the research, design, development and production of reconnaissance systems and allied avionics equipment.

MR. SCHRAM, a commander in the Naval Air Reserve, is an aeronautical engineer, a member of the Institute of Aeronautical Science, an Associate Fellow in the Institute of AeroSpace Sciences and a well known light plane stunt flyer who appears often with the Navy Blue Angel and the Air Force Thunderbird flight demonstration teams.

He is marketing manager at Chicago Aerial Industries, but is also known as the "flying professor" when, garbed in tuxedo tails and high hat, he performs at air shows throughout the country. Schram almost bends off the wings of Piper Cubs, putting them through rolls, loops, stalls, spins, bounces, and all of it seldom above 50 feet.

The armed forces reconnaissance is a timely, rather controversial subject of wide interest among thinking adults, said a spokesman. The public is invited to see this fim at Countryside Meeting House, Ela rd., south of Algonquin rd. Coffee and dessert will be served.

This Sunday, Donald Sweet will speak to Countryside Universalist Fellowship for the second time this fall. His topic will be "Cornerstones of Humanism." (A13

Volunteers For Dystrophy Fund

Marjan P. Staniec, president of the Greater Chicago chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy association has named Mrs. E. Oliver 618 E. Algonquin rd., Arlington Heights, as Far Northwest Suburban Area Coordinator for the annual Muscular Dystrophy Drive.

Nearly 25,000 Volunteer marchers will cover Chicago and suburbs on Sunday November 27.

Miss Fran Allison, TV celebrity, has overall charge of this drive for funds. Money collected is used for research, patient service, and clinical work for this disease for which there is no known cause or cure.

There is still need for volunteers to aid as marchers in Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Wheeling, Palatine, and Rolling Meadows. Volunteers should call HE 7-9537. (B8

Although the girls were selected weeks ago, the winners' names were kept secret until distribution of the 1960 year book, "The Hinakaga," took place this week.

Poor Little Texas

The number of farms in Texas has dropped to about 240,000 from a 1935 peak of 501,017.

Now is the last chance we will have to prepare lawns and plantings for winter. Proper attention to this will assure that everything will come through the winter in the best condition.

Lawns should be raked free of all fallen leaves. Leaves will smother grass below them leaving dead areas in the lawn. The grass should be cut to about two inches so that it will not become matted thus inviting disease.

Annual flowers should be pulled out of the beds as soon as they die, or should be dug under. Tender perennials and bulbs should be removed before the ground freezes solid. Be sure to cut back the dead tops of the hardy perennials and rake the rose beds free of fallen leaves. Some rose diseases can be eliminated this way, since they often overwinter on fallen leaves.

Secure the materials you will use to cover the rose plants. Half bushel baskets placed over the plants work quite nicely, or mound soil or peat moss up around the plants.

Evergreens, particularly newly planted ones, should be well watered before the ground freezes. These plants need water even in mid-winter because their leaves loose water every warm day.

Many people lose their chance for any early start in spring because of broken or lost equipment.

Mud and rust should be removed from all shovels, trowels, hoes, etc. Rust can be removed with a wire scratch brush or steel wool. After cleaning, sharpen the tools and wipe them with an oil rag to prevent further rusting.

ROUGH OR cracked handles can cause nasty blisters. Smooth rough spots with sandpaper and treat the handles with linseed oil. Replace cracked handles.

Sharpen your mower or have it sharpened. Clean grass clippings and oil from all parts with a brush and oil all moving parts. Adjust the blade to the proper height.

Gasoline engines should be drained of fuel and cleaned. Fuel left in the tank over winter can gum up the carburetor and fuel lines. Clean the air and fuel filters. Clean or replace the spark plug. Check moving parts and belts for wear. Replace worn parts which could cause a breakdown with heavy summer use.

Thoroughly clean all traces of fertilizer from your spreader, and oil the moving parts. Fertilizer bags should be stored off the floor, and open bags should be sealed to prevent caking.

DRAIN THE hose and hang it up dry on a hose reel, or store it on a round basket. Don't hang it on a hook or nail which might cause a sharp bend and possibly crack the hose. Replace worn washers.

Properly installed sill-cocks slope outward so they drain when turned off. Be sure all sill-cocks and outside taps are drained or are turned off inside the house.

If you do not already have one, now is a good time to build a tool rack. Hang your tools so you can find them when you need them. Tools lying on the floor can cause serious falls. Tools carelessly hung on nails or over rafters can fall on you.

At Iowa State

Linda Close, 534 S. Bristol, and Karla Hoshor, 825 N. Mitchell, both of Arlington Hts., are among the 32 coeds at the State University of Iowa who are members of the Seals club, women's synchoronized swimming organization. They were selected on the basis of their ability and skill in swimming strokes. Both are freshmen in the college of liberal arts.

Northwestern Frosh Are Brightest Ever

Casually walking across Northwestern university's campus with armloads of books—clad in crew sweaters and sneakers—they have adopted the protective coloring of their upperclass peers, and there are few noticeable signs that would betray their identity as freshmen.

The class of 1964 at Northwestern may look like average college students, but the record shows they are far above the norm.

The typical freshman at Northwestern was in the upper 10 per cent of his high school graduating class and has shown the maturity to balance effectively classwork and outside activities.

WILLIAM C. Reiley, director of admissions, affirms that this class of 1681 students has the highest academic average of any to be admitted to the university. Eighteen per cent have been exempted from freshman English, and approximately 25 per cent are scholarship students.

The freshman is likely to be affiliated, since his class also holds the record for the greatest number to rush and pledge sororities and fraternities. If not affiliated, he probably withdrew of his own choice.

Miss Patricia Thrash, dean of women, described the freshman sorority rushee as "very mature, more at ease, and more open-eyed about rushing. She evaluated the groups—their scholastic record, values, and ideals—and pledged the one she liked best, not necessarily a 'name' group or one to which she was a legacy."

The typical freshman is from a suburban community in a Metropolitan area. Nearby states supply a greater number of students, although representatives from all 50 states and 75 foreign countries are enrolled. Illinois takes the lead for the greatest number of students, followed by Ohio and Wisconsin.

Preferring a varied background of courses in addition to those in his particular field, the typical freshman is in the college of liberal arts and his major interest is premedicine or teaching. Close behind the future M.D.'s and teachers in the liberal arts college are aspiring research scientists, international diplomats, social scientists, lawyers, journalists, dramatists, and businessmen, in that order.

THE SIX other undergraduate schools include the technological institute, with the second highest enrollment, followed by business, speech, education, journalism, and music. Freshman men outnumber the women in tech and business, while there is female predominance in the remaining schools.

There's a 3-1 chance that the typical freshman will enter the same field as his parents. His vocational preferences will likely be teaching, medicine, or scientific research. Other top preferences include business, journalism, international relations, and law, in that order.

It is likely that the typical freshman is affiliated with a religious group, as are more than 90 per cent of his classmates.

MUSIC, RANGING from choral and orchestral participation to modern dance groups and musical comedy, is the favored extra-curricular activity of the typical freshman. Other major interests include journalistic writing, drama, and student government.

The freshmen are qualified and have the potential; what they will do remains to be seen. However, James McLeod, dean of students, states optimistically, "Most have come to college with a purpose, and an increasing number will go on to professional and graduate schools."

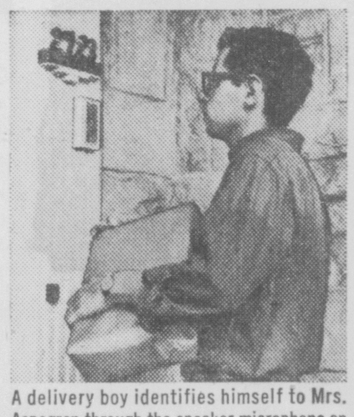
At Michigan

John R. Lacina, 1 S. Dryden place, Arlington Heights, has been pledged to Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity at University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. (CC

Mrs. Aspegren answers the front door by using the phone in the master bedroom.

Mrs. Aspegren says that Cynthia, 10, and Clifford, Jr. have no difficulty in operating the new Home Interphone.

Mr. Aspegren, an insurance executive, finds the basement recreation room speaker handy.



A delivery boy identifies himself to Mrs. Aspegren through the speaker-microphone on the front door.

"We've a fast-moving family—so thank goodness for our new HOME INTERPHONE!"

says Mrs. Clifford S. Aspegren of Evanston

Busy, bustling and happy is the Aspegren household at 2723 Woodland Road in Evanston. But sometimes Mrs. Aspegren isn't quite sure just where her two children are at one time. That's one reason why the Aspegrens have a new Home Interphone.

The Home Interphone is Illinois Bell's new intercom system which works through your regular telephones.

Separate speakers are installed next to the extension telephones. At the Aspegrens there are speakers located in the basement, the kitchen, the master bedroom, the upstairs hall and the downstairs hall.

There's also the special convenience of a speaker-microphone on the front door which can be answered from any phone in the house.

Mrs. Aspegren says: "You can't imagine how many steps a day the Home Interphone saves me. Or how many trips up and down the stairs. When I want to know where one of the children is, I just pick up the phone and talk to them most anywhere in the house. The Interphone is so simple, even my six year old uses it regularly."

Clifford, Jr., 6, is much easier to locate with the new speaker in the upstairs hall.

Drop in at your Illinois Bell business office and see the Home Interphone. You can try it and see how easy it is to use.

High School Reading Program Serves as Model of Projects

by HELENE BRISTOL

The ability to read is the keystone of learning. Contrary to popular opinion, the "ability to read" is not completed in the first and second grades—it should be a continuous process of learning and improving through elementary school and into the high school level.

Too often it is not.

The reading improvement program at Arlington-Prospect district 214 high schools is a model of what both remedial and developmental reading projects should be.

All entering freshmen while still in eighth grade are given standardized tests through the high school testing department. Based on the results of these tests, as well as the recommendations of the eighth grade teacher, new students are assigned to various English classes divided by ability groupings. Great flexibility is given at the start of the semester so that pupils can be shifted up or down ability-wise as experience shows necessary.

STUDENTS WHO score below 6.3 grade level are placed in remedial English. At the heart of the remedial English course is an individualized specific program which emphasizes reading improvement with as much regular English content as time permits.

Techniques used to raise the reading rate and comprehension level vary. Students practice with the tachistoscope to increase eye span, using vowels, consonants, blends, digits and phases. Another device used is the controlled reader films presented at a rate from 125 to 175 words per minute. Reading accelerators, geared to the students' reading speed, are used as individual helps in building speed.

Does the remedial program work? Tests repeated near the end of instruction in these remedial sections show an average class gain of 1½ to 2 years on the freshman, sophomore and junior levels.

JUST AS RAISING the reading ability of slow students is the key to understanding the balance of high school subjects, so is the concentrated increase in reading speed and comprehension for bright students. This is particularly important for students who plan to enter college, according to Alfred H. Snap, reading director of Arlington high school.

Snap has developed the reading improvement program for the high school district. He teaches two remedial English classes as well as working out reading-improvement programs for individual students. He supervises his reading laboratory—a modern classroom with 20 individual work booths each with reading accelerators. Two smaller conference-size rooms are used for tape-recording instructions for small groups and for reading-speed films.

ALL SENIOR students, particularly those slated to continue their education at the college level, are urged to undertake the reading improvement program. Approximately half of the senior students take advantage of this program.

Snap stresses everyone can improve his reading ability with proper practice and many students have improved their ability to cope with school studies. The laboratory instruction is strictly individual and frequency of attendance is geared to individual need. The instructions given are designed to make students better readers of all kinds of materials. Most senior students attend at least 20 lessons, but length of time spent in the laboratory will vary with the individual students' progress.

At the start of the developmental reading program diagnostic reading tests are given. Through test scores, Snap places students in the remedial, corrective or developmental level of the reading program.

Students rated at the remedial level concentrate on improving such basic reading skills as technique of word attack and analysis, as well as speed and comprehension.

Students who score above the seventy-fifth percentile in tests are eligible for the developmental program. Work with the reading accelerators is the main technique for thisprove "it can be done."

TWENTY BOOTHS with reading accelerators are used for individualized study, the "heart" of the Arlington developmental reading program. Much emphasis is placed on achieving greater reading speed and comprehension, particularly for the many seniors slated to attend college. The increased reading ability serves as a study aid in all subjects in addition to making reading more enjoyable. Arlington Reading Director Alfred Snap here explains the working of the accelerator to students Judy Roeske (standing) and Diane Fox.

A LESSON IN study techniques, including note taking, is undertaken by Pete Dougan, Diane Fox, Judy Roeske and Mary Anne Klabe. The tape-recording machine, with individual ear phones, is used for reading-improvement study and assistance in comprehension advancement in the highly individualized reading development program of Arlington high school. (B-8

PETE DOUGAN, son of Mr. and Mrs Kenneth Dougan of Arlington Heights, is a picture of complete concentration as he checks his reading speed and comprehension with a special illuminated text set at speed of 400 words per minute. Arlington high school reading director Alfred Snap operates the machine, one of the many devices used to increase reading ability for students of the school.

Realty Sign Rule Put in Ordinance

The regulation of advertising real estate signs in subdivisions was included in text amendments to the new comprehensive zoning ordinance for unincorporated areas which were submitted to the county board this week by Zoning Administrator Daniel Ferrone.

The proposal on signs was that they shall be "only for purpose of identification, sale, or rental of homes," shall not exceed two in number nor 200 square feet in area, nor be located closer than 50 feet to any of the property lines of the property on which placed. Neither shall they be more than 15 feet above the curb level, nor remain more than two years after issuance of a permit.

ANOTHER regulation submitted provided for forwarding of plans providing for 100 or more new parking spaces by the zoning administrator to the superintendent of highways to obtain approval on whether egress and ingress is adequate to allow safe and efficient vehicular access, as well as minimizing interference with traffic movements on adjacent highways. The Highway department must return the plans within 15 days with his recommendation.

A third subject was allowing of lot size reductions by the Zoning Board of Appeals where portions of a property have been condemned for public use.

All the proposals were referred to the zoning board of appeals for report back to the county board. (B3

Cadillac

Some secrets its owner can't keep!

We wouldn't go so far as to say that your life is an open book when you're seen in the company of a new Cadillac car.

But we will admit that at least a few of the pages have been turned.

For a Cadillac indicates—with unmistakable clarity and eloquence—the virtues that lead a man to the "car of cars".

Beautiful, distinctive and substantial—it reflects his personal achievements . . . and reveals what he has made of his years.

Gracious, spacious and luxurious—it denotes his desire for comfort . . . and his concern for the well-being of his family and passengers.

Practical, sound, and desired—it evidences his good judgment . . . and his awareness of true value and quality.

And if a Cadillac has historically cast such credit on its owner—how much more grandly it will do so in 1961!

For the car now offers more of everything to inspire the admiration and respect of those who behold it.

Its styling is graceful as never before. Its interiors are remarkably generous in every dimension. And its performance and ride make every journey a miracle of motion.

You ought to inspect and drive this 1961 Cadillac before the week is out.

We wager you'll quickly see the wisdom of letting the "car of cars" reveal a few discreet secrets about you.

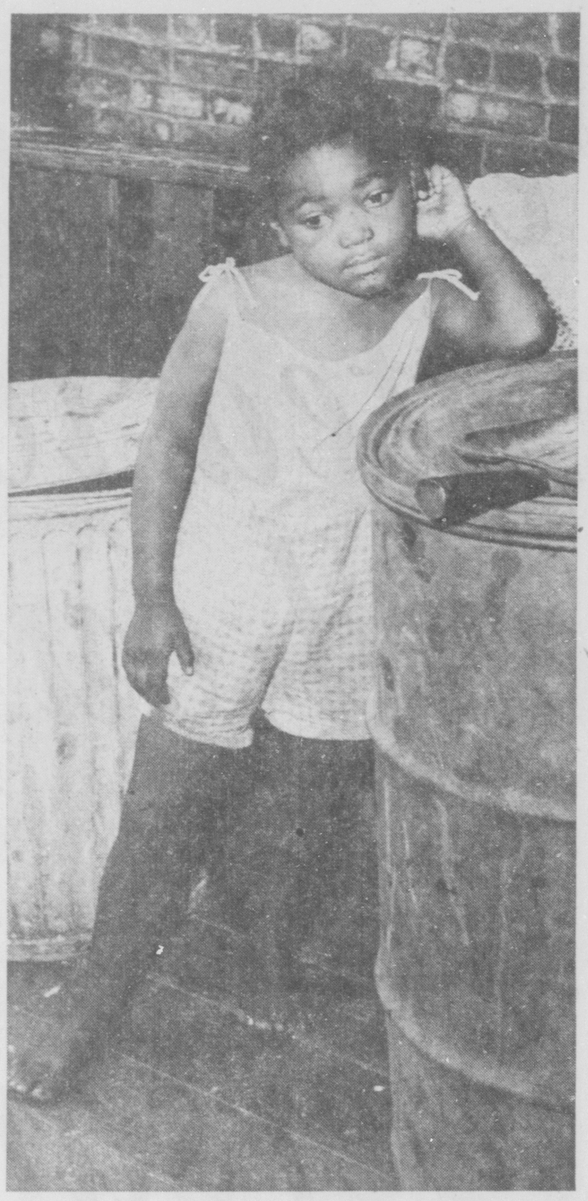
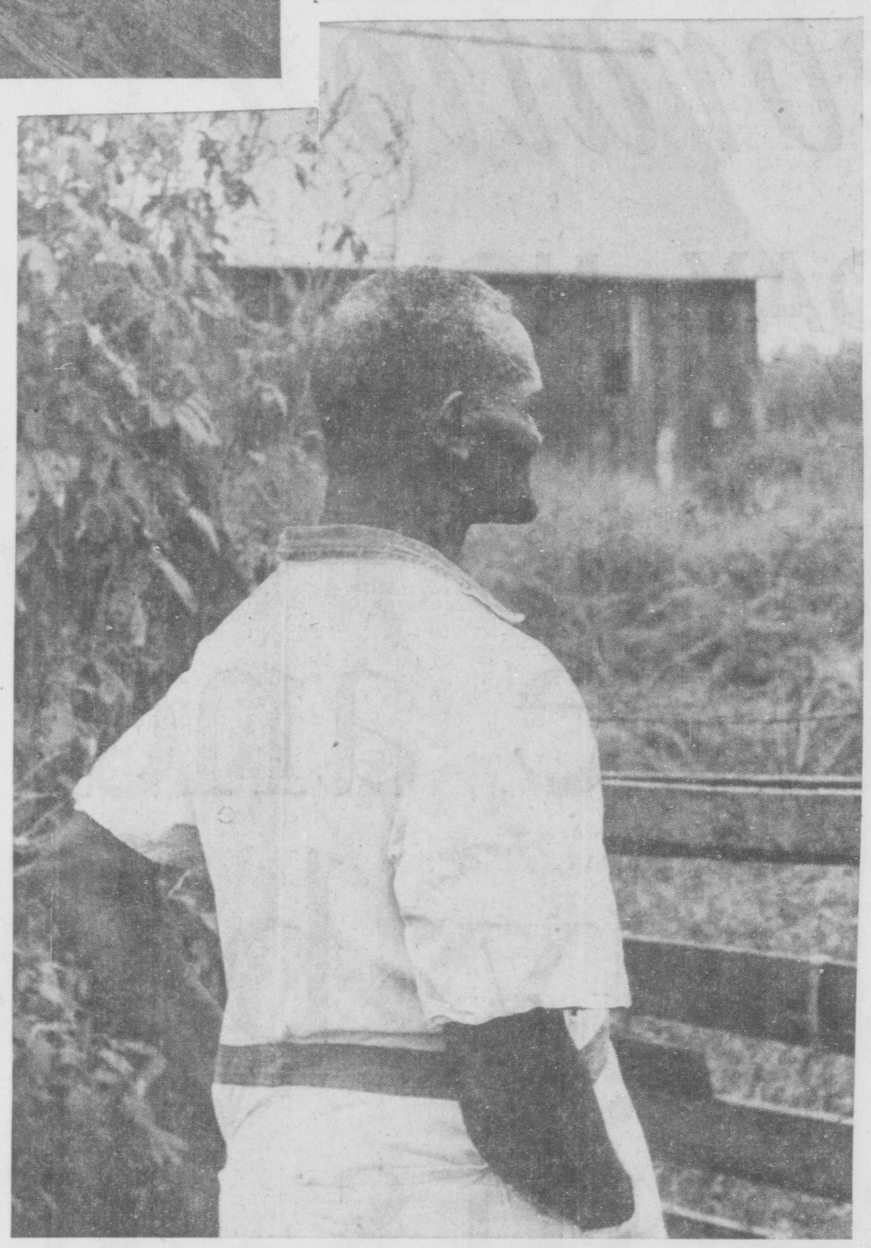
NEGRO STUDENTS sit in segregated classroom in all-Negro school in Mounds City, Illinois. That pupils are segregated as a matter of policy is evident from fact that all-white school is two blocks away. School has Negro staff and principal. Some areas of downstate Illinois are as strictly segregated as Mississippi.



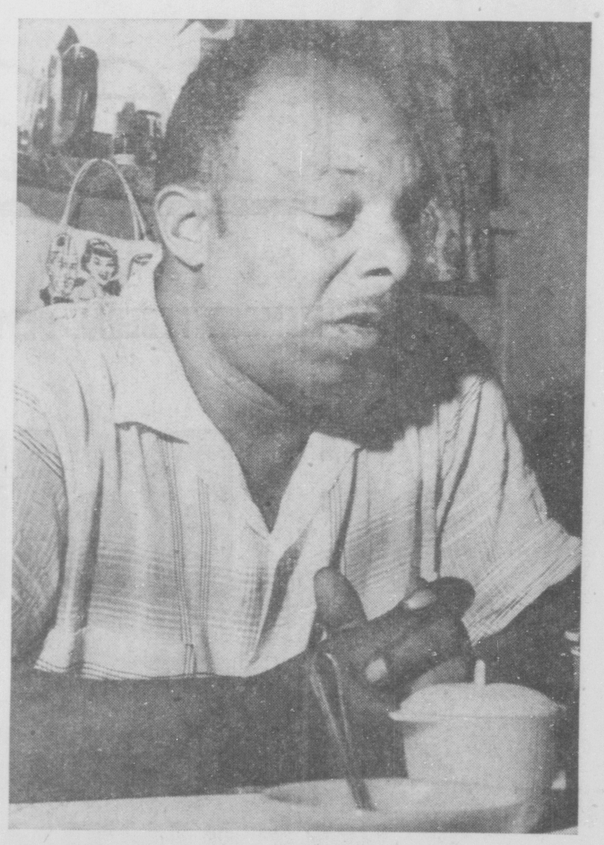
HER PLAYGROUND is a backporch in Chicago's Negro ghetto. She is one of 100,000 Negro children in city who, because of residential segregation, attend public schools where there are no white children.

OUT OF WORK man leans on fence in front of his Venice home. A resident of the "Island," an all-Negro slum, his property is without drainage or sanitation facilities. Forty familes in the "Island" have no plumbing in homes.



DOWNSTATE FARMER looks over his 40 acres in Pulaski county. Up from Mississippi three years ago, he notes it was easier to get money for a crop in the South, where "white man helped you think and plan it out." He considers himself better off than most Negroes in county and says "a man can make it if he works hard."

DESPITE FILTH and squalor in which downstate Negroes are forced to live, many take particular pride in keeping their children clean and neatly dressed. These youngsters work on coloring book on front porch of shack in Venice's all-Negro "Island."



"I LOOK EVERY day for work," says one of Chicago's out-of-work men. Unemployment among Negroes in city is approaching 15 per cent of their labor force.

100 Years of

This is the "Land of Lincoln."

This is the land where the great man stood one autumn day over a 100 years ago and asked: "When . . . you have succeeded in dehumanizing the Negro; when you have put him down and made it impossible for him to be but as the beasts of the field; when you have extinguished his soul in this world and placed him where the ray of hope is thrown out as in the darkness of the damned, are you quite sure that the demon you have roused will not turn and rend you?"

The question goes unanswered. A century has changed but little, however, the causes of Lincoln's concern. For in his land, the poorest of the poor is the Negro.

Exploited by industry and labor, tricked by black and white, deceived by politicians, and buffeted from all sides by a hostile society, the Negro's "ray of hope" flickers feebly.

Poverty, suffering, fear, and degradation, inherited and passed from one generation to the next, have become a way of life for the majority of Illinois' Negroes.

This is the land where stretching away from the multi-million dollar McCormick convention palace going up on the shores of Lake Michigan, tens of thousands of Negroes are jammed into cubicles, doorways, and hallways of fire trap tenements, sleeping in shifts and fighting to subsist on cornmeal and pigs' ears.

This is the land where a Negro family's home was mysteriously burned to the ground the first night the family moved into all-white Granite City in southern Illinois. Granite City, population 40,000 and still all-white, was chosen as an "All American City" in 1959.

This is the land where state officials and Chicago aldermen will tell you privately that "the Negro problem" is Illinois' No. 1 headache.

Less private are the statistics cited by public welfare and social service agencies. These figures forge a chain whose links read "Negro-Discrimination-Poverty."

No one argues that the demise of discrimination would end poverty among Negroes. That race prejudice is a major contributor to slum dwellings, swollen public aid rolls, unemployment, and the inability of the Negro to adapt to urban culture is widely acknowledged.

The President's Civil Rights Commission noted last year that Chicago is "the most residentially segregated city in America." The commission referred to the restriction of the city's nearly 850,000 Negroes to nine per cent of the community's land as a classic example "of the kind of solid Negro concentration in overcrowded central slum areas that gives rise to the description 'ghetto'!"

Confined within the city's south side "black belt," and a western tentacle, plus a few smaller pockets, Negro density reaches 60,000 residents per square mile, more than three times that in crowded white neighborhoods.

Even Negroes who have means and can afford to move to better housing are restricted to high density, blighted areas which impose conditions of poverty upon them.

The demand for shelter created by such density has led to a "color tax." This is the up to 40 per cent more paid by a Negro for an apartment than that paid by whites for comparable quarters outside the ghettos.

This fails to discourage the Negro "in-migrants," however, who continue to arrive on the Illinois Central, aboard busses, or in steaming, belching autos at the rate of two per hour around the clock, looking for the work they heard was here.

Up from Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, and southern Illinois they come, accounting for 17,000 of the annual 31,000 increase in Chicago's Negro population.

YOUNGSTERS ROMP behind tenement on Chicago's S with their families into a segregated ghetto where d Commission on Civil Rights has called Chicago the m

Freedom . . .

(This is the fifth in a series of six special reports on the poor of Illinois. These pages are concerned with the poorest of the state's poor, the Negro.)

The big city's lure of jobs pulls them off the marginal farms and out of Illinois' depressed southern counties where Negroes face segregation as rigid as that practiced in a main street movie house in Ruleville, Mississippi.

Downstate Madison county's 22,000 Negroes are barred from construction and printing unions. The county's two largest industries — employing 20,000 — have yet to hire a Negro.

The word gets around that Chicago needs workers. The word is also out that there is less discrimination in Chicago, more opporunity for one's children, better education and a brighter future.

But the Negro soon finds that his lot of "last hired and first fired" extends to Chicago, where Negro unemployment is currently approaching 15 per cent.

If he lacks a skill, he's really in trouble. But even if he has an aptitude, it better be in the blue-collar class, for a recent survey of a three-year period found that, of more than 100,000 job orders for clerical and management trainee positions placed by 5,000 Chicago companies, 98 per cent barred qualified non-whites.

As for a better education for his children and a brighter future, it's true the Negro finds in Chicago none of the flagrant segregation policies practiced by many of Illinois' downstate communities where he is expected to "keep his place" and not stray outside his churches, schools, restaurants, and other public facilities.

But he will find that because of segregated housing, over 100,000 of Chicago's Negro children attend public schools where there are no white children.

He will find in Chicago all of the by-products of discrimination that are more obvious downstate.

He will discover that regardless of where you live, race labeling of neighborhoods leads to lax enforcement of building and zoning codes. Municipal services grow slack. Garbage disposal service is poorer. Streets are repaired more slowly.

There will be few chain stores in his neighborhood. He will patronize small, independent merchants — and pay higher prices.

His area's recreation facilities are practically nonexistent. For companionship and emotional release, he may take his choice between a tavern or a store front church.

He may have health insurance where he works. But should he require hospitalization, he'll likely wind up in overcrowded Cook county hospital.

There is hardly a facet of the Negro's life that escapes the toll of discrimination. Even his search for voice and leadership is futile. The position of his leader is often dependent upon the ability to deliver the bloc of Negro votes maintained through segregated housing.

The greatest price paid by discrimination, however, is not measurable in terms of jobs unfilled, deficient diets, slum housing, increased crime, and lengthened welfare rolls.

Perhaps the deepest injury is that noted by the Commission on Civil Rights when it asked: "What kind of a citizen will the child become who grows up seeing or suffering these iniquities? What happens to the inner values of the child who constantly witnesses this gap between the American promise of equal opportunity and housing conditions that violate human dignity?"

CROWDED CONDITIONS in Chicago's segregated Negro neighborhoods often find four or five children sleeping in one bed. Some families find it necessary to sleep in shifts.

Early Christmas Mailing Is Asked

Faced with the possibility that the 1960 Christmas season will set an all time holiday mailing record, Arlington Heights postmaster Virginia Dodge announced this week she's starting her annual "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign immediately.

The postmaster offers these helpful mailing tips to insure delivery of Christmas cards and gifts on time.

FIRST, check Christmas card list very carefully; make sure each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, zone and state.

Second, for Christmas gift packages, stock up now on heavy wrapping paper, sturdy corrugated cartons, strong cord, and paper adhesive tape. Third, remember that you can include your Christmas card or letter inside your gift package by adding the appropriate First Class postage to the package itself.

Fourth, buy postage stamps now. Don't wait until the last minute when long lines form at the stamp windows.

The post office will help plan Christmas mailings. Get a copy of Pamphlet Number 2, which gives full information about proper packaging and wrapping of parcels.

The post office will also supply free labels which read, "All for Local Delivery" and "All for Out of Town Delivery," so that you can sort Christmas cards into all facing one way, thus insuring fast delivery.

Use only First Class postage on Christmas cards. Cards sent by First Class four cent, or seven cent Air-Mail, may include personal handwritten messages. First Class mail also receives full forwarding and return service.

Don't fail to put return address on every Christmas card envelope. Not only is this socially correct, but it helps tremendously to keep mailing lists up-to-date.

POSTMASTER Dodge says that with residents' help, she'll get the Christmas mails through on time. She is making many advance preparations to handle the 1960 Christmas mail rush by putting on extra mail clerks and carriers, and by arranging for expanded facilities all around.

The postmaster requests that residents make it a point to mail Christmas cards and gifts for the most distant points well before December 10. Those for nearby destinations should be mailed by December 15, or at least a week before Christmas. (A

WHEN IS A LAXATIVE DANGEROUS?

Appendicitis is one of our worst killers and only because of neglecting to get medical attention in time. Most fatal cases develope when taking a laxative or cathartic to relieve stomach or abdominal pains, one of the symptoms.

That is why a laxative or any home remedy should only be secured from a pharmacist. We can caution you against unsafe use and tell you when a physician's advice is preferable.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Book Fair Plans Completed by PTA

Mrs. B. B. VanDuzer, Arlington Heights north side book fair chairman, has announced that the arrangements have been completed for the PTA book fair to be held Saturday, Nov. 19, at Miner junior high school.

Many mothers, principals and teachers are involved in helping with this annual sale.

Encouragement of good reading is the primary purpose of the fair. An effort will be made to acquaint the children with the world of books and give them an opportunity to make selections of their own choice.

BOOK FAIR emphasis this year is on "Buying for Christmas". In other years the event has been held in late winter but this year it is hoped that people will select books for Christmas gifts.

The profit from the sale is used to purchase books for the school libraries. A second sale will be held at South junior high school Saturday, December 3, also from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Besides a large selection of children's books, there will be books for adults, Christmas wrappings and encyclopedia sets.

Lists of books will be sent home with the children shortly before the book fair to give parents an idea of the wide selection available.

On Thursday before the sale mothers will be going into the north side school rooms to explain about the book fair to the children. A

The boys had quite a time October 31. They did not forget the night.... D. Fredericks had a little hard luck Tuesday morning when he was ready to hitch his horse he found that his wagon was gone.... L. W. Wille got up quite early Tuesday morning to do a days work. When ready to start he found that his car of bran had ran away.... There was quite a disturbance in W. Krause's subdivision; milk cans flew around like hot cakes. Farmers were mad next morning; some even threatened to sue the innocent R. R. company thinking a train wreck had scattered the cans.... The boys had quite a joke on Ed. B. Monday eve; they could not let him sleep after a hard day's work. After he got in bed his screen door got crazy; it would not stay open nor shut so he had to get up and investigate the business; but couldn't find anything out of order except the boys in the road. He says he heard them going down the road like a runaway horse; couldn't see them for dust, and next morning says, what a man can't do with a string tied to the door.

From Tom Hart's "Tales of the Street": Evidently the ladies of Palatine do not take kindly to all of the decrees of Paris fashions. During the summer, a certain Buick auto brought to Palatine business houses rather frequently a woman attired in blue blouse and bloomers, which all passed without comment, but the three-quarter socks with the wide expanse of bareness between them and the knee, did not vidently excite the envy of any of our women folks as none followed suit.... Joyce Anderson, 1234 N. Yale, hostessed a dinner party last Wednesday evening for her husband, Bob, and wishing him many happy returns of the day were the children, Kris Ann, Mark and Karen Lynn, his mother, Mrs. Ebba Anderson, Schiller Park, and Joyce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Streich, Mt. Prospect.

Mary Ann Geer, 1515 Clarendon, reports that it was a tremendous thrill singing with the Chicago Symphony chorus in the presentation November 3 and 4 of Beethoven's "Missae Solemnis" at Orchestra hall, Chicago, the culmination of a great deal of work and time away from home. However, she was back on her feet by November 6, in time to entertain at a family dinner party in honor of daughter, Laura Jean, who was 2. Celebrating with her were her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Geer, Western Springs, and her sisters, Nancy Jo and Barbara Lee, and, of course, her daddy, John.

Shirley and Ralph Landes, 1251 N. Chicago, entertained Jerri and Bill Rix, Betty and Bob Gumz, Pat and Bill Ross and Jackie and Joe Koenig Tuesday evening at an election night party.

BOB, son of Vivian and Robert Weber, 1508 W. Oakton, was 13 November 5 and celebrated at a dinner party Sunday with his brothers, Bruce and Mark, sister, Cathy, grandmothers, Mrs. Yvonne McAvoy and Mrs. Rose Weber, aunts, Miss June Weber and Mrs. Vivian Jones, all of Chicago, and his good friend, Billy Sayre, Arlington Heights.

The annual Barber Shop chorus presentation at Arlington high school was enjoyed last Saturday night by Terrace residents, the Ray Crouches, Terry McGuires, John Noerenbergs and the El Lechelts and the Blaine Crouches of Barrington. The group bowled several games and enjoyed a late snack before calling it a night.

The fifth birthday of Julie, daughter of Dianne and Jack Trees, 1226 N. Race, was especially nice, as her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schneider, Indianapolis, were present for the family dinner party November 1. Also helping her to blow out the candles on the cake was her brother, Michael. Mrs. Schneider remained here for a short visit, but Mr. Schneider had to return home due to business.

Dianne and Jack were recently hosts to three couples with whom they became acquainted while all were based with the Air Force at Homestead, Fla. It was a gala weekend, says Dianne, as their friends arrived from Cleveland, Milwaukee and Park Forest.

VILLA VENICE was the scene of a fashion show Wednesday afternoon, and among those hoping that they would be awarded the grand prize of a hand made ensemble were Pat Lechelt, Pauline Noerenberg, Jean Lussier, Regina Heise, Joyce Anderson, Pat Ross, Betty Gumz and Shirley Landes.

Tom, son of Jeanne and Art Sadowski, 1119 S. Wilke, invited his brother, Paul, and good friends, Pat Hoover, Arlington Heights, and David Talaber to share his 11th birthday celebration last Saturday. After viewing the matinee at the Arlington theatre, there was a supper party at home, where his sisters, Joyce, Barbara and Christine, and brothers, Jimmy and Michael, were able to get in on the festivities.

Laverne Reichert, 1208 N. Chicago, recently observed a birthday at a dinner party in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Witt, Chicago. Her husband, Bud, sons, Terry, Dennis, Michael and Jimmy, and other relatives were on hand to wish her many happy returns of the day.

Last Monday night, Laverne and Bud enjoyed a performance of "Fiorello" in the Shubert theatre, Chicago.

A luncheon party was held in honor of Nancy, daughter of Mary and Paul Kale, 1322 N. Illinois, who was 11 November 1. The guests, among whom were Patsy Rogers, Pam Micek, Gail Guderley, Cathy Coniglio, Arlington Heights, Melody Kalous, Carolyn Brening, Marengo, Lonna Linneweh and Wendy Kneer, both of Arlington Heights, enjoyed a scavenger hunt, games, for which prizes were awarded, favors, birthday cake and ice cream.

THAT SAME evening, Nancy was guest of honor at a family dinner party attended by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krumbein, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kale, Arlington Heights, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. James Quinlan of Sandwich, and cousin, Jimmy.

Business became a pleasure last Thursday night for Virginia and Dean Arnold, 1410 N. Race, as they attended the dinner banquet given by Cotter and Co. following a preview of their hardware exhibit.

Wishing Peter, son of Mary Louise and Dieter Burkhardt, 1507 Clarendon, a happy third birthday at a family dinner party, last Sunday, were his sisters and brothers, Mary Jo, Suzanne, Chris and Curt.

October 30 was moving day for Pat and Frank Precilio, 1440 N. Race, but their Terrace friends were happy that they, and the children, Frank, Lisa and Gabrielle, departed only to larger quarters at 431 S. Dwyer, Arlington Heights.

Mickey Mouse theme was prevalent at the luncheon party given October 30 in honor of Bobby, son of Carol and Ron Reed, 1216 N. Race. Sharing in his fifth birthday celebration were his brother, David, Bobby and Jeff Krug, Gary Vogtritter, Hall Stratton and Kurt Davis. After cake and ice cream, the youngsters were treated to a viewing of "Toy Tiger" at the Arlington theatre.

Others from the Terrace enjoying the fashion show and luncheon sponsored by the Arlington Heights Junior Women's club were Marilou Crouch, Carol Narup, Florence Paul, Carolyn Brown, Isabel Nottoli, Maisie Sikorske, Marga Wilmot, Dorothy Ballard and Pat McGuire.

A FAMILY dinner party was given November 3 by Margaret and Eugene Dougherty, 1417 N. Wilke, for their daughter, Joanne, who was 6. Among those wishing her a happy birthday were her brother and sisters, Gene, Kathleen and Mary Ellen.

Jill Ann, infant daughter of Shirley and Robert Vogtritter, 1208 N. Race, was christened October 30 in Our Saviour Lutheran church, Arlington Heights. The godparents, great-aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vogtritter, Des Plaines, were among guests at a dinner party held later in the day in honor of the occasion.

Gary, 5, is now recuperating at home after undergoing a tonsillectomy November 2 in Northwest Community hospital.

An afternoon party was held November 4 for Jeffrey, son of Sally and Harold Drews, 1238 N. Illinois. Wishing him a hapy fifth birthday were his brother, Tommy, Janae, Greg and Dean Schafer, Mark and Mike Moustakis, Freddie and Theresa Miller, Bobby Blomquist and Wendy Miller. Although they played games and listened to stories, Sally reports that the hit of the day, overlooking the cake and ice cream, were the puzzles presented each child as a favor, which were promptly taken apart. They spent the rest of the afternoon putting them together.

Mary Funk, 1401 Clarendon, and her co-hostess, Dorothy Henneman, entertained at bridge last Wednesday evening Eileen Brown, Janice Borland, Jane Coleman, Mary Louise Burkhardt, Kathleen Dunne and Rita Talaber. Eileen and Jane won first and second prizes, respectively.

Kay and Linton Moustakis, 1232 N. Illinois, and their boys, Mark and Michael, recently returned from a 2-week vacation in the home of Kay's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mr. Arthur Olsen, Florence, Mont. The drive there was scenic in itself, says Kay, but particularly beautiful was the Bitteroot mountain range along the continental divide, which is directly behind her uncle's home. A note of interest was their visit to the oldest church in the northwest, founded by Father DeSmet in 1845, where services are now held but once a year for the Indian families in the surrounding area. The Moustakises and the Olsens, including their daughter, Adrian, also did a great deal of fishing and horseback riding. (A

Mayor Carlisle Marks 35 Years with System

Changes in the service of the Illinois Bell Telephone company in the past 35 years was recalled last week by Village President Edward G. Carlisle, 1006 S. Vail, Arlington Heights, when a reporter called on him in reference to the diamond pin awarded him last week by Louis Gabeard, head of the market and development department of the Chicago office.

Carlisle, who is still recovering from a recent operation, was told by Gabeard that there would be a dinner in his honor as soon as he is able to return to his duties.

The story told the reporter could be headed "From Overalls to Executive Job."

THOSE 35 YEARS represent not only hard work but also attendance at night classes earning a BS degree at Northwestern university. Incidently, Mrs. Carlisle was earning a degree at the University of Chicago.

Starting as an installer of telephones in 1924-25, he recalls the added responsibility that came his way during succeeding years. His hardest years of all were at the time of the depression when the telephone company lost thousands of telephone subscribers; and salesmen, like Edward, peddled the telephones.

His real service to the company started after receiving his science degree, when he became a toll developer devoting his attention to teletype and long distance production.

His next step was in the general contracting department. Then the war came and the radio became of greater importance, presenting special problems that passed over Carlisle's desk.

THE GROWTH of the suburbs has presented big problems to the telephone company and the past few years his time has been spent forecasting the market and future development needs of the people who are moving to the suburbs expecting that there will be a phone waiting for them in that new home.

The start on the Twinbrook exchange that serves Elk Grove area required a lot of estimating as to the future needs of that area. Then comes the budgeting for the proposed exchange.

"There never seems to be an end to the request of developers for phone service. Often service poles are in place before a home is built." It is Carlisle who does a lot of the "guessing."

The Carlisles came to Arlington Heights in 1946. He became a member of the village board in 1951 and mayor in 1957. The family includes two daughters, Anne, a college student, and Susan, a high school sophomore.

CARLISLE SAYS that there is nothing that pleased him more in recent years than the endorsement of the new village hall by the citizens committee. He adds his happiness will be complete when the voters approve the bond issue in December.

While recuperating, the mayor has had time to study national affairs and was one of the first in Arlington Heights to cast an absentee ballot for the Nov. 8 election.

Chamber of Commerce Has Three New Board Members

Paul Collins, president of the Arlington Heights chamber of commerce, announced this week the appointment of three businessmen to fill newly created posts on the chamber's board of directors.

Appointed directors were C. M. "Chuck" Whetstone, manager of the National Tea store at Westgate shopping center; W. C. Wolf, president of the Bank of Arlington Heights, and Nick Barkulis, owner of the Elms Grocerland store.

Donald Hess, executive manager of the chamber, said the appointments were made possible by the recent increasing of the number of directors from 12 to 15.

WHETSTONE, 27, lives at 2303 Eastman, Rolling Meadows, with his wife, Eleanor. He has been employed by the National Tea company for four years.

Wolf, a resident of Itasca, is a veteran of 21 years in the banking business. The 42-year-old banker and his wife, Hazel, have two teenage sons, Wilfred and Randall.

Barkulis, 44, has been in the grocery business for 25 years. He and his wife, Mary, have two children, Denise, 17, and Thomas, 11, and reside at 31 N. Reuter, Arlington Heights. (A

Red Devils, Knights Head Two All-Conference Outfits

Nine Slots For League Champions

by BOB FRISK

Hinsdale's unbeaten Red Devils, one of the strongest teams to ever play in the West Suburban conference, landed nine positions on the loop's all-star aggregation announced this week by the eight coaches.

Coach Harvey Dickinson's powerhouse, a unit that averaged 40 points per game in setting a WSC scoring record, gained recognition at each position on the 25-man squad.

Hinsdale had two ends, two tackles, a guard, center, and three backs selected for the post-season squad.

Downers Grove's Trojans, runnerup in the league with a 6-1 standard, gained six positions and Glenbard West landed four. Riverside-Brookfield and LaGrange each had two boys honored and York and Maine township East gained one berth.

Arlington high was the only West Suburban squad that failed to gain at least one position on the 1960 outfit.

THE ONLY two juniors who were named to the 1959 team both repeated in '60. Downers Grove's Dan Jacobazzi, a 6-4, 235-pounder, was honored at tackle and Hinsdale's Jim Carmignani was selected again at a halfback spot.

Five juniors were named to the all-star aggregation, including three from Hinsdale's champions.

Named at end were Bob Parsons and Bob Haarlow of the Red Devils, Paul Pickrel of Downers Grove, Dan Kokes of Riverside, Ray Ingersol of LaGrange, and Ted DeLapp of Glenbard West.

HAARLOW, also a standout in basketball, is a 6-2, 165-pound junior who was an excellent defensive performer and pass receiver. Parsons, a senior, was a veteran offensive flank, fine blocker, and good leader.

Downers Grove's Pickrel, 185-pound senior, stood out on both offense and defense and was the Trojans' defensive signal-caller. Paul grabbed three scoring passes against Maine East.

Kokes played both offense and defense for R-B and was an outstanding pass receiver, blocker, and tackler. Dan is a good student and capable team leader.

LAGRANGE'S Ingersol possesses a great pair of hands, is fast, a good blocker, and the Lions' leading league scorer with six touchdowns, all on pass receptions.

The league's top extra point man was Glenbard West's DeLapp, a 6-0, 205-pounder who is also an outstanding punter and offense blocker. Ted averaged 43 yards on punts and sent home 14 PATs in WSC action.

In addition to Jacobazzi, Hinsdale's Rex McConaghy and Jerry Kucera, and Glenbard's Rod Mitchell were named to tackle slots.

THE DOWNERS Grove standout was the squad's leading tackler, blocked four punts, and picked up two safeties in the 1960 season.

McConaghy was a unanimous selection, a definite All-State prospect, as fast as a backfield man, strong and aggressive. The other Red Devil tackle honored, 225-pound

Prospect Lands Nine Positions

by BOB FRISK

Prospect high school's Knights, Interim assn. football champion and one of the few unbeaten and untied prep units in the state, gained nine positions on the league's all-star aggregation selected Monday afternoon by the coaches.

The 33-man all-conference team includes representatives from each of the seven schools with East Leyden and Proviso West landing five slots for runnerup honors behind Bill Beckman's Prospect eleven.

Nine boys are repeaters from the 1959 team, including Prospect's Mel Aukamp, Jeff Rogers, Bill Zadel, Fred Lussow and Keith Voigt. Other repeat selections include Proviso's Gerry Mastro, Bill Soo, and Wolfgang Meister and Wheaton's Brian Grant.

Other Prospect selections are end Dennis "Dutch" Leonard, tackle Jim Minikel, halfback Tom Petrosino, and fullback Bruce Andrise.

WILLOWBROOK players named include tackle Joe Kusta, a 6-0, 210-pound senior; guard Rich Barta, a 5-10, 170 pound senior; and halfback Gene Whitehorn, a 5-9, 170-pound junior.

Leonard and Aukamp join Glenbrook's Rob Nicoll, Proviso's Mastro, and Maine West's Ken Amundsen at the end positions.

A 6-0, 180-pound senior, Leonard was a capable flank and an outstanding kicker in the Interim assn. ranks for two years. "Dutch" picked off a pair of touchdown tosses in the Wheaton game covering 31 and 20 yards and scored 28 points in league action, including 16 PATs. Leonard collected 13 conversions as a junior and his 29 over two years will give future league gridders a mark to shoot at.

AUKAMP IS one of those players who doesn't gain the headlines but who turns in the steady performances up front that are so necessary for a winning unit. A standout on defense, Aukamp is a 6-1, 185-pound senior.

Six tackles were named by the coaches, including Prospect's Minikel, a 6-0, 235-pounder. A likeable athlete who's easy to coach, Minikel really came into his own this fall and ranked as one of the top tackles in the area. A senior, Jim is an outstanding college prospect.

Other tackles honored were Wheaton's Ken Schreiner and Gordon Heaton, East Leyden's John Rubino and Bob Kruse, and Willowbrook's Kusta.

KUSTA lettered as a junior in 1959 for Vic Lesch's Warriors and turned in another impressive performance this fall.

All-State candidate Rogers heads a list of six guards named to the all-Interim team. Jeff was one of the top guards in the state, a definite candidate for area and Illinois honors, and for the second straight season was Prospect high school's basketball Knights will launch their 1960-61 season Friday evening, Nov. 25, when they host Libertyville's Wildcats of the North Suburban.

An eighteen game slate, excluding tournament competition, faces Prospect this winter with the Knights of Dick Kinneman facing four nonconference opponents before moving into Interim assn. play Dec. 9 at Wheaton.

The junior-varsity cagers will play the preliminary game in all conference affairs with the frosh-sophs preceding the main action in non-league tests. The initial games will begin at 7 p.m.

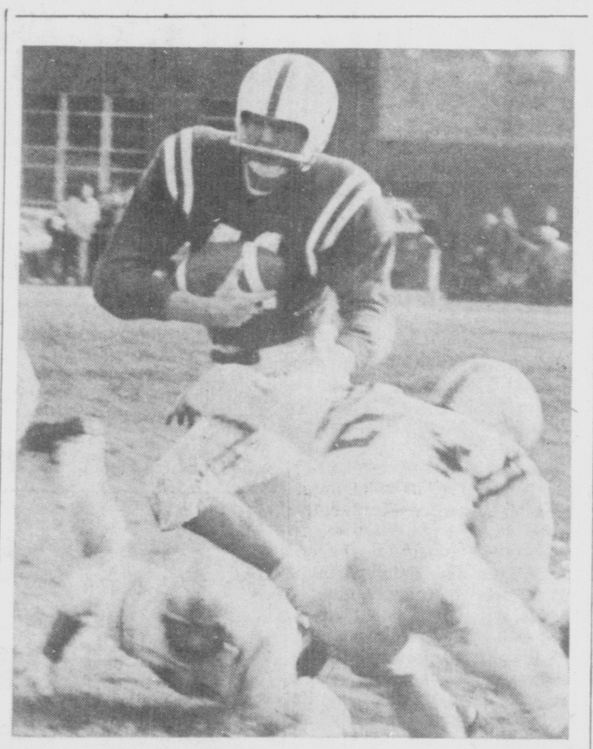
Plan Open House

An open house highlighted by an intrasquad basketball game will take place next Wednesday evening, Nov. 16, at the Prospect high school fieldhouse at 7 p. m. The public is invited with a short talk by Athletic Director Howard Lester, a rules interpretation by Art Serfling, and a question-and-answer period in addition to the game between two varsity squads. The public may enter the fieldhouse at the northeast door.



MAINE'S DAVE Hamman carries for short yardage in first half action of the Blue Demons' 26-0 victory over Arlington high last Saturday afternoon. Putting on the clinching tackle is the Cardinals' Tim O'Gorman (24).

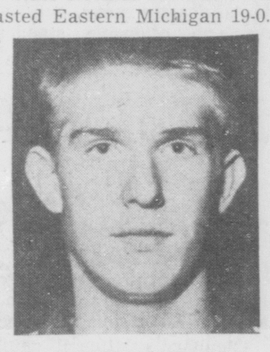
KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK

GEORGE BORK has finally gotten a chance to show his stuff at Northern Illinois university, and the football Huskies are glad to have the talented Arlington high school grad and Mt. Prospect resident at the controls.

Bork, who holds all the passing records at Arlington, is a frosh quarterback at Northern who moved into the top slot three weeks ago when regular signal-caller Tom Beck was sidelined with an injury. George responded with an effective performance against Illinois State Normal but was even better last week as Northern pasted Eastern Michigan 19-0.

George completed 13 of 26 tosses for 213 yards against Eastern, and the total included a 93-yard maneuver in combination with end Rich Bader, another Arlington high grad and Mt. Prospect resident. The scoring aerial ranks as an unofficial Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic conference record.



GEORGE BORK

Senior end Al Eck of Palatine caught six of Bork's throws for 62 yards and now Al is just four catches shy of the Northern Illinois season record of 44. Eck's NIU mark shows 106 pass receptions for 1,746 yards and 19 touchdowns.

For the season Bork has completed 29 passes in 51 attempts for 358 yards and two touchdowns. Teammate Bader has picked off 24 aerials for 330 yards and three touchdowns.

THIS 'N THAT:

Basktball is just around the corner . . . We spotted a magazine on the hardwood sport and note that Prospect's Bill Zadel, an all-Interim pivotman last winter who tossed in 286 points for the Knights' varsity cagers, is listed among the top 500 high school players in the United States . . . Zadel is one of 17 players included from Illinois with East Leyden's Jim Rodgers, the Interim scoring champ as a junior, also on the honor roll . . . Rodgers pumped in 222 points in league play to win the scoring crown by 36 markers . . . While we're on the basketball scene, George Clark, Elgin's 7-0 center last winter who was instrumental in leading the Maroons to a sectional title win over Arlington high, is attending school in Casper, Wyoming . . . Clark, who wasn't approached by too many colleges because of his scholastic standing (the lack of it, that is), hopes to enroll at the University of Wyoming next fall.

George Shartle, an Arlington high grad last June who finished fourth in the state wrestling meet at 120 pounds, copped the intramural 135-pound title at Northwestern . . . George is a freshman at NU, majoring in business, and will not be competing on a varsity level until the 1961-62 campaign.

Glenbrook's Walt Sherman suffered the most decisive defeat of his coaching career last Friday when Prospect blasted the Spartans 46-0 . . . A big question now and one that will go unanswered is whether or not Prospect's unbeaten Knights with their college-size line could handle Hinsdale's unbeaten Red Devils with their lightning-fast and versatile backfield? . . . We've seen both units in action, and they both have their merits . . . Would be quite a battle . . . Congratulations to Glenbard West of the West Suburban for copping the state cross country title . . . We predicted in last week's column that the Hilltoppers would whip favored New Trier and Coach Dick Johnson's crew came through when it counted . . . If statistics play a major role in boosting a high school back to All-State recognition, North Chicago's Bernie Nesteroff should be a cinch for post-season honors . . . The 5-10, 167-pound speedster has scored 18 touchdowns, ten in the last two games, and has rolled up 1,250 yards rushing in 119 carries . . . In two seasons on the varsity Nestroff has gained almost 2,000 yards rushing with 23 touchdowns and one extra point . . . Fifteen of Nesteroff's touchdowns this fall have been from 10 or more yards out.

Quick quote from Al Abrahams of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette: "The retired (by request) Casey Stengel can get $200,000 from a national magazine to tell all about his falling out with the Yankee big-wigs, plus his memoirs . . . Banker Stengel, who doesn't need the money, may pick up the 200 grand just for spite . . . He would, too!"

Arlington Basketball Launched

Arlington high's varsity and frosh-soph basketball teams will travel for their first two encounters of the 1960-61 campaign with the Cardinals journeying to Evanston and Palatine before hosting Elgin.

The opening clash for both the varsity and frosh-soph squads is set for Friday, Nov. 18, at Evanston. Arlington will also travel to Palatine for the annual Sleigh Bells prestige battle Wednesday, Nov. 23.

The Cardinals will kick off its home slate Friday evening, Nov. 25, with a nonconference test against Elgin.

EIGHTEEN GAMES, excluding tourney play, face Frank Bohac's varsity and Ken Schaller's frosh - sophs with the Cardinals moving into West Suburban competition Friday, Dec. 2, at Downers Grove.

Arlington will be engaged in the Invitation Tournament at Niles during the Christmas holidays, joining Niles, East Leyden, and North Chicago in the four-team affair.

Norm Patberg is working with the Arlington junior-varsity cagers with Rog Steingraber and Bob Rees handling the freshman candidates.

Arlington's varsity boasts one returning letterman this winter in 6-4 Jim Clabaugh. Clabaugh saw extensive action in the latter part of the 1959-60 campaign and registered 47 points.

BOTH THE varsity and frosh-soph squads will follow similar schedules with Mike Karon handling the younger squad. Arlington's sophs boasted an 8-1-1 dual meet record last winter.

Hambrick Captures WSC Point Crown!

Hinsdale's Pete Hambrick reigns as the West Suburban conference's football scoring champion for 1960.

The Red Devils' junior fullback dethroned teammate Jim Carmignani in capturing the scoring prize with 13 touchdowns for 78 points.

Carmignani, the 1959 champion, finished second with nine touchdowns and seven extra points for 61 markers, and Downers Grove's Bill Gurican and Glenbard's Bob DesRochers tied for third with 54 points each on nine touchdowns.

ARLINGTON high's top point-producer in league action was junior end Don Kolstad who grabbed three scoring passes for 18 points.

Hambrick, of course, scored the most touchdowns in West Suburban play this fall, but Ted DeLapp of Glenbard copped the extra point honors with 14 conversions. Hinsdale's Mike Greco added 11 PATS and York's Dan Millsap collected 10.

EVANSTON WON THE Suburban League for the third time in the last four years under the coaching of Murney Lazier but some of the lustre of a great season was rubbed off by a fighting Niles team which tied the Wildkits 7-7 in the season finale. In contrast, Hinsdale, highest scoring team in the area with a 40 point average, whipped Riverside-Brookfield 54-0 for an undefeated season. It made an even 100 wins for coach Harvey Dickinson and six clear cut championships in his 17 years at Hinsdale. The Red Devils will certainly stay in contention the next two seasons as the sophs were likewise unbeaten. Downers (6-1) in the West Suburban and New Trier (6-1) in the Suburban circuit, had second place finishes.

Prospect high left no doubt of ranking among the top teams in the state as they closed a perfect season under Bill Beckman with a 46-0 victory over Glenbrook in the strong Interim Conference. Argo is the smallest school in the South Suburban and has the lightest team but they ran circles around Joliet 25-0 to clinch their first league crown. Only winless Thornridge is between them and an unbeaten season.

Crystal Lake and Libertyville tied with 6-1 marks in the North Suburban. When the two met, Libertyville won 7-6 but later lost to Barrington 20-13. Palatine made a great bid to upset the Crystal Lake Tigers in the finale before losing 13-6. Zion beat Dundee to tie Palatine for 4th with 3-4 records. The toughness of this league is shown in the fact that Palatine had one of the best teams ever to represent the school yet had a 3-4 league record. Three defeats, however, were games in which the outcome could have gone either way depending on the breaks. Barrington lost a tie for the title due to a 6-6 tie game with McHenry. Of all the teams, the Broncho coach accomplished the most with the material at his disposal.

LAKE FOREST IS TOP TEAM in the Northwest Conference for the second year in a row as Round Lake was defeated 14-6. Round Lake and Warren each lost to Lake Forest and tied each other. Sandburg took the Southwest Suburban (5-1-1), closing with a 45-0 win over Homewood-Flossmoor. West Aurora took the Big 8 in a close race and Sycamore copped the Little 7, a second year in a row.

The Tri-County Conference has only 4 schools: North Chicago, Fenton, Elmwood Park, and Lake Park. In the title game Saturday North Chicago whipped Fenton 63-26 in a game of 14 touchdowns. It was the 16th league win in a row for North Chicago and a perfect record in football in the four years the league has been in opration. Berie Nesteroff of the winners scored six times and had two kickoff returns of 95 and 97 yards. The North Chicago star scored 72 points in 8 league games and averaged 10 yards a carry for the season.

LEROY JACKSON, who won the 100-yard state title for Bloom high a few years ago, set a conference mark for an individual game and season as he tallied 30 points for Western Illinois against Normal University last Saturday . . . Wauconda closed a 21 game losing streak in football when they defeated Antioch 14-6 in the final game of the season . . . Weymouth Kirkland of New Trier repeated as state cross country winner and tied the mark of 9:15 set by Jim Bowers of DeKalb. Glenbard won the team title and Phillips of Chicago was third . . . Palatine ran away with the North Suburban meet with all five team scorers available for next season. The Pirates finished their second undefeated season in a row . . . Palatine may not have the best team but they certainly will have the tallest in the coming North Suburban basketball season with players standing 6-6, 6-5, 6-4, and 6-3. Of course it takes a lot more than height to make a good team but it is a big help. The Pirates hope to play .500 ball this year or better and make a real title bid in 1961-62 . . . Schools of the North Suburban, Little Seven, Tri-County, and Northwest conferences will consider future realignment problems in a meeting to be held at Barrington November 16. Representatives of schools in the area to be opened or without league affiliations also will be present. This meeting is called by the Association of Suburban Conferences Realignment Committee. New second high schools to be opened by the North Suburban schools in 1961 are in the Libertyville and Crystal Lake districts.

20 YEARS AGO

Palatine won and lost in afternoon practice games this week. The Pirates lost to Dundee 63-57 and beat Libertyville 42-24. Arlington's cagers, coached by Ray Hayes, open the season this week against Wheaton. Palatine, coached by G. A. McElroy expects Wauconda to be their toughest opposition as they try to make it two championships in a row in the Northwest Conference. Only player lost from last year's title winner is Mervin Fink.

10 YEARS AGO

Bensenville lost 18-6 to Northbrook in a snow storm to finish the season. Daly's pass to Rasmussen gave the Bisons their only touchdown. Landwehr, Kempa, and Miller scored for Northbrook. It was the 4th win in a row for the team coached by Bill Lutz which finished third . . . Barrington crushed Antioch 53-12 for their third straight championship season in a row and their 24th straight victory. Steve Roake, Barrington's all state end candidate scored 99 points in 9 games . . . Palatine lost to Grant 26-6 but finished with a 4-3 record . . . Bill Iske at Bensenville and Ray Sievers at Palatine are the only veterans returning for basketball at their respective schools.

Prospect Frosh Capture Finale

Prospect high's frosh football team concluded its 1960 campaign last Saturday morning with a decisive 21-0 victory over a visiting Deerfield eleven.

Prospect Heads Interim All-Stars

Rogers threw the four key blocks for the Knights' four touchdowns in the important 27-0 win over Proviso West.

WILLOWBROOK'S Barta is a rugged 170-pounder who has tremendous desire. Rich lettered as a junior and senior for the Villa Park school.

Rounding out the guard choices are Maine West's Joe Kunkle, Proviso West's Meister, and Glenbrook's Grant Peterson and Bob Olson.

Another Interim All-State candidate is Prospect's Bill Zadel, a 6-3, 215-pound center. Zadel, a repeat selection, was a top blocker and defensive performer and the college scouts are eyeing this boy. Bill should be in line for several post-season honors in addition to his all-league selection.

PROVISO WEST'S Dale Colosky and East Leyden's Ed Bluthardt were also named at center.

Prospect high had its entire backfield picked for the All-Interim team with quarterback Lussow, halfbacks Petrosino and Voigt, and fullback Andrise.

Lussow added to his perfect record on the all-league squads with his repeat selection in football. Fred was named to the football, basketball, and baseball all-star squads as a junior and is off to a good start in the 1960-61 school year.

LUSSOW completed 23 passes this fall for 284 yards and was at his best against East Leyden, completing nine of ten aerials and racing 56 yards for one touchdown.

Petrosino is a newcomer to the all-league ranks, but Tom was an offensive standout throughout the season, picking up 561 yards in 100 carries for a 5.6 per carry average. He also finished in a tie for the Interim assn. scoring title with 42 points on seven touchdowns.

Voigt was bothered by a shoulder injury at the outset of the campaign but recovered and proceeded to of the campaign but return in an impressive season. covered and proceeded to turn in an impressive season. Keith tied Petrosino and Proviso's Logan Dugaw for the Interim scoring crown and picked up 547 yards rusning in only 85 cracks for a 6.4 average. The 16-pounder had 125 yards rushing in the season finales at Glenbrook.

ANDRISE IS only a junior but has already picked up two varsity letters at Prospect. A 5-10, 180-pounder, Bruce was an invaluable performer on both offense and defense and a hard worker. A possible All-State candidate next fall, Andrise carried 73 times and registered 313 yards for a 4.2 per carry standard as Prospect swept through its eight games.

Willowbrook's Whitehorn, selected at a halfback slot, scored five touchdowns in Interim play for 30 points. A dependable performer, Gene should enjoy an impressive senior year.

The other backs honored by the coaches included quarter backs Al Carlsen of East Leyden, Brian Grant of Wheaton, and Dave Lass of Glenbrook; halfbacks Bill Soo and Dugaw of Proviso West, and Dick Kee of Wheaton; and fullbacks Joe Milek of East Leyden and Keith Connelly of Maine West.

Milek, currently in the hospital with a broken leg incurred in an automobile accident, will be pushed for All-State honors from the league in addition to Prospect's Rogers and Zadel.

Hinsdale Paces All-League Unit

Glenbard's Mitchell gained his third varsity letter for the Hilltoppers and was a standout both ways for the Glen Ellyn school.

HINSDALE'S Pete Chilstrom, Downers' Bob Beightol, Maine's Duane Wasson, and Glenbard's Bruce Capel were named to the four guard berths.

Chilstrom, a 165-pound junior, always "gives more than his best" according to Hinsdale's Dickinson, was an excellent offensive blocker and was linebacker on defense.

Another junior, Downers Grove's Beightol, was the top blocker on the strong Trojan eleven, a line backer on defense. Maine's Wasson is termed by his coach as the squad's most "hard-nosed lineman." He led in tackles, called defensive signals, and played linebacker. He was also the Blue Demons' top blocker.

GLENBARD'S Bill Kastrinos terms Capel "the best lineman he's coached at the school." Bruce averaged 4 tackles a game and is All-State caliber.

Three centers were named to the 1960 team: Riverside's Bob MacLain, Downers Grove's Pete Kuhn, and Hinsdale's Tom Talley.

MacLain was co-captain and played defensive quarterback, offensive enter, and defensive linebacker for Coach Jim Perkins' squad. President of the Student Council, Bob is a good student and an outstanding leader.

DOWNERS' Kuhn was regarded as the Trojans' top offensive enter in years with great speed and desire.

Talley called the defensive signals for Hinsdale, rated as an excellent linebacker and offensive blocker.

Eight backs were named to the all-star team, including three-fourths of Hinsdale's explosive quartet. Red Devils honored were quarterback Hal Brandt, halfback Carmignani, and fullback Pete Hambrick.

BRANDT IS possibly the top quarterback in the state, a fine leader and passer and an outstanding college prospect. The 6-3, 180-pound senior scored seven touchdowns in WSC play.

Carmignani, the 1959 league scoring champion, is fast, an excellent runner and pass receiver. In two seasons of varsity competition Jim scored 111 poins in conference action, 15 touchdowns and 21 extra points.

Hambrick was the league's top scorer this fall with 13 touchdowns, is fast and powerful, a good pass receiver, and only a junior.

DOWNERS GROVE'S fleet duo of Ed Janoski and Bill Gurican gained backfield slots with Janoski scoring seven touchdowns in loop play. Ed is an outstanding blocker and vicious runner. Gurican tallied nine TDs, is rated the best back in years at Downers, and had seven scores called back during the campaign. An All-State candidate, Bill averaged over 100 yards per game and turned in an outstanding defensive performance.

Junior Wayne Strauch of York gained 752 yards rushing in 123 cracks for a 6.1 per carry average, caught 11 passes for 93 yards, and scored eight touchdowns in WSC play, four against Arlington. An outstanding basketball and baseball player too, Strauch was a member of the frosh-soph cage champions and state championship diamond unit.

LaGrange's Tom Melchoir, a 5-10, 165-pound senior, was a terrific competitor for the Lions of Tony Juska, linebacker on defense and a vicious tackler. Co-Captain of the squad, Tom ranks in the upper-third of his class.

Glenbard West's Bob DesRochers scored nine touchdowns in league play, four against LaGrange, and was named Back of the Week by the Chicago American. Fast and shifty, DesRochers is a 5-10, 165-pound senior.

Prospect JVs Edge Glenbrook

Prospect's JV footballers squeezed out a 7-6 fourth quarter victory over Glenbrook's Spartans last Friday night to close out their 1960 season.

Bob Hoese's boys, down by six points at the start of the final period, roared down the field to tie the game with 9:54 left on a five-yard plunge by Fullback Jim Anderson.

Anderson then cinched the Knight victory as he dove into the end zone for the extra point.

Glenbrook scored its six points in the second quarter when Quarterback Barry Schockmel hit Halfback John Coffey in the end zone with a 20-yard pass.

The game, played in rain and mist, was marred by fumbles. Both teams watched several scoring drives fold as the ball slipped away.

Ron Fogarett Rolls 300 In Arlington Lanes Loop

Those Paddock Classic traveling league bowlers continue to make the headlines.

Ron Fogarett, of 656 E. Chicago ave., Palatine, became the third Classic bowler within an 18-day period to bowl a sanctioned 300 when he recorded a perfect game last Thursday in the Arlington Lanes scratch league.

Fogarett, who bowls for Tommy Thomas' Casablanca in the high-flying Paddock league, joined Bill Radunz of Arlington Heights and Lee Adams of Mt. Prospect in the select group of 300 bowlers.

RADUNZ rolled his perfect game in the All-Star eliminations at Beverly Lanes Oct. 16. Adams responded with a 300 at Garden Recreation Oct. 27. Both are Paddock Classic league bowlers.

Fogarett, 29, bowls in three leagues and was rolling for the Bruns Realty team in the Arlington Lanes Classic when he registered his big game. Anchoring the Bruns outfit, Ron rolled his 300 against a 246 by Tom Kouros of the losers and enabled the realtors to win the match by 37 pins.

Fogarett and Kouros, proprietor of Arlington Lanes at 8 N. Vail, have been battling for the individual average lead in the Paddock Classic all season with both averaging above 200.

FOGARETT'S 300 was the sixth registered at the Arlington Lanes. Other men on record who have gained the perfect game through the years are Romo Becker, John Duthorn, Chris Trost, Wally Tesch, and George Hesch.

The latest 300 bowler works as head clerk with the Chicago and North Western railroad in the freight claims department. He is married and has one child, four-year-old Anita. (SP

Cardinals' Frosh-Sophs Stop Maine

Arlington high's frosh-soph football team concluded its 1960 campaign in the same manner as it kicked off the schedule back in September —with a decisive victory.

The Cardinals of Bill Daletski and Dick Ohl pasted East Leyden 39-0 in their opener and dumped Maine township East last Saturday in their terminating contest, 20-0.

For the season the young Cards registered five victories in eight contests, recovering from a slump that resulted in three straight defeats to handle a visiting Maine unit last Saturday.

ARLINGTON HIGH'S fourth place finisher in the West Suburban couldn't get rolling until the second period Saturday but turned in an impressive march for its first touchdown.

Chuck Close engineered the initial score with 12 plays covering 51 yards. Close, Ken Layden, and Rog Lindstrom picked up the first downs in the attack with the six-pointer coming on a Close to Dan Meyer aerial from 12 yards out.

Meyer, who grabbed four of Close's passes for 43 yards and two touchdowns in his afternoon's work, took in the first scoring pitch with 4:33 remaining in the first half and Close ran for the extra point.

Seconds later Meyer intercepted a Maine pass and returned to the visitors' 33-yard line to set up the second touchdown.

FOLLOWING an incomplete pass, Close and Meyer teamed upon two completions to the Maine 16. Close carried to the 14, then Chuck and Dan teamed up again, this time carrying the final 14 yards for the touchdown with 1:03 remaining before intermission. Close ran for the PAT.

Arlington threatened again toward the end of the first half when Lindstrom picked off a Maine pass, but the Cards' drive was checked on the two-yard line as the gun sounded.

The Cards put the lid on the afternoon's scoring the first time they handled the ball in the third period.

A MAINE PASS on fourth down failed and Arlington took over on the Demons' 32-yard line. Layden carried for three, Lindstrom picked up six, and then Rog drove for seven more.

Four plays later Lindstrom cracked in from the five with 5:41 remaining in the third period.

Arlington drove to the Maine seven toward the end of the third stanza and had a touchdown called back but couldn't punch over another score.

With Daletski and Ohl clearing the bench and also using some freshmen brought up for the game, the Cards held on in the final period and chalked up their fifth win of the season.

Prospect Rolls Over Glenbrook Spartans!

by TOM McSHANE

There was great joy in Mudville last Friday night as the Prospect Knights rolled over Glenbrook 46-0 on the rain-soaked Spartan gridiron to finish their second season of varsity competition with a perfect 8-0 record.

Coach Bill Beckman's team, their three varsity tutors riding their padded shoulders, ran, leaped, and danced their way joyously to the team bus after the game. Most of the young men were caked with mud and soaked to the skin, but there never lived a happier group.

The Knights bade farewell to 1960's football season with their finest performance of the year.

Halfbacks Keith Voigt and Tom Petrosino led the Prospect attact, countering five touchdowns between them as they ended the season in a tie with Proviso West's Logan Dugaw for the Interim association scoring championship with 42 points apiece.

AND THE Knight defensive line gave strong testimony that it must be rated one of the best in the state by limiting Glenbrook to three first downs, a minus 11 yards rushing, and 49 in the air.

Once again Prospect scored the first time it got the ball, mounting a 19-play, 62-yard march that ended when quarterback Fred Lussow shoved into the end zone from one foot out. End Dennis Leonard kicked the point, and Prospect held a 7-0 lead with 4:01 left in the opening quarter.

Voigt made it 13-0 two minutes later with a 20-yard dash over center after End Mel Aukamp intercepted a Glenbrook pass on the Spartan 45 and ran it back 25 yards.

THE KNIGHTS, exhibiting the crushing ground game that worked so well at the start of the season, kept right on going in the second period. With 1:06 left in the half Voigt went nine yards around his own left end to make it 19-0.

Voigt scored his third touchdown in the opening minutes of the second half with a one-yard dive over tackle. Leonard added the point.

Petrosino got into the scoring act as the fourth quarter opened with a three-yard sweep of right end. Leonard missed the point and the Knights led 32-0.

THE SIXTH Prospect score came with 2:36 left in the game after end George Pomey intercepted a Spartan pass on the Glenbrook 30 and had a touchdown runback nullified by a penalty. Petrosino eventually got the six points with a 14-yard sweep of right end. Leonard made it 39-0 with his kick.

Pomey's moment of glory was resurrected two minutes later when he picked off a 29-yard scoring pass from Quarterback Bob Glaser with 25 seconds left in the game. Leonard booted another point and the Knights had a 46-0 victory.

The unbeaten Prospect team will be feted tonight with a banquet at the school cafeteria.

Frosh-Soph Harriers Top Maine

Arlington's varsity and frosh-soph cross country teams closed out the 1960 campaign Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 2, with a split against Maine township East.

The varsity Cardinals suffered their sixth dual meet loss with the Blue Demons rolling up a 19-66 count, but Frank Bohac's frosh-sophs moved into the league's first division with a 27-28 victory.

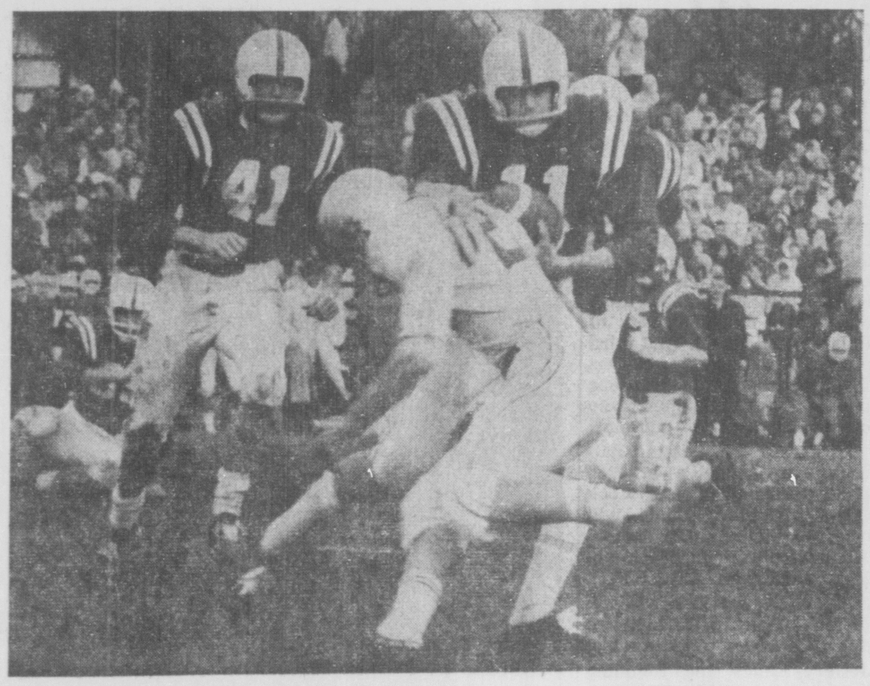
The younger Cardinals, third in the frosh-soph run, finished fourth in the dual meet standings with a 4 - 3 standard.

Glenbard West, state cross country champion, and LaGrange captured the varsity and frosh-soph titles in the West Suburban for 1960.

Palatine, CL Junior Varsity Tilt Cancelled

Thursday's scheduled junior varsity contest matching Palatine and Crystal Lake was cancelled.

Coach "Chic" Anderson's squad ended the season as the Pirates' only winning grid unit. The jayvees took three decisions as opposed to one setback.



SLIPPING BY Arlington's Ray Miller is Maine's quarterback Chris Adams on seven-yard pickup in second quarter of the visiting Blue Demons' 26-0 victory over the Cards last Saturday afternoon. Looking on is Maine's halfback Dave Hamman (41).

Maine Blanks Cards In Football Finale

by BOB FRISK

A football rivalry that had seen Arlington leveled nine times in nine years added a tenth chapter Saturday afternoon.

The cast was different but the story was similar to those that have unfolded annually since 1951.

Maine beat Arlington.

Coach Bud Gates' visiting Blue Demons scored the first time they handled the ball, added one touchdown in each of the final three periods, and tagged the Cardinals with a 26-0 league defeat.

The victory was Maine's tenth straight in the gridiron series with Arlington high that was initiated in '51 when the Cards entered the West Suburban conference.

THE LOSS was Arlington's eighth straight of 1960 and it pushed the hosts into the WSC basement, a position the Cardinals also held in their first year of league competition in 1951.

Arlington rolled to a first down the first time it handled the ball Saturday but was stopped on the next series and forced to punt.

Eight plays later Maine scored what proved to be the deciding touchdown of the Dads' Day encounter at Arlington, the grid finale for both loop outfits.

THE BLUE DEMONS took over on their own 22 and with Dave Hamman, Jim O'Donnell, Bruce Podewell, and Ron Yrigoyen doing the ball carrying, they moved to the Arlington 26.

On a first down play quarterback Chris Adams executed a beautiful fake, caught the Arlington secondary napping, and pitched a perfect strike to 6-4 end Steve Smith who was all alone for the touchdown with 3:57 remaining in the first period.

"Bus" Ormsbee's Cardinals got a break at the outset of the second period when Mike McDonald blocked a Maine punt and Dan Jennings recovered on the Demons' 35, but the hosts had to relinquish the ball on downs when a fourth and one effort failed on the 26.

THE BLUE Demons, seeking their second victory of the season and second straight of the WSC campaign, drove 73 yards for their second score with Yrigoyen sprinting the final 22 with five minutes remaining before the half.

Smith added the first of two extra points to give Maine a 13-0 lead.

Arlington recovered a fumble on its own 48 yard line with 1:30 remaining and in two plays penetrated to the Maine 37 with a Ross Retterer to Don Kolstad pass covering 14 of those yards.

IT TOOK THE visitors just five plays after the kickoff opening the second half to register their third touchdown. Podewell carried for eight to the Arlington 39, Hamman added 21 to the 18, Yrigoyen collected 12 to the six, O'Donnell burst to the one, and Adams carried over.

The clubs exchanged punts before Arlington put on a brief offensive burst that carried to the Maine 35 and was set back to the AH 46 before stalling. Retterer clicked on four passes, three to Kolstad, in the drive but a 15-yard penalty was too much to overcome.

Arlington drove to the Maine 17 at the outset of the fourth period but Mike Kunz picked off a Retterer pass and rambled 85 yards with the Blue Demons' fourth and final score.

Another pass interception terminated the Cards' final scoring threat, and Maine wrapped up its tenth straight victory over Arlington.

Retterer's passing accounted for 102 of the loser's 166 total yards and Kolstad grabbed eight of Ross' aerials for 74 yards. Five of Arlington's nine first downs came via the air lanes.

Prospect's Sophs Finish at 6-1-1

Prospect piled up a 19-0 halftime lead and breezed in with another decisive frosh-soph football victory last Saturday morning.

The Knights of Ted Wissen concluded their season with a crushing 39-6 victory over Deerfield. In its previous game Prospect had leveled Maine West 38-0.

Prospect jumped off to a 13-0 first period lead on a one-yard scoring effort by Bob Gerrard and 55-yard scamper by Dan Johnson, and Tommy Cross added the third and final tally of the first half with a 40-yard sweep.

CROSS RODE home from 25 yards in the third period and Dennis Mitchell took a 10-yard pass from Gerrard for the fifth TD. Kent Taylor rocketed 50 yards between guard and tackle for the final score.

John Krupa kicked three extra points as Prospect's impressive sophomores terminated the 1960 season with a 6-1-1 standard.

Skating Club's Kickoff Meeting Set for Nov. 25

The "Kick Off" meeting for the 1961 skating season of the Mount Prospect Skating Club has been definitely arranged for November 25. The Lions Park field house in Mount Prospect will be the scene of the gathering and the meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

A very interesting program has been developed and will include nationally known Ed Schroeder, three-time member of United States Olympic speed skating teams and the 1960 Olympic squad coach, as guest speaker. Achievement medals will be awarded to all 1960 Mount Prospect squad members in recognition of their past efforts. All trophies and medals earned in competition by Mount Prospect skaters during the 1960 skating season, will be displayed.

New, interested skaters, and their parents, are invited to attend. A complete explanation of the club's programmed activities will be presented by Frank Grady, president of the organization. Helen Joy Lutsch, head coach, will address the group, outlining her plans for the development of novice skaters.

THE CLUB IS, this year, adequately staffed to teach the basics required for the improvement of new skating talent. Only the cooperation of the weather man will be needed to fulfill the program.

The "Winter Carnival" skating meet sponsored by the local club has received the approval of the Illinois Skating body and will be held at Lions Park on Monday afternoon, January 2. All top skaters of the Illinois Clubs will be competing in the first speed skating program sponsored by a bona-fide north-west suburban club.

The kick off program is being offered without charge, however, so that the membership committee can anticipate attendance, reservations will be appreciated. New skaters, or their parents, can make such reservations by calling Stephen Solley, Club Manager, at CL 3-8611.

Wrestling Clinic Set For Nov. 19

The University of Chicago will hold an all day wrestling clinic Saturday, Nov. 19, at Bartlett Gymnasium, 5640 University.

Ron Wangerin, Maroon mat coach, invites the wrestling mentors and physical education personnel from all area high schools and colleges to attend, and urges all participants to bring equipment with them, dress at the gym, and practice the wrestling techniques with the instructors. Wangerin has secured two outstanding coaches to appear.

Northwestern's coach Ken Kraft will discuss techniques for group instruction and demonstrate takedowns. Hal Nichols of Iowa State will highlight the afternoon session with demonstrations on escapes and reversals.

Kraft became the NU varsity wrestling coach in 1958 while still a senior in school. Last year he led the sophomore-laden Wildcats to a 6-2-2 record, the finest in Northwestern history.

A native of Galt, Ill., Kraft began his wrestling career at Sterling high school. He was undefeated in his senior year at Northwestern, winning the Big Ten 167 pound title. He was the first wrestler in NU history to be high scorer on the team three straight years.

Two Teams Tied for Top Slot In Classic Traveling League

A 1031 final game in which four of the five men were over 200 gave Cook County Mobile Homes the deciding game in its make-up position round match with Timroth Plumbing and deadlocked the two teams for first place in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

The eight-team Paddock Classic bowled the three position round games, postponed from Oct. 22 at Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling due to All-Star eliminations, at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights after completing their three regularly scheduled games for the night.

The top three teams Saturday won two of three games to retain last week's standing. However, Cook County Mobile Homes' two position round triumphs achieved a tie for the River-Rand based team for the league lead with Timroth Plumbing.

CASABLANCA, which had a chance to enhance its second place position as Cook County Mobile Homes and Timroth Plumbing were battling, fell victim to Pro Sport Center out of Gunnell's in Mt. Prospect in all three games. This dumped Tommy Thomas' Casablanca team back into fourth from which it had arisen a week ago.

It's a good thing that Pro Sport Center won all three games since its first three games were all losses to Bill Bond's Men's Wear, thus pushing them out of the title picture temporarily. However, with three triumphs, Pro Sport Center is still very much in the title picture.

Bill Bond's Men's Wear of Rolling Meadows, which set Pro Sport Center back on its heels, found games of 1003 and 1010 by Bill Cook Buick too much to overcome as it dropped two position round games. Even so, Bill Bond's replaced Bill Cook Buick in fifth place and for the first time this season sports a winning record, 17-16.

IN A BATTLE to stay out of the cellar, Jeffery Lanes won the third and playoff game, 925 to 869, to move out of the basement, a position which it had occupied for two weeks. Moyle Construction, the earlier occupant, went back to its former position.

Scores were below par Saturday night. Bill Bond's came out with the best total for six games, 5899, and Cook County Mobile Homes was second with 5830. Timroth Plumbing with 5759 was the only team in the 5700's.

Six men averaged 200 or better for the night. John Taylor of Waukegan topped the squad of 40 with 1259 on series of 670 and 589. His 670 series was high for the night. Chuck Gibson of Bensenville was right behind with 1256 on series of 635 and 621. Bill Radunz of Arlington Heights had 1242, Tom Kouros of Barrington Woods 1240, Frank Graff of Palatine 1231, and Don Christensen of Arlington Heights 1217.

TOP SERIES for the night was Taylor's 670 followed by a 665 by Ed Duff of Niles. High individual games were a 266 by Graff and 258 by Earl Fenimore of Arlington Heights.

Kouros, the leading bowler in the Paddock Classic, was the only one to maintain his average among the leaders. Kouros remained at 205. Second place Ron Fogarett of Palatine fell to 200. And third place Dick Nethaway of Des Plaines dropped to 197, one pin behind Bill Radunz who boosted his average two pins.

In games this coming Saturday at Gunnell's at 6:30 p.m., Casablanca and Cook County Mobile Homes will hook up in the No. 1 match. Meanwhile Timroth Plumbing takes on Bill Bond's Men's Wear which has begun to move upward of late. Pro Sport Center is pitted against Jeffery Lanes and rounding out the card will be Bill Cook Buick vs. Moyle Construction.

THE FISHING WAS GOOD! Can't you tell? On a recent three-day trip to northern Michigan this party enjoyed some fast and exciting action as they landed these trout. A special season on migrating rainbow or steelhead trout is still open, and these anglers battled the elements on Lake Superior. The water temperature was around 45, and it's still above freezing. Proudly displaying their catch are (l. to r.) Harry Langties of Westmont, Ill., and A. C. Jeffery, John Heintz and Dr. Morris Virnig of Arlington Heights.

Willowbrook Falls, 14-6 To Proviso

by PAUL POTYEN

Inability to stop punt returns was the story as the Willowbrook eleven ended its second football season Saturday with a 14-6 defeat at the hands of the Proviso West Panthers.

Highly-rated Proviso jumped off to a quick lead when star halfback Logan Dugaw returned a punt by Harlan Krafft 65 yards for a touchdown. Wofgang Meister kicked their first extra point and the Panthers led 7-0.

Only minutes later the fleet-footed halfback Bob Kerby broke loose on the Proviso 30 yard line and raced downfield to score a Warrior T.D. The extra point kick was wide and Proviso still led 7-6.

THE WARRIORS managed to hold the Panther offense down well throughout the game, and were on the offense much of the time, gaining almost 100 yards more than Proviso.

But Willowbrook couldn't stop Proviso's punt returns, and again in the fourth quarter Panther halfback Bill Silhan grabbed a punt and traveled 85 yards all the way for their second touchdown. Meister's extra point was good.

It was the same story as other Willowbrook games lost by points and won in yards gained, first downs, and passing. Bob Kerby did a fine job at halfback again, and Harlan Krafft's passing was good for 132 yards. The only other thing the Warriors needed was a little luck on their side.

Prospect's F-S Harriers Win

Prospect's frosh-soph cross country team brought down the curtain on its 1960 season with a 27-29 victory over Deerfield last week. Coach Dick Kinneman's Knights won the Interim assn. run three weeks ago.

Voice In Training

Nothing plays as important a role in the training of a new puppy as your voice and how you use it. To the pup, it tells him if you are pleased with his actions or you are not, however, one important point must be brought out and it is one which many people seem to forget.

The human child requires at least 18 months before he can begin to understand and respond to voice sounds and words, yet new dog owners will often expect a puppy a few weeks of age to understand words of admonishment and obey commands which haven't the slightest meaning to him. If you remember to take a little time, he will learn what is expected of him, but don't think that it will take place overnight.

The training of a dog, regardless if he is a pup or perhaps an older dog being trained for field or obedience work, depends largely on how you use your voice. By tone, a dog soon learns to know when you are pleased or not pleased with him. For example a puppy can be trained to wag his tail and be quite happy if you use the "bad dog" expression given in a praising tone of voice. By the same token "good dog" can be said in such a manner that the dog will look for a place to hide.

In training, a voice that conveys uncertainty makes a dog hesitant and nervous, while a voice that is firm and carries conviction gives a dog confidence. One thing that is most important, once you start your commands, always use the same one for what you want the dog to do and keep the tone the same. Another thing, don't have different people try to train the dog, especially when he is a pup. As he gets older this problem of someone new telling him what to do is not too bad, but at the start it can become rather confusing inasmuch as no two people will give the commands the same way and the voice inflections will vary. This, for example, is so evident that most obedience clubs will not permit a change from one member of the family training the dog to another for a period of three months while the dog is going through the start of beginning training.

Big Mistake

Many a dog owner having an eligible dog misses some real advantages of owning a purebred animal by neglecting to register him as soon as purchased.

A person buying a purebred dog receives a pedigree and an application for registration. By filing his application immediately, he will also have himself listed as the rightful recorded owner. By waiting, the certificate may be lost and situations, such as the death of the breeder or destruction of records may have occurred.

There are other practical values in having a dog registered. It is easier to dispose of a registered dog, and, of course, at a better price. The owner can breed his dog with the assurance that, if mated to another registered animal, the puppies will have added value because they will be eligible for registration. Puppies cannot be registered unless the sire and d. are registered.

The Two "H's

Right now the hunting and dog house cleaning seasons are well upon us. The latter is a must if you want your dog to be in good shape to go through the winter. If he is kept outside, the dog house should be checked for leaks. New straw should be put in and in general an inspection to make sure that everything is snug and tight—nothing is more discouraging than to try to sleep under a leaking roof, even for a dog. His health will soon be affected.

That hunting dog should be in good shape if you spent some time with him before the season started. Opening day is not the time to train. And one other little point, as your hunting dog gets older, don't expect him to have the same speed as when he was a youngster. Friends of your editor just returned from South Dakota and the dog that went on this pheasant hunting trip to do the hard work—bringing in the birds knocked down—is getting a little older and as a result spent a day or two just sleeping when he got home.

First Shutout

Michigan State's 4-0 soccer defeat to St. Louis University in 1960 was MSU's first shutout loss in its five-year history of the sport.

Wrestling Clinic Set For Weekend

Approximately 100 high school wrestling coaches from throughout the state will attend the annual clinic in Champaign Friday and Saturday. "Swede" Umbach, Auburn University, and Charles Farini, East Leyden high school, will be the featured speakers.

Sessions are scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday. Program will include opportunity for practical work and coaches wishing to participate have been asked to bring their own equipment.

The clinic is sponsored jointly by the Illinois High School Coaches Association and the University of Illinois Athletic Association.

Women's Action

Lake Zurich Outfit Takes Classic Lead

Vernon Hills Restaurant of Lake Zurich, after dropping its opening game to Morton Pontiac of Arlington Heights, rallied to take the final game and break its deadlock for first place in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League with Morton Pontiac Saturday night at River-Rand Bowl in Des Plaines.

The Lake Zurich team, rolling out of Country Lanes in Lake Zurich, had three girls in the 500's, paced by a 553 series by Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein. Teammate Vi Douglas of Palatine was three pins behind and Marge Calkins of Lake Zurich shot 529.

Pat Proebstle of Arlington Heights tried her best to spur Morton Pontiac on with a 558 series, including a 205 game, but aside from the first game when four of the five girls shot in the 190's, Morton had trouble the rest of the night.

STEVE'S restaurant of Wheeling, top average team in the Classic, kept pace with Vernon Hills and picked up a game on Morton by taking two of three from Northfield Bowl. Delores Harris of Wheeling and Dona Reynolds of Northbrook paced Steve's, which bowls out of Jeffery Lanes, with 543 and 524, respectively. Gloria Lucchesi of Winnetka paced Northfield with 508.

River-Rand Bowl placed more distance between itself and the two bottom teams by taking a pair from Sims Bowl. Alice Ulrich's 213 game won the second encounter for River-Rand after dropping the first as Maxine Moehling of Mt. Prospect rolled 215 to give Sims a first game victory. However, it was the 579 series by Hazel Steiger of Arlington Heights which provided River-Rand with its over-all push. Alice Ulrich totaled 565 for the winners and Peggy Sparks of Rolling Meadows 544. Captain Ruth Beyer of Palatine had Sims' top series, 579.

The 579 series by both Hazel Steiger and Ruth Beyer were high for the night and the 235 game by Ruth Beyer was the best single game effort.

Safety Council Raps Yule Party

The National Safety Council again is urging business and industry to dry up the Christmas office party.

"Our figures prove," said the council, "that the early hours of the Christmas holiday are the most dangerous. And many of these highway accidents can be traced back to the office party and its flowing bowl."

THIS IS THE third straight year the council has asked its 8,000 business and industrial member concerns to take a long, hard look at their office parties and either keep the cork in the bottle or eliminate the parties.

The effort to remove highball hilarity from office parties is a highlight of an intensive campaign the council is waging to hold down the year-end accident toll, traditionally the heaviest of the year.

The campaign will begin December 1 and continue through New Year's day. Its theme will be "Keep Christmas in your driving."

The council is seeking the active support not only of business and industry, but of religious leaders of all faiths, public officials, traffic police and civic groups in a united nationwide effort to hold down the usual year-end surge of accidents.

THE COUNCIL emphasized it has no desire to dampen the traditional Christmas spirit.

"On the contrary," it said, "we are trying to eliminate the sources of highway accidents—accidents which can completely ruin Christmas for anyone they touch.

"There is no surer way to make a mockery of 'Merry Christmas' than to have an accident."

Churches and synagogues are being urged to influence their members to keep the threat of drinking drivers to a minimum over the Christmas holiday season.

"Drinking and driving," the Council pointed out, "are a lethal combination—not only at Christmas parties, but any time, anywhere.

"Let's make our holiday toast this year, 'None for the road'." (BB

Parents Cautioned About Yule Toys

"Don't give your child a boobytrap this Christmas!"

That's the advice of the National Safety Council, a nongovernmental agency organized in 1913 to prevent all kinds of accidents—including those involving children's "harmless" toys.

"Some of the toys given youngsters as Christmas gifts," said Phil Dykstra, the Council's director of home safety, "can be lethal weapons."

"NOT ALL THE blame for toys that become hazardous to children after a few hours' use should go to the manufacturers," he said.

"Parents have as much—if not more—responsibility for toy safety as the manufacturers."

While Dykstra said he believes toy makers should keep safety foremost in mind—"And most reputable toy manufacturers do"—he recommends the following for parents:

1. Buy toys that do not have small removable parts or such unsafe parts as eye-threatening pieces of metal. "Learn from experience—and from other parents—what types of toys most often cause trouble."

2. Buy toys suited for the child at his particular age. "A chemistry set in the hands of a 5-year-old might be a deadly weapon. But it's not necessarily unsafe for an older child who has been properly trained and supervised."

3. Supervise use of toys your children get for Christmas.

"IF YOU SEE that your child is too young for a particular toy," Dykstra advised, "put the toy on a shelf until it's ready for safe use.

"Manufacturers are doing their best to produce safe toys. With the help of parents, toy accidents can be virtually eliminated." (BB

W. T. Grant Store Slated in Suburbs

W. T. Grant, Inc. has signed a 20-year lease for a 25,000 square foot department store to be built at part of a shopping development on Kirchoff Road in downtown Rolling Meadows, it was announced recently by Arthur Rubloff & co., leasing and managing agents.

Construction of the Grant store, and six additional stores comprising approximately 6,000 square feet, will begin on or about Nov. 15. The development adjoins an existing Eagle Foods supermarket.

A $350,000 mortgage for the development has been placed with Great Lakes Mortgage co., represented by Frank Fleck. Total cost of the project is estimated to be $500,000. The Harris Trust and Savings bank is acting as trustee for the owner.

Gene Beak, vice president of Arthur Rubloff & co., acted as broker for the owner; Jay Chananie, of the Rex Levy co., New York, was co-operating broker. Attorney for the owner was Alfred Newton.

Architect for the shopping development is Sidney H. Morris & Associates, Chicago. General contractor is Fred W. Skirrow & co.

Families Occupy B-Ville Terrace Development

Bensenville Terrace, the 3.5 million dollar Town House development, started less than a year ago, is now well under way with families already occupying their new homes.

Section one of this ambitious project, the largest Town Home development in the history of DuPage county, and calling for the development of 220 town houses, reached the completion stage a week before Labor Day of this year and was sold out in the next few weeks.

The first families have already moved into their new homes and Bensenville's newest residential sector is now beginning to take definite shape.

THE PROPERTY is located at Irving Park rd., three blocks east of York rd., and extends south from Irving Park rd. along Hamilton dr., Bensenville's newest thoroughfare.

This modern Town Home development with units having over 1250 square feet of living space and containing three bed rooms, one and one-half baths and a full basement, is designed to keep pace with the growth of the northwest suburban communities owing to the completion of O'Hare International Airport and the steady growth of Centex Industrial Park.

Last year at a special Bensenville chamber of commerce meeting, airline officials pointed out that O'Hare's future is in many respects the future of the northwest suburban communities.

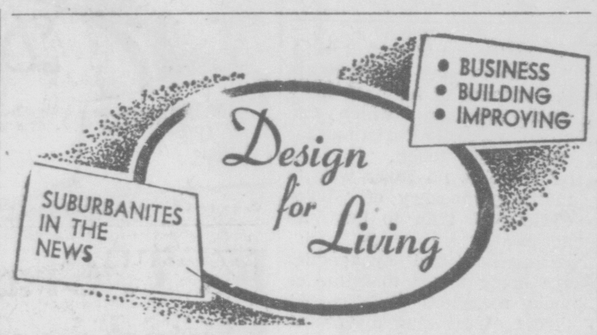
AS THE AIRPORT grows in this expanding jet age, so will the nearby communities, which will be the homes of so many thousands of employees at the terminal.

It was further pointed out at the Bensenville conference "conservative estimates" indicate that there will be 1,000 jobs available each year in the next five years in the airline operations alone.

Added to this are the jobs in related activities, including airport management, post office, service enterprises, express offices and many others.

To complete this picture of expansion is the large industrial development taking place just north of Bensenville and west of York rd.



A ROSELLE RESIDENT, Robert J. Lindner (left), of 22W285 Lawrence, receives a handshake of congratulations from George H. Struthers, vice president in charge of merchandising for Sears, Roebuck and co., on his 35th anniversary with the firm. A buyer in the company's boys' furnishings buying department, Lindner joined Sears in October of 1925.

Paper Sales Conference

C. J. Hopkinson Jr., 413 N. Wille st., Mt. Prospect, and Charles Nielsen, 3508 Bobolink, Rolling Meadows, salesmen for Clement Colortype, Inc., attended a printing paper sales meeting at the Marketing Center of Kimberly-Clark corporation Friday.

The conference was sponsored by Kimberly-Clark and Berkshire Papers, Inc., Chicago distributor of Kimberly-Clark printing and business papers.

The meeting, attended by more than 60 persons from the Chicago area, included discussions of printing techniques and problems and a tour of Kimberly-Clark paper mill and research facilities.

Public May Tour Dresden Station

Dresden Nuclear power station, the world's largest atomic power plant, is now open to visitors for group tours by appointment, it is announced by Public Service company.

The $51,000,000 station, which was dedicated on October 12, is located on the Illinois waterway near Morris, Ill. It is now in regular operation on the Commonwealth Edison-Public Service company system. The plant, which has a net generating capability of 180,000 kilowatts, is the nation's first full-scale, privately financed atomic power plant.

TOUR arrangements for groups of 10 or more persons should be made by writing to the station at least three weeks in advance of proposed visits. Requests for information or tour reservations should be directed to: Tour Manager, Dresden Nuclear Power Station, R.R. 1, Morris, Ill.

Weekday tour appointments will be made between 4 to 7 p.m., while Saturday, Sunday and holiday visits will be scheduled between 10 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. The Dresden tour service is available to any group, high school age or over.

SPECIAL viewing galleries have been constructed at Dresden to enable visitors to see the control room, turbine room and fuel handling building. In addition, the original construction office for the plant has been converted into an exposition building with a small auditorium and an exhibit hall.

"Inside Dresden," a 12-minute, full color movie, is shown at the start of each tour. Visitors are then conducted into the exhibit hall, which features an animated model of Dresden. Models of fuel assemblies, control rods and other displays help to show how kilowatts are made from atoms at the modern nuclear plant. Tour escorts are technical instructors from high schools in the plant's vicinity. (BB

New Magnavox TV Is Now at Dreyer

CHAS. MILLHOUSER

These new instruments were made available to purchasers October 24 through the Magnavox dealers throughout the United States. You may see the new Magnavox at Dreyer's Magnavox studio.

Charles Millhouser, sales manager of Dreyer's Magnavox studio, 704 E. Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights, announces the arrival of the new 27-inch screen Magnavox.

There are nine models in three categories: horizontal and vertical consoles as well as the first stereophonic high fidelity home entertainment center, which incorporates the new TV picture size as well as a stereophonic phonograph FM and AM radio.

A SEPARATE FM radio tuner has been made a part of several models in the new line. Also, the new instruments have jacks suitable for adding either monaural record players or the utilization of the high fidelity speaker system as a second channel for stereo use.

New concept of the home entertainment center is the 27-inch "Spectacular Stereo Theatre." This instrument, which is only 60 inches wide, has the screen in the center of the cabinet with a stereophonic speaker system on each side. Gliding top panels give access to the changer and controls.

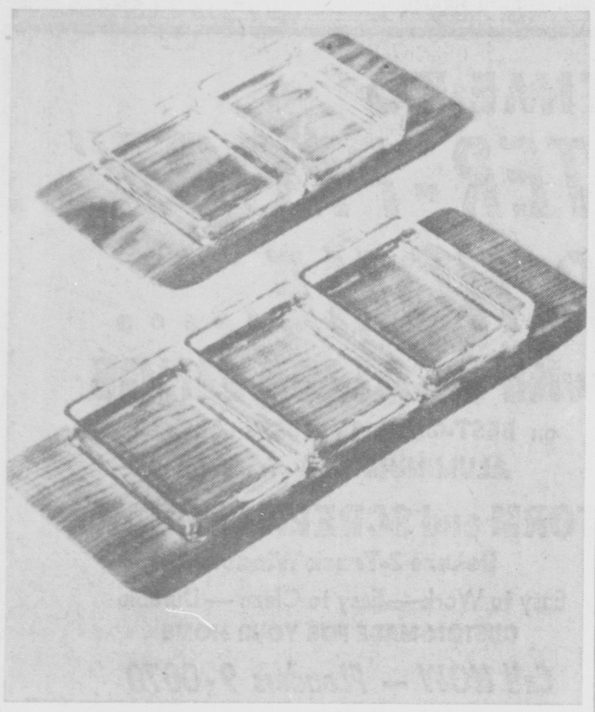
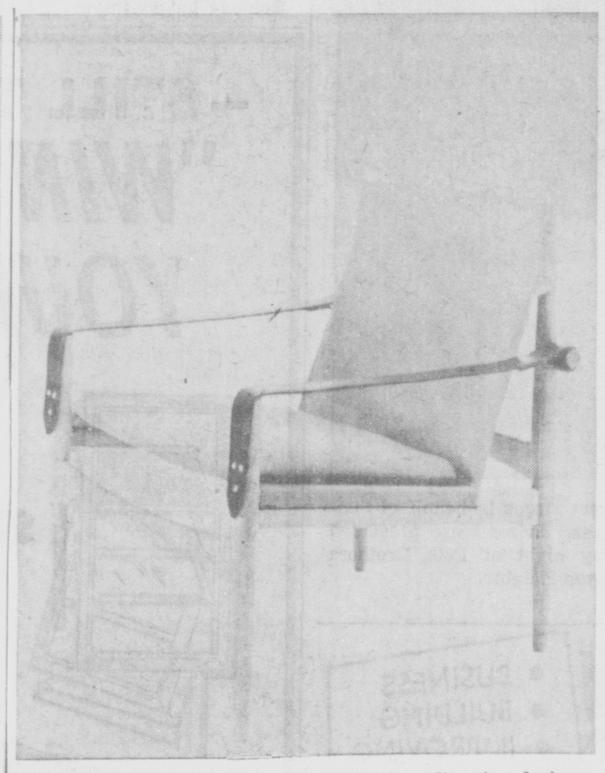
Scandinavian Crafts Exhibit Now on View

Mule Breeder

George Washington was the first breeder of mules in the U. S., with two full-blooded jacks sent to him in 1785 by the King of Spain.



FOR SOMEONE who wants to go "all-out" Scandinavian, there is a vast range of gift items and accessories to choose from. These classically simple teak canape and relish trays with removable glass dishes are imported by Frederik Lunning from Denmark and in this area are available at The Designer's Shop, a division of Petersen Interiors, Inc.



TYPICAL OF THE gracefulness of Scandinavian-designed furniture is this lounge chair from Sweden called the "Gazelle chair." Featuring a teak frame, leather strap arms and a suede upholstery cover, it received a "citation for excellence for merit in design" by the American Institute of Decorators at Chicago's International Trade Fair last June. Shipments of this chair and other Scandiline Furniture have just arrived and are being shown at The Designer's Shop, a division of Petersen Interiors, Inc.

A crafts exhibit in the form of distintively designed Scandinavian furniture is now on view at Petersen's Designer's Shop, Elms shopping center, Arlington Heights.

"We are first in the Chicago area to display these new, outstanding designs from Denmark and Sweden," says Arthur E. Petersen Jr.

Just arrived at the store is a shipment of furniture and lamps from Sweden, a group of Scandiline Furniture from the NK Furniture Factories in Nykoping.

Late last June other shipments arrived at the store of the famous Mogens-Kold furniture by the well known Danish designer, A. Hovmand Olsen. This furniture came from factories in Kerteminde, and Odense, Denmark. The newly - arrived Scandiline group includes hanging and floor lamps as well as furniture.

THE PUBLIC is invited to view the exhibit. All items can be purchased.

The store is also featuring as part of the exhibit a wide selection of Scandinavian dinnerware, accessories and other gift items suitable for Christmas giving.

The Designer's Shop is open Monday, Thursday and Friday evenings until 9 p.m.

AMERICAN WOMEN are hearing a lot about Scandinavian furniture these days. Why is it so popular?

Scandinavian furnishings have gained rapid and wide acceptance because they offer a happy balance of old and new, and a combination of beauty plus utility. A furniture design in this category has none of the ornamentation or fanciness which would make it impractical for today's smaller rooms. On the other hand, such a design is neither too simple nor too small for the larger spaces and traditional furnishings of older homes. Designs are soft, graceful and functional—all features which adapt to all types of homes and tastes.

Scandinavian designers believe in the craft approach. Their creations combine skilled hand - craftsmanship with traditional materials such as wood, fabric, cane and wicker. Their designs possess a timeless quality. Unlike some furniture fads, Scandinavian furnishings will not become outdated. Woods used are walnut, teak, oak or beech, often in combinations plus oil finishes which are complementary, durable and easy to maintain. Woven and printed upholstery fabrics feature the finest materials and a wide range of both bright and muted colors.

FOR THE homeowner who wants to go "all out" with Scandinavian, there are many types of accessories you can buy as well as furniture.

She'll find decorative lamps of all kinds, often of sculptured teak and linen shades; dinnerware in all varieties from teakware to stainless steel flatware, vividly colored enamel on steel serving pieces and table linens; plus a wide assortment of gift items particularly suitable for Christmas giving from flower vases, ashtrays and condiment sets to trays and small sculptures.

FIRST INSTALLATION of Seinelight, a unique system of building flood lighting, was completed recently at Citizens Bank & Trust company in Park Ridge. The new system, named for its inventor, Georges Seine, lights the building walls by fluorescent tubes mounted directly on the walls themselves. A radical new reflector design using nearly parallel walls instead of parabolas, it is claimed, gives a greater "throw" of fluorescent light than any previous system and completely eliminates glare.

Pure Oil Co. Reports Earnings To Shareholders

Net income of the Pure Oil company increased to $20,213,000 for the nine months ended Sept. 30, up 5 per cent from $19,242,000 for the comparable period last year, it was reported to shareholders by Rawleigh Warner, chairman of the board, and Robert L. Milligan, president.

Earnings for the recent nine months were equivalent to $2.04 a share on 9,894,011 common shares outstanding at Sept. 30, compared with $2.21 a share for the 1959 period on 8,700,130 shares outstanding at Sept. 30, 1959.

Pure's 1960 results included for the full nine months the earnings of Woodley Petroleum company and its subsidiary, substantially all of whose assets were acquired on April 1, 1960.

TOTAL nine-month income was $487,331,000, up 5.5 per cent from $461,758,000 in the comparable 1959 period.

Sales of all refined products totaled a record 2,178,000,000 gallons, up 6.8 per cent from the first nine months last year.

Crude oil production increased 16.2 per cent to 20,581,000 net barrels. Natural gas production increased 6 per cent to 84.7 billion cubic feet.

IN THE first nine months Pure drilled 116 net wells in the United States, completing 64 as oil wells and 14 as gas wells. Included in the total were 32 exploratory wells, of which five produced oil and five produced gas.

In Bolivia seismic tests have indicated the presence of a favorabale geological structure in the 1,200,000-acre concession in which Pure owns a one-third share, Warner and Milligan said. A deep test well will be drilled late this year.

The company is continuing to develop and evaluate its Lisbon fields in Utah and Colorado. All told, eight producing wells and one dry hole have been completed, two wells are drilling, and another is nearing completion.

Pure has recently acquired an additional 9,000 net acres, bringing its total Lisbon leases and options to approximately 90,000 net acres.

Reminder To Drivers Is Issued

As the seasonal rush of applications for motor vehicle licenses approaches, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier reminded motorists they are to list their drivers license numbers on the applications for license plates.

This added item of information is being asked to achieve greater coordination in the state's traffic safety program by making it possible to cross file information in the files of the automobile division, drivers license division and safety-responsibility division, Carpentier said.

THE RESULT will be a reduction in the possibility of error in identifying persons whose driving privileges have been revoked or suspended, and speeded up identification of motor vehicles and motor vehicle operators.

It is the first time an effort has been made to coordinate fully the data in the three files, Carpentier said. (BB

Illinois Farm, Meat Industry Men Kickoff Market Promotion

"GIVE MEAT FOR CHRISTMAS—it is always in good taste," was stressed at the Farm bureau's seventh annual Chicago meat promotion recently. About 125 farm men and women participated in the Illinois Agricultural association-sponsored meeting. Viewing meat packaged for the holidays are (l. to r.) Dale A. Bainbridge, Rockford; Lee Campbell, PENB & Institute of American Poultry industries, host; Arthur Reimers, Long Grove; John Friese, Palatine, and Robert Erwin, Caledonia.

About 125 Illinois farm men and women came to Chicago Wednesday Nov. 26, to boost the sale of meat and become acquainted with the "rest of the team." To help do this, wholesalers, packers, processors and others who complete the farm-to-customer cycle in marketing showed how they merchandise meat after it leaves the farm.

More than 170 farm and meat industry representatives attended a get-acquainted breakfast at Chicago's Sheraton Towers hotel. Following the breakfast the farm people were guests of the meat industry representatives for tours of meat preparation and merchandising facilities—such as restaurants, hotels and packing plants.

In a welcoming talk, William J. Kuhfuss, IAA president. told how Illinois farmers are boosting the sale of farm products through a voluntarily-financed promotion program.

"FARM PEOPLE and the people who handle our food products after they leave the farm are more and more interdependent on one another," Kuhfuss said. "These visits to places where Chicagoans handle our food products will help farmers better understand some of the problems in merchandising meat."

Purpose of the seventh Chicago meat promotion, is twofold according to Dwight Davis, Illinois Agricultural association associate secretary of marketing.

1. The promotion was designed to kick-off the "Meat for Christmas" activities for farm people throughout Illinois. This program is aimed at getting more employers to give gifts of quality meat products to employees and to encourage retailers to appropriately display gift-packaged meats.

2. The promotion was an educational approach to marketing. It stressed the necessity of considering the consumer's wants and deciding how best to market farm products.

"People who work with our farm commodities are dedicated people, interested in doing a good job, making profit both for themselves and their suppliers, and efficiently bringing to the consumer more quality food within the limits of the average budget," Davis said.

"Farmers are vitally interested in cooperating with business people in getting our commodities where they can be consumed," he explained. "This is not a job of one person or group. It is of concern to all of us." (FM

Successful Farmer Gets Full Use From Equipment

The business-minded farmer who knows how to best use what he already has is the one who will still be farming for a profit in the years ahead, Roy Van Arsdall, USDA agricultural economist, told key livestock marketing men meeting at the University of Illinois recently.

Today we hear a lot about the "gadgeteering" farmer who is increasing volume and cutting labor costs by moving material with machines. "But," Van Arsdall asked, "is he taking advantage of the equipment and facilities he already has, and is he using equipment that will make him the most money?"

Illinois cattle feeders are finding out that it is expensive to have machines stand idle six to eight months of the year. The capital tied up in seldom-used machines is not working for the greatest return per dollar invested. Automated cattle feedlots in the west are run like factories, Van Arsdall said.

The secret is finding the right combination of machines and production methods that will result in the greatest net farm income, he added. Unloading silage by hand from an upright silo is hard work. Nevertheles, when labor is figured at $1 an hour, nearly 350 beef cattle are needed to justify an unloader for corn silage. If labor costs $2, then the unloader starts paying for itself with 150 cattle.

Farmers can choose from at least half a dozen methods for distributing feed. Economists have found that hand feeding is the cheapest method for herds smaller than 50 head.

IF THE farmer is building a new feed lot, a mechanized bunker will pay for itself with 50 head. However, the self-feeding wagon is the most practical method for the average cattle feeder who wants to mechanize his present system. The self-unloading wagon fits in well if the buildings are scattered or if pasture feeding is part of the program. Mobile equipment may be the more practical solution on rented farms and the versatility of mobile equipment can be an advantage on farms with other livestock enterprises.

Mechanical feeders are best with moderate-sized droves. If the mechanical bunk feeder requires hand labor or supervision while working, it loses advantage to the self-unloading wagon when drove size is larger than 200. If the operator is free to do other chores after starting the machinery, then the feeder is the less expensive method up to 500 head.

LABOR SAVING devices cannot help increase income unless funds are also available to purchase the livestock, feed supplies and other production items.

Capital needs are only 4 to 11 per cent greater in fully mechanized systems for beef cattle, sheep and hog enterprises than in ones that rely on hand labor. However, an outlay for feed may be returned within a few days, while an investment in equipment may take 10 years to recover.

It is the man in management who must decide whether mechanization offers any advantages on his farm. Buildings, livestock, equipment, labor and feedstuffs are seldom combined in just the right proportions. New labor-saving equipment may permit profitable expansion but a farmer should compare all his farming enterprises to know where equipment will help increase net income most, Van Arsdall said.

Dainty Darlins Name Officers

New officers of the Dainty Darlin's 4-H club are Margie Soens, president; Gail McFee, vice president; Donna Tobey, secretary; Sandra Petrie, corresponding secretary; Mary Meyer, treasurer; Carmella Westegaard, program chairman; Jaymee Bell, recreation chairman; and Nancy Neis, reporter. The group has a membership of 25 girls, who meet in the Methodist Youth Center. Mothers were invited to their last meeting. Mrs. Albers and Mrs. Gotto are the leaders.

THE NATIONAL COUNTY Agents association presented the distinguished service award to Carl F. Mees of Cook county recently. The award is presented to selected agents who demonstrate their ability in working with rural people and who have helped to improve the general economic and social welfare of the people in their counties. It is the highest award given by the association. Mees joined the agricultural extension service in 1944 as farm advisor in Randolph county. He has been farm adviser in Cook county since 1951 and resides at 408 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights.

National Service Award Won by Mees

Carl F. Mees, Cook county farm advisor was one of three members of the University of Illinois Agricultural Extension service who received a distinguished service award last week at the National association of County Agricultural Agents meeting.

Mees, 201 N.Darlington st., Arlington Heights, has served as Cook county's farm advisor for 10 years. He graduated from the University of Illinois with a B.S. degree in 1936. He earned his M.S. degree there in 1939. In 1959, he received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

During his service as farm advisor, Mees has been instrumental in organizing the Arlington Valley Growers, Inc., a marketing organization which does an annual volume of business greater than $1,000,000.

He has also promoted the use of the one-third quart of milk for school lunch programs.

The awards are presented annually to the top three county agents or farm advisor in each state.

A penny saved is a penny earned. A penny saved—in a fuse box—is a future burned. The small electric fuse has saved many homes and lives. Yet reports to the National Safety council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicate that entirely too many people are by-passing this important lifesaver. Sure a penny in the fuse box will light up the house, but that light might be from burning furniture! Replace a fuse with a fuse!

Illinois farm records show that the average feeder calf producer needs about 26 cents a pound to pay usual production costs for the calves he sells. This amount includes all direct cash costs and market prices for feed, direct labor and money invested in the beef cow. Farms with no other use for the roughage could get as little as 20 cents a pound in the short-run period. This indicates that cow herd owners may have slim profits the next few years.

PRODUCERS could increase profits by culling unprofitable cows now. The outlook may improve when cattle numbers go down.

Four pounds of good-quality legume hay furnish about the same amount of protein as one pound of a high-protein supplement. Keep these figures in mind when planning your wintering cattle rations. You might reduce your cost of gains.

Heavy calves and yearlings are better adapted to gleaning cornfields than lightweight calves. Cattle that glean cornfields should get legume hay or protein supplement to balance their ration and increase gains.

MARKET HOGS can safely follow cattle that are implanted or receiving stilbestrol in their rations. Breeding hogs can also safely follow implanting cattle. But, to be completely safe, it is recommended that they do not follow cattle receiving stilbestrol in the daily rations. The dangers of reproduction interference are greatest at breeding time.

Many feeders, however, report satisfactory results when breeding hogs have followed cattle receiving stilbestrol. They minimize the danger by feeding extra grain to the hogs throughout breeding and gestation.

If you are not using farrowing stalls, you are certainly missing a good way to save that extra pig or two in each litter.

WARM WATER is important in winter milk production. Every 100 pounds of milk contains 87 pounds of water. High-producing cows drink 20 to 30 gallons of water or more each day. In cold weather it costs less to warm this water with electricity, coal, oil, or gas before the cow drinks it than afterward with high-priced grain and roughage.

If you are wondering how much hay and silage to feed your milk cows this winter, here's the answer: Feed them all they will eat without undue waste. You can determine the proportion of hay to silage by the supply of each you have on hand, since one can be substituted for the other. About three pounds of silage replaces one pound of hay.

Mount Prospect Unit Hears Mrs. C. Upham

The October 19 meeting of the Mt. Prospect Home Bureau was held in the home of Mrs. H. W. Kolzow with Mrs. R. DeKimpe as co-hostess. The lesson subject, "Accident, Hospitalization and Health Insurance," given by Mrs. Claradehl Upham, home advisor, pointed out some very important facts which could be overlooked or even not known regarding one's insurance program.

October 26, the beehive at Jan Williams' home was a swarm of activity; some members were occupied with tiny glittering rhinestones making jewelry, others were cutting material for Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus door decoratons, and still others were producing modernistic Christmas trees of shining acetate.

The November meeting will be an all-day gathering in the home of Mrs. F. D. Pfeffer, 403 Mac Arthur, with Mrs. Arthur McMillan assisting. The Christmas feature, "Sandwiches for the Crowd," will be demonstrated by Mrs. Marie Ryan and Mrs. Dorothy Lockhart, and will provide the luncheon menu. Following this the regular afternoon meeting will be held, when the topic "Your Money's Worth in Furniture," will be presented by Mrs. Lorraine Thorne and Mrs. Florence Potter.

It was decided to have a Christmas party December 14 at Holloway House at 1 p.m., to which members may bring guests, and a gift for each. This will be the only December meeting. (FM

Ground Soybeans Uneconomic Feed

A University of Illinois dairy scientist warns Illinois dairymen that ground soybeans usually can't compete economically with other feeds for dairy cows.

K. A. Kendall said that ground soybeans will compete with corn and cob meal in the dairy ration only when beans sell at about the same price per bushel as corn.

Whether soybeans can replace soybean oil meal or other protein supplements in the ration also will depend on the relative prices of the products. But, in general, ground soybeans can't compete with soybean oil meal as an economical feed.

Some dairymen claim that feeding ground soybeans to cows will boost the butterfat content of their milk. However, in most tests the maximum increase is only about 0.25 per cent—not enough to cover the additional cost of grinding the beans.

Kendall warned that ground soybeans should not be added to concentrate mixtures that contain urea. That's because soybeans contain urease, an enzyme that acts upon urea and releases ammonia. This makes the feed unpalatable.

Corn Use Up; Prices Down

by L. H. SIMERL

The big election campaign headlines have obscured some important farm news items. One of these is that the disappearance of corn in each of the past three years far exceeded all previous records.

Evidence seems to support the belief that reducing the price of corn has brought about a substantial increase in the use of this grain.

Disappearance of corn in the year ending with September totaled 4.1 billion bushels. This total represents an increase of 10 per cent over the year before, 21 per cent over two years earlier, and 33 per cent over the five-year average ending in 1957.

Total use, or disappearance, of corn first topped 3 billion bushels in the year beginning October 1942. In that year disappearance totaled 3.2 billion bushels as farmers fed up surplus stocks that had accumulated just before World War II. Then for 15 years the amount used stayed in the 3.0 billion-to 3.2 billion-bushel range.

(The year 1947-48 was an exception. The corn crop was short in 1947, and only 2.5 billion bushels of corn were used.)

THE BIG JUMP in corn use in the past three years provides some important questions for consideration by farmers and Congress. One is: "What caused the big increase in the disappearance of corn?" Another: "What is the relation of price supports and price levels to the rate of use of corn?"

You may recall that a principal argument for reducing the price-support level for corn was that it would promote increased consumption. The national average support level was around $1.60 a bushel from 1952 through 1956. Then it was gradually reduced until it was $1.12 this past year.

Prices received by farmers for corn sold at local markets averaged around $1.47 a bushel during the first seven years of the 1950s. The last three corn crops brought $1.12, $1.03 and about $1.00 a bushel, respectively.

THE HUGE disappearance of corn in the past three years, 1957-1959, occurred in spite of an unprecedented increase in the production of other feed grains. Until three years ago, the production of sorghum grain never exceeded 250 million bushels. In the past three years the output of sorghum grain ranged from 564 million to 610 million bushels, or more than double the biggest previous crops.

The production of barley was far greater in the past three years than in any previous three-year period. The oat crop was small in 1959, but the average for the three years was about normal.

Exports of corn about doubled in the past three years, increasing from less than 100 million bushels a year to over 200 million bushels. There has been little change in the use of corn for food and industrial uses, which take around 265 million bushels annually. Thus the big increase in the use of corn is on farms, as feed for livestock and poultry. (FM

Recommend Fall Or Winter Spray

Chemical warfare is reaching behind the green curtain to help curb Dutch elm disease.

Dormant spraying of elms, once confined to the spring period before leafing, now extends to autumn after leaf fall.

The important point is that a single DDT spraying on bare trees has yearlong lethal power against invading elm bark beetles. These insects are the carriers of the Dutch elm malady.

E. T. Bowen, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert company, said fall often offers definite spraying advantages. Instead of the wet, cold and windy weather sometimes typical of spring, autumn and early winter frequently bring many bright, dry, mild and relatively windless days that are ideal for effective spraying operations. Too often dormant spraying planned for early spring or late winter may never get done because of weather conditions that are completely unsuitable.

Bird lovers, too, usually encourage fall and winter elm spraying because it comes at a time when it interferes the least with normal bird activity.

According to government researchers, DDT's residual effectiveness is remarkable. For this reason, sprays can be applied any time trees are bare and still be potent during the growing season. Only when trees are "de-frocked" can best chemical coverage be assured. (FM

'Alamo' Is Lost Cause In Movie Entertainment

by JIM PHILLIPS

Chicago is now loaded with motion picture releases, but—

Knowing that the shortest distance between two banks is a movie about cowboys, Indian scouts, cavalry officers, of mountain men, John Wayne has come up with a thing called "The Alamo," now playing at the Palace in Chicago. I am thoroughly convinced that John couldn't have produced this picture for any other reason than to create excitement in the Wayne savings account. It might have been for entertainment, beacause a few moments of the picture are entertaining—but for the most part, nearly four hours of it, "Alamo" is a lost cause about a lost cause.

IF YOUR 4-year-old prodigy hasn't spilled the chili beans already, this is the story of the heroic stand Davy Crockett (Wayne), Col. William Travis (Laurence Harvey), Jim Bowie (Richard Widmark), and assorted true-to-life "story-bookers" made against the forces of Mexican General Santa Ana in and around what is now a memorial in downtown San Antonio. And thereby hangs the plot.

What happens before the final showdown is quite disappointing from the production and direction standpoint, despite producer-director Wayne's tireless efforts in spending quite a few million dollars.

However, getting right down to the nouns and adjectives of the situation, the real villain in this technicolor teeth-rattling hot tamali is the childish and sometimes embarrassing script, which has John Wayne emoting un-Wayne-like love lyrics at Linda (I'm still trying to act) Cristal.

Not only that, but there are times when you wonder if Davy Crockett isn't Winnie-the-Pooh in disguise. If and when you care to spend legit theater prices for this Texas tour, you'll probably feel that the only thing missing from the title is "Walt Disney Productions and Buena Vista present . . . ."

"Alamo" has its drawing cards, despite what I've said previously. Richard Widmark portrays a well-adjusted Jim Bowie; Laurence Harvey is excellent as the dainty, yet heroic Col. Travis, and Richard Boone confidently appears as Sam Houston. John Wayne is still John Wayne, even when he gets speared to death. (Did Crockett really die this way?) As you've probably gathered by now, there are supporting actors all over the place. Taking the cactus by the needles, "Alamo" is just what the kids ordered, so let them go—when the picture is released to the peasants! Capsule Comment: "Remember the Alamo!—but forget the picture!"

BUTTERFIELD8: "Oh, if only you had done that years ago!" sobs Elizabeth Taylor as she takes a right to the mascara from her momma. And by this time, you know that georgeous Lizzy was practicing romantic medicine in her early school days; unfortunately, the slap she gets doesn't do much good. She still goes on being a typical John O'Hara female—and it's a good thing, otherwise this tramp named Gloria would be a complete failure instead of just a partial one. Nevertheless, our heroine, if you can call her that, rambles on from one wallet to the other, not knowing which way to go.

There is Liggett (Laurence Harvey), who is quite sure he's in love with her, and not his wife (Dina Merrill ; and there is Steve (Eddie Fisher) —good old forthright, patient, dependable, brother-type Steve, who welcomes her into his den whenever she takes the time to rest between rounds. He is not only a psychoanalyst and mind reader, but a simplethetic friend-in-need—a sort of Norman Vincent Peale version of Crusader Rabbit.

"Butterfield 8" is a weak picture drama-wise because it dwells too much on problems which could be solved easily in ten minutes instead of nearly two and a half hours. You could call it a sophisticated TV soap opera—it has that many characters. Elizabeth Taylor is good, but not as good as her press agents for "Butterfield 8" would have us think. Even Laurence Harvey (he got out of Texas quickly!) drops a peg or two in the ability column. Mildred Dunnock does a fine job as the pathetic mother, and Eddie Fisher isn't bad at all in a part that is not an actor's dream.

ONE OF THE big plus factors in "Butterfield" is the screenplay, which at times has John O'Hara's book twisted into an improved state. One of the best lines in the show comes when, during a cocktail lounge scene involving a number of fellow businessmen, Laurence Harvey discusses his love problems. One of the men greets him with: "Another of Gloria's romances, eh? Welcome to the club. We have regular meetings in Yankee Stadium!"

Well, you can probably see what you're up against: a technicolor "nasty" in Little Big Old New York, whcih might be "Taylored" a little too adultishly for its own good. Capsule Comment: "Sorry, the lioness is busy!"

Review of 'Girls in 509'

Weak Comedy Proves Disappointing Fare

By JO PARNELL

In an attempt to cry "a plague on all your houses," author Howard Teichman has nothing new to say in "The Girls in 509." On top of repeating the cynical attitudes toward politics and politicians, and tossing in his irreverent and irrelevant opinions on journalists, social workers, lawyers, professors (and anything else he can manage), he does so in the most uncreative manner. The comedy was a recent presentation of Village Theatre, Arlington Heights.

As the play opens, Aunt Hettie and her niece, Mimsy, are about to be routed from their once fashionable hotel room after having lived in complete seclusion since 1932. Aunt Hettie took this vow of isolation after the election of FDR, and swore never to drop her veil until the GOP was back in its rightful position of national leadership. Once their story is discovered, they are plagued by a steady stream of reporters, politicians and other intruders.

THE "GIRLS in 509" boils down to a burlesque of characters which are so manufactured that they come close to completely stifling any humor. The play itself is a series of contrived incidents which proceed according to the author's preconceived plan with little respect for logical development. Very little more need be said of such a shallow and unsatisfying work except that the very mediocrity of the material led unswervingly to a very indifferent performance.

Only two actors might be said to have distinguished themselves in this production of the Village Theatre. Norma Smith (Mimsy), played out the first act in an only adequate manner but hit her peak in the second act where her pixie like humor came forward as one of the saving graces of the production. John Lobenhofer (Prof. Pusey), was as always, delightful in his usual state of naive befuddlement, and made a perfect foil for the whimsical Mimsy. Mr. Lobenhofer has played this kind of ineffectual character through so many plays, he seems to have become a most tightly bound victim of type casting. It is my hope that one of these days he may find his way out of this straight-jacket and be given a chance to display another side of his talent.

THE OTHER performances were, at best weak, this being facilitated by a "bad" play and rather fuzzy direction. Playing too much at one level, the actors ran through speeches, depending on lines to carry them through. Too much reliance seemed to be placed on words and facial expressions and too often their bodies seemed only to be occupying space. Even in the spots where the necessity of using broad gestures was recognized, these movements had a soft and undefined quality to them. But most significant was the lack of relation of one character to the other. Outside of Miss Smith and Mr. Lobenhofer, each actor seemed to be on stage alone, playing to him or herself. Lacking this vital interplay of action and emotion, no dramatic performance can go very far, and the "The Girls," stayed permanently entombed.

The production remained undistinguished in its other aspects as well. The set, designed by the gifted Maurice Geye, in conjunction with Lynn Lobenhofer, was acceptable, but did not measure up to my expectations.

BUT LET'S face it; the play left little room for anything of an outstanding nature to occur. The main criticism must be levied at the choice of this "vehicle." While the subject matter would seem quite apropos to the season, and its treatment is frivolous enough to conform to the acceptable pattern currently in vogue for community theatre, it laid an egg.

Aren't there any good comedies around these days? If this is the best we can get from Broadway (and it's not far below the usual little theatre comedy fare) then perhaps its about time community theatre sought other sources for material. This was a play distinctly unworthy of a talented group like Village Theatre and comes as a sharp disappointment to one who expected them to reach out for ever more challenging theatre.

Newcomer to Roselle Is Prominent Artist

by LUCILLE ERNST

I would like to introduce you to one of our neighbors, one I think you will be as pleased to know as I am. I have always been amusd at would be artists who use a sociology text book instead of their own heart and mind and feel they are residing in a cultural wasteland since they moved to the suburbs.

The ironic part is they moved practically next door to one of America's finest painters. Her name is Mrs. Alexander Langsdorf and she lives in Roselle. You would know her as Martyl, the name with which she signs her paintings.

MRS. LANGSDORF is very young to be so famous, charming, pretty and fascinating to talk with. Her conversation sparkles with amusing anecdotes of her year's stay in England where she was asked to exhibit in the International Exhibition of Women Painters in the Royal British Art Gallery. Among the other American artists exhibiting was Mrs. Jackson Pollack.

Although Martyl is faced with a one man exhibition on November 12, at Finegarten Galleries in Chicago, she was quite relaxed. The secret, of course, is that this is her 25th one man show.

Martyl was born in St. Louis and has been painting since she was 12. She was constantly in the company of artists at a summer school of painting directed by her Aimee Schweig. After graduation from Washington University in St. Louis, she worked several summers at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center where she studied under Arnold Blanch and Boardman Robinson.

PRIZES WON are too numerous to mention but include the Frank Armstrong prize, the Mr. and Mrs. Frank Logan medal and prize, and the William H. Bartels award, all from the Art Institute of Chicago. This year she was selected as one of the outstanding American Artists of the year for the Museums Acquisitions exhibition, organized by the American Federation of Arts.

The painting, "Winter Landscape" is part of an exhibition now on tour of museums in France, Holland, and Germany selected by the Art Institute of Chicago in association with the United States Information Agency.

Martyl believes it is important for artists to communicate in words as well as paint. She has written a criticism of modern art for the St. Louis Post Dispatch as well as being art editor of "The Bulletin Of the Atomic Scientists. Her interest in science is more than understandable. Her husband is Alexander Langsdorf, a nuclear physicist.

Frank Holland, critic for the Chicago Sun Times, says of Martyl, ... "Widely recognized painter whose work regardless of medium is strong, vigorous and almost masculine in treatment . . . . striking textural arrangements, handsome design painted in carefully adjusted colors . . . . charged with ominous and dramatic possibilities . . . . "

STUART PRESTON of the New York Times has this to say: "She paints in a buoyant fashion, creating the effect of waves breaking in sunlight on her canvases, an agreeable form of expression composed of luminosity and muffled color . . . . "

Reviews in the Chicago Tribune, Arts Magazine and Art In America, are all as enthusiastic. Not that it matters but would you like to know what I thought? It seemd to me as I studied her portraits of her husband and children, that her paintings are all they say that they are just like the artist, sensitive, strong, and deeply, beautifully moving.

UP-BEAT VIEW

Yup! That's what the kids are calling our High School Fashion Board show that's going to be held next Thursday, November 17, right here at Wieboldt's Meadowdale.

BE SURE to be here at 7:30 sharp. Board members, readying their "real beat" costumes, are predicting this show will be "a ball — a riot — a BLAST . . . " Man, it's so way out, it's IN . . .

WE'D LIKE you to plan on having a coke with us, too!

IMPORT FAIR

COME SEE for yourself all our exciting new merchandise from the far-flung markets of the earth.

Our buyers have scoured the great markets of the world for you—the British Isles, Norway, Italy and Germany, the Orient . . .

HOW CAN I

possibly tell you about all the fabulous fruits of Wieboldt's travels?

Gorgeous sweaters from Norway . . . beautiful robes and lounging pajamas in stunning rich silks . . . hand-hammered pewter and brass pieces . . .

Our Director of Foreign Merchandise told me how he found in Hong Kong a whole room-full of people of all ages, from a bearded 80-year-old patriarch down to the littlest girl, all in one family, all working together on these pewter and brass objects d'art.

LUCK OF THE IRISH

I guess you'd call it—By mistake, some Irish artisans found they could make porcelain . . .

An error in one of their glazing processes was responsible for bringing about something completely new and beautiful: Irish Porcelain.

Carefully blended glazes, fired at very high temperatures, create a translucency of great beauty and durability. Irish porcelain, being vitreous, keeps hot things hot, and cold things cold.

SEE especially the smoky grey-green (blue-lined) tankards . . . every one a collector's item.

YOU WILL FIND

throughout our Import Fair, things which are not mass produced — things which are made in just enough quantity for Wieboldt's, and nobody else!

Brilliant glass from Murano . . . the town where you can't ride—not even a bike or horse . . .

"You just take your umbrella, and you walk," says our Import Buyer.

STUDY

the exquisite delicacy of our Geisha doll—intricate details of obi, parasol, clogs, hair ornaments. (We sell this lovely thing for $5.95.)

Home furnishings from Ljubljana on the sunny Adriatic . . . Bavarian figurines and Austrian crystal . . . NEW Fiehl reproductions (each individually hand over-painted of art masterpieces (Renoir, Vermeer, Bernard Buffet, etc.) for as little as $7.98 . . .

Freise-Schroeder Nuptials In Faith Lutheran Church

Newlyweds making their home at 914 N. Illinois ave., Arlington Heights are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Schroeder, who were united in marriage September 3 in Faith Lutheran church in Arlington Heights. The bride is the former Carol Jean Freise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Freise, 1004 N. Highland ave., Arlington.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schroeder, 223 W. Slade st., Palatine.

The 5 o'clock double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert O. Bartz in a setting of white gladioli and greens. Donald Hermann was at the organ and soloist was Marian Laseke, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Today, O Lord."

PRECEDING the bride down the aisle were maid of honor Sandra Wolter of Lawton, Okla., and three bridesmaids, Jo Ann Freise of Dundee, Barb Wiltgen of Arlington Heights and Annette Schroeder of Palatine. The girls were all gowned alike in dresses fashioned with a beige velvet bodice and brown organza full skirt over beige taffeta. A beige leaf design covered the skirt and also formed a headpiece for each attendant. The girls carried beige figi mums with brown and beige velvet leaves.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, came down the aisle wearing a white peau de soie wedding gown in princess style and trimmed with re-embroidered alencon lace and seed pearls. The lace inset on the bodice continued through the full skirt and into the chapel train.

The bride's fingertip veil was held in place with a tiara of seed pearls, and she wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. Butterfly orchids and stephanotis on a white Bible, borrowed from a close friend, formed the bridal bouquet.

ALSO ATTENDING the bride was 7-year-old Jackie Kohler of Palatine as flower girl. Randy Freise, 7, of Dundee, was ring bearer.

Best man was Ronald Lanka of Palatine, and ushering the guests to their pews were Glenn Olson, Richard Frost and Roger Freise, all of Arlington Heights.

A reception in the Bensenville hall was given for 400 guests, at which the bride's mother received in a beige lace dress with green accessories and a corsage of beige figi mums. The bridegroom's mother chose a beige organza dress with brown accessories and beige figi mum corsage for the wedding and reception.

After a 2-week honeymoon in Wisconsin, the couple is now at home in Arlington Heights. The bridegroom, a graduate of Palatine high school, is employed by North Western railway in Chicago, and his bride works for Hannifin company in Des Plaines. She is a graduate of Arlington high school. (Jenart

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

One of the 'Widows'

Dear Peg:

If you made a hundred guesses you could never come close to guessing where I am this minute. The room is small, hot, old and painted an awful green. A dozen boys in heavy makeup and strange costumes are sitting at a long wooden table apparently doing school homework. Through a small loudspeaker on the wall comes the sound of music and singing. Around two walls are old photographs of people — some in costume. Directly across from me is the picture of a large frowning woman with horns and a metal breastplate and next to her a swarthy, bearded gent with a dangling gold earring. Now, where am I?

I am only a few yards and a closed door from the stage of the Civic Opera House and tonight is the first of three performances of the opera Carmen. What's more I just walked across the same stage on which Jean Madeira and Robert Merrill (as Carmen and Escamillo) are now singing and while I walked across Giuseppe Di Stefano and Renata Scotto were singing a lovely duet.

See there, you didn't even know that one of your dearest friends was making her grand opera debut this evening. Of course, I wouldn't say that I have a starring role exactly. As a matter of fact it's a rather small part as parts go. You might even say it's hardly noticeable — but it's there and I have it! That is, I have with three other girls — Sandy, Julie and Lorraine. We're referred to as the "black ladies." Sounds intriguing doesn't it? It isn't. We're four widows dressed in black dresses, black stockings, black shoes, black shawls and black scarves over our heads. Being in mourning, we must walk with our hands folded and our heads bowed, rendering recognition from the audience impossible. There's one bright thought — we do stand out by contrast. Everyone else has a brilliantly colored costume.

Now, don't think that all we do is simply walk across the stage in one act. I should say not! We walk across in two acts! You know, dear, I've written to you about some unusual things I've done, but without exception this is the most exciting and stimulating venture yet. Nancy was unable to be a "super" (that's what they call "extras" in the opera) in this opera and called me to see if I'd like to take her place. I went to the Opera House last Saturday, met Mr. Stefanski and signed up for the part.

I also took Megan with me as there was a possibility that she could substitute for one of the four little girls who were to be pages. Megan was able to fit perfectly into one of the little girls' costumes so she will appear Wednesday night.

Even if she weren't going to be in it, the opportunity of seeing and hearing an opera and watching the dance sequences (her first love) from the wings of that tremendous stage would be a great and rare treat. And as far as I'm concerned they could cast me as a potted palm and I would be thrilled to be near such great music and fine talent.

I promised Bob that I'd do this just once — for the adventure of it all. That was before I was in an opera. Now, I'll simply have to be in one more. Maybe by the last opera he'll forget I was in this one and don't you remind him!

My love,
Patty

Wayside Church Is Scene Of Meehan-Specht Nuptials

Our Lady of the Wayside church in Arlington Heights was the scene October 1 of 11 o'clock nuptials in which Miss Sharon Jean Meehan, daughter of the Bernard Meehans, 110 Burton, Arlington Heights, became the bride of Thomas F. Specht, son of the Thomas E. Spechts, 1118 W. Watling rd., Arlington Heights. Fr. O'Hara performed the service amid a setting of white carnations.

(Bak Studio

A tiered chantilly lace dress with scalloped bateau neckline was chosen by the bride, who complemented the dress with a single strand of tiny pearls. A princess tiara held her veil and she carried white carnations and roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Sapphire blue satin ballerina-length gowns were worn by the bride's attendants, who were Sharon Mueller of Rolling Meadows as matron of honor and Judith Cole of Chicago and Hermine Leiher of Arlington Heights as bridesmaids.

Paul Van Meigham of Chicago was best man and the bridegroom's brother, William Specht, and Glenn Olson, both of Arlington Heights, were ushers.

Firemen's hall in Palatine was the scene of the bridal reception where Mrs. Meehan received the guests in a violet suit with orchid corsage. Mrs. Specht chose a dress of champagne lace with orchid corsage.

After a 2-week wedding trip to the Smoky mountains, Mr. Specht and his bride are residing at 402 S. State rd., Arlington Heights. The new Mrs. Specht, a graduate of Arlington high school, is employed by the Pure Oil Co., Palatine. Mr. Specht, a graduate of Wilmot high school, Wis., is with Union Special Machine Co., Chicago.

Quite Contrary by Mary

All Together, Mothers!

I FIND THAT I have long been a member of a club. For a long time I thought I was the only member but research has proven that there are one or two others. It is the Mother's Hyperbole Club and it's real easy to join. You have to be a screamer.

All good child psychologists say that Mother should never, ever threaten the little ones. Mother should reason with them. This is fine except I hate the glazed, far away look I get from them while I am explaining things. It's like waving a red flag in front of a bull.

Years ago when the middle ones were young, they fought. They fought over everything. Bobby pins, dolls, beds, baths. You name it, they fought over it. And, I reasoned. I explained that underneath their apparent hatred their little hearts were really overflowing with love for each other. This lie was so obvious to them that they didn't even pause in their exchange of blows to glaze their eyes.

So one day, in the presence of a guest (not too many came to visit in those days) who asked that I stop the carnage, I merely ground out that I had decided to let them fight it out as there was a good possibility that they might kill each other. Thus solving my problems. She laughed nervously and left. She hoped I was joshing. I was not.

The other day I found a soul mate. I was visiting. The young daughter of the house was being her most foul. In the vernacular, she was itching for a crack on the rear. Finally she procured a comb and ran it happily over her teeth making the most delicate rasping noise possible. Except running a fingernail over a blackboard.

Mother asked her if she wanted to wreck her teeth. Daughter smiled evilly and said that yes she did want to ruin her teeth. So Mother just asked her to go into the bathroom and smash her teeth against the bathtub and get the job done in a hurry.

Another club member of my acquaintance used to threaten to fetch her young such a blow as to smash them into the wall. I rather thought she lacked imagination but she became a full - fledged member eventually. She had more children and her threats got better and better. She became our most honored president. (Soc

TV Winner Returns Home Sans Lambs

The Arlington Heights animal population almost increased by two last week when Mrs. Ray Thuerk, 737 S. Walnut, won a pair of baby lambs on the nationwide color TV show, "The Price is Right."

Realizing the impracticability of caring for two lambs in her back yard and not knowing anyone who could provide the proper home for the little animals that appeared with her on the show, Mrs. Thuerk accepted cash instead, along with a bright red, all wool 12 by 15 carpet, a complete bedroom suite and a bill from the internal revenue bureau for $230.

THE SHOW was pre-taped Tuesday of last week and Arlington Heights friends saw Mrs. Thuerk on TV Wednesday morning. She was one of four chosen from an audience of 300 to appear on the show.

Mrs. Thuerk told a Paddock reporter that the show proved most exhilarating though at first she was extremely nervous and kept asking herself, "Why did I volunteer?"

Her TV debut was definitely the highlight of the Thuerks' 2-week vacation in spite of the money she owes the government. And no doubt her neighbors were more than a little relieved to welcome her home sans lambs, but does anyone want to buy a red rug? Mrs. Thuerk hopes to sell it to pay the tax bureau. (S

NO ONE HISSED at this buffet table, shown getting finishing touches from Mrs. James Manderscheid, Mrs. Richard Bertz and Mrs. Lawrence Gianneschi, but they did hiss at the villain in the old fashioned skit presented by the theatre group. The affair was sponsored by Mt. Prospect Junior Woman's club and is one of the group's three money-making projects for the year. Decorations followed a Halloween theme for the October 30 potluck. (S

News from Mrs. Boston

Mrs. Frank Boston, 204 N. Louis St., Mt. Prospect says, "I have tried everything except harsh acids to try to remove tattle-tale gray and yellow stains from our garments and was just ready to give up. My expensive water softener did not help. I had nothing to lose except 98c, so I tried MIRACLE WHITE. After one washing I could hardly believe my eyes, my clothes were white again! It was almost a miracle. I am telling all my friends about MIRACLE WHITE. Then, too, I love Miracle White especially for the bath because I have dry skin."

Mrs. Boston is a cashier at the National Tea store in Mt. Prospect and she discovered that with only a little of any kind of soap and Miracle White, the results were wonderful. Do like Mrs. Boston and thousands of other suburbanites. Discover the many uses of MIRACLE WHITE and enjoy your household chores. Wherever soap & water are used together, use MIRACLE WHITE. Anything safe in water is safe in MIRACLE WHITE. Non-toxic, non-allergic, and so mild, it's soothing to the skin. Dry skin disappears. Try it and see for yourself. Terrific whether you have a softener or not. Pays for itself in soap saved.

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

Pilgrim's Progress(ive) Party

It looks like curtains for a certain bird soon so let's think of our celebration of Thanksgiving week with a new party idea. A progressive dinner with friends and neighbors with a theme set by our forefathers—the Pilgrims.

Plan

First of all, you will want to start the plan of action. The bridge club or the relatives, whatever the group, hostesses must get together to decide what course they will serve. Here is a place for specialists in culinary arts to make their choice.

After the cocktail course is planned, and here is one that you will want to set a limit on as far as time is concerned or your party may get a delayed start, the salad course follows, then the main course and dessert. We have found that a main course done by a caterer is most effective as that hostess really carries the burden of the meal but with so many catering services available and a number of people participating, the cost is cut. However, if you choose a menu that can be oven-cooked, it helps the hostess in time and effort.

Invitations

A tall brown construction paper Pilgrim hat with gold paper buckle and black ribbon band bears the invitation which is put into the hat through a slit in the brim.

Thee are invited to attend
A Pilgrim's Progress(ive) dinner.
At seven long the way we'll wend
Trust thou will not grow thinner.
For boards are spread abundantly
Thy time to eat determined
Send word if we can count on thee,
Thy feast awaits thee, friend.

If you wish, you can make it a costume party and ask that all wear something symbolic of the Pilgrim fathers, i.e., knee britches, buckles on the shoes, large white starched collars, caps for the ladies and huge aprons. This of course, is optional. State clearly the first house where the meal begins and the time and place of each course so if anyone is tardy he can pick up the party as soon as he is able.

Menu

A suggested menu, one simple to prepare and serve will be in the theme using items the Pilgrims may have had. Cocktails need not be alcoholic, no Pilgrim would be caught drinking, you know, but a bright cranberry punch with turkey canapes prevailing, send you off with the right Pilgrim's Progress.

The salads may be done in the autumn colors or if the hostess is extremely talented, she may make designs with vegetables and fruits right in the jello molds, fashion a large chicken out of egg salad with pimento comb and almond bill, or her fish salad may be in the form of a fish. There are copper molds available for this but the more original the salads the better.

Let the main course be either fried chicken and potatoes brought in or baked ham and sweet potatoes right from the oven. Naturally corn will be the main vegetable dish and this too may be scalloped and baked, or just frozen corn, heated. For a touch of color add minced green pepper and pimentos. Hot breads too and honey, applebutter or jam from tomatoes make homespun meals. All of these things are available locally.

THE DESSERT should be light and a frosted fresh fruit compote is beautiful. It is made by beating an egg white till frothy, adding a tablespoon of water and dipping the fruit, grapes, apples or pears, letting most of the liquid drip off and then rolling the fruit in granulated sugar. These placed on dark oak leaves spilling from a cornucopia are arranged on a pewter tray supplemented with trays of various cheese and crackers, give a continental touch signifying our old world origins and customs.

Round off the meal with lots of coffee to linger over, plus bowls of uncracked nuts and plenty of nutcrackers. Instead of mints, use candy corn, it is a colorful replacement.

Decorations

Let each hostess decorate her own table or choose a theme. A simple Pilgrim or cornucopias can be a common theme. If you want to know how to make a pilgrim plus harn arrangement of artificial flowers, investigate the new course "Arts and Flowers" being offered by this author, CLearbrook 3-3996. Have the napkins and tablecloths paper if you wish, but heavy homespun type cloths if the hostesses have them add much.

One that is simple to come by is a yard or two of burlap, which is 48" wide and is roughly $1 a yard at Fields. No need to hem it, just fringe and later you can use it for other handicrafts such as wall hangings, placemat, and napkin sets also explained in the Arts and Flower course.

OF COURSE, if you have anything early American now is the time to fill it with fruit, flowers nuts or candy and have it placed to advantage, no matter what the decor of your home.

Easy napkins, if you have enough for your guests, are terry guest towels as they launder quickly and absorb greatly.

Entertainment

After so hearty a meal, plus tramping from house to house in the cold autumn night and then curling comfortably before a fire or merely in a warm house will not make your guests particularly energetic. So relax with them and enjoy conversation.

Do award a prize for those who did wear some type of Pilgrim garb. Suggest games and have a few up your sleeve by way of preparedness but don't push the games at this party. Full people are contented people so let them just Pilgrim Progress into a happy time by all. (S

District Leaders Attend Conference

A group of community leaders and workers from the seventh district traveled to Mt. Morris October 25 for a day's conference with state officers and chairman of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs.

MRS. SANTOW, as jr. state youth chairman, participated in the workshop pursuant to the removal of salacious literature from news and magazine stands. A program for complete coverage of Illinois is being administered.

Mrs. Hartley and the jr. club presidents of the seventh district joined Mrs. T. R. Houde, state junior director, as well as other junior club presidents in discussion of the promotion of funds for scholarships for teachers of exceptional children and the Brain Research Foundation. The foundation recently purchased the old Chicago Memorial hospital and hope to begin operating as soon as enough funds are secured. The hospital will be the only one of its kind in the United States, concerned only with diagnosis, research, and treatment of brain disorders and affiliated diseases.

THE BRAIN Research foundation has been a special concern of the seventh district clubwomen of Illinois who last year raised more than $1900 for this cause.

The afternoon session was spent in departmental workshops in whcih individual club ideas and problems were discussed. The conference was climaxed by an address by Mrs. George V. Malmgren, president of the state federation whose theme was "Make Living Worthwhile." S

New Members of Arlington Hts. Juniors Welcomed at Tea

Mrs. Gordon T. Beckley, 707 S. Belmont, Arlington Heights, president of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club, explained the club's organization and its relationship to other federated clubs at a tea in her home held recently for the club's 26 new members.

"Everyone is more or less familiar with the club's local philanthropic work," Mrs. Beckley said, "and much satisfaction is derived from being able to personally know the recipients of its aid, Clearbrook School for Retarded Children, the library and the Northwest Community hospital, to name just a few."

SHE ALSO told of the less familiar work the club does outside of the immediate area and commented that it was amazing how far reaching is the club's work and the part it plays in the General Federation of Women's clubs. She continued, "As one of the 35 clubs in the seventh district, Arlington Juniors give to such organizations as the Brain Research foundation and Aid to the Perceptually Handicapped." She proceeded to explain how the Junior's work extends to the state level, donates to cancer research and to a program of tree plantings at Shawnee National forest.

"REACHING still further," Mrs. Beckman said, "the club is part of the General Federation of Women's clubs which includes all the 11 million members of federated women's clubs in 50 countries. It's exciting to think of all that such a large organization can accomplish. The 65 members of the Arlington Juniors are a small but vital part of the 15,500 clubwomen in the United States who strive towards the same goals together.

"The Arlington Juniors could not be a part of this without the support and interest of the people of Arlington Heights as the funds necessary for supporting club work come from proceeds of ways and means projects such as the luncheon and fashion show held recently at the Villa Venice and the Christmas dinner dance to be held December 3 at Tam O'Shanter country club.

"Interesting programs are offered at each month's meetings at Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan, and these are usually provided by local people," she concluded.

THE CLUB'S November 8 program was put on by The Harmonettes, a choral group from Arlington high school. This being Reciprocity night, many guests from other clubs were present including Mrs. Clarence A. Hendrickson, president of seventh district, Mrs. Ben F. Carns, president of Arlington Woman's club, and Mrs. Myron R. Hartley, junior director of seventh district.

New members will again be accepted into the club in February. (S

Bonnie Quigley Chooses Sorority Color for 'Maids

Her sorority color, lavender, and her sorority flower, violets, provided the color scheme for the five attendants at Bonnie Quigley's wedding September 3 to Gene A. Barry, in First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights. The candlelight service was held at 6 p.m. with Dr. Paul Stumpf officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Quigley, 707 E. Davis, Arlington Heights, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barry of Sauganash. The couple met at Northern Illinois university where both are still students. The bride, in her junior year, is studying physical education and the bridegroom, a senior, is studying geology.

LARGE BASKETS of fall flowers decorated the church for the service, during which Earle Auge, as soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer." He was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Auge.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown fashioned with chantilly lace bodice and full satin skirt that ended in a chapel train. The bodice was made with long sleeves and a rounded neckline that formed a V in back. Seed pearls trimmed the neckline and combined with lace, also accented the shirring on the back of the skirt. Her fingertip veil was held by a seed pearl crown and she carried a white orchid with stephanotis and tulle streamers.

As something old, the bride carried a white lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. H. H. Quigley of Arlington Heis, who was one of the honored guests at the wedding.

MISS DONNA Quigley was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were the Misses Gail Barron of De Kalb, Jane Owen of Mt. Prospect, Sigma Kappa sorority sister, and Pamela Barry, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Sandra Feigenbaum of Elmhurst, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

Their lavender nylon gowns were all identically made with draped bodices and full, street-length skirts. Violets made up their hats and they carried violet asters with stephanotis.

The bridegroom's brother, Robert Barry, was best man and John Oschman, Joseph Apple and Marvin Johnson, all of Sauganash, were ushers.

AFTER THE service, a reception and dinner for 200 guests was held in Old Orchard country club. Mrs. Quigley received in a pale beige sheath with white gloves, antique gold jewelry and a brown orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a champagne sheath with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. Their gowns were both fashioned of nylon chiffon.

After a 2-week honeymoon in Canada, the newlyweds took up residence on Glidden rd., De Kalb. Before attending Northern, the bride was graduated from Arlington high school and the bridegroom from Lane Tech, Chicago. The bridegroom is affiliated with Acacia fraternity. (S

Among them were the Sievers' daughters, Mrs. Herta Colonius of Nokomis, Ill., and Mrs. Anna Colonius of Palatine; sons, Ernest and Theodore of Palatine, and all their families. One son, August, still resides in Germany.

The Way We See It

American Education: Ideal of Democracy

The nation observes American Public Education Week Nov. 6-12, and, although pickles, lawns, ice cream, and taverns are similarly honored, we feel this token reminder should stimulate thoughts of schools and that mysterious human industry popularly referred to as the American education system. Not that Americans need an excuse to discuss education — perhaps no other subject has received so much attention during the past few years. But we would hope that the "week" would serve to rally deserved support for this democratic ideal.

Everyone feels qualified to criticize the schools. We hear the rantings of professors, druggists, admirals, lawyers, and laborers. "The system, the system . . ." they rave, and yet if we were to ask them to define the so-called American education system which they so openly assault they would be unable to do so. It doesn't exist. Illinois, Iowa, California, and the other 47 states have "systems," but American education is an idea, a conviction that every youngster has a right, regardless of circumstance, to be educated. The extent to which this idea is incorporated into practice is up to each state.

There is nothing inherent in "the American education system" to prevent the teaching of foreign language, to prevent children from learning to spell, to keep students from being well-disciplined. If these faults exist, they are faults of application, not of the "system." Obviously some students can speak a foreign language, can spell, and do exhibit behaviour which indicates maturity. We don't feel these are examples of scholars who "survived" the "system."

This nation exists because nothing is above criticism. The English do not dare take a verbal poke at their royalty for visiting the race track, taking a yacht trip around the world, or spending the summer in the country. Such criticism would burst the romantic bubble. Here the President is assailed for his golf game, a political candidate has to be careful where his wife buys her clothes, and a history book must not glamorize the past. Nothing is above reproach - government, churches, or education. It is through this often ruthless criticism that America has grown. Without it, democracy would have died in the Constitutional convention.

We must, then, remember that the world often misinterprets this constant criticism as an indication that our institutions are worthless. Indeed, we often convince our own citizenry that anything "American" is somewhat below European standards. We must never stop criticizing, but we must remember that all comments need not be negative, that we do not always know the faults of other systems as well as we know our own, and that, unlike many other nations of the world, we have the power to change that which is unsatisfactory.

Suburb Complainers Are Unrealistic on Airport

People who live close enough to O'Hare International airport to hear jet aircraft in transit continue to band together to convince O'Hare officials that they must reduce the noise.

Latest village to organize is Bensenville. Several home owner groups have formed a federation. They are to meet this evening with George Niles, chief controller at O'Hare.

Citizens will continue to form protest groups until they realize the truth of two points: 1) O'Hare officials are concerned with jet noise and are striving to reduce it. 2) O'Hare field is the world's largest commercial jet field and, as such, is a boon to economic development of the area surrounding it.

The Federal Aviation Agency heeded the pleas of Elk Grove Village residents to instruct jets to turn before they reach the village in good weather or climb to 2,000 feet quickly before turning in poor weather. These procedures began Oct. 1.

Every commercial jet airliner which uses O'Hare field is equipped with a noise suppressor on each engine. Military jet fighters which fly on weekends from O'Hare incorporate no noise suppressors. Complaints reach a peak then.

Some jetliners already are powered by Rolls-Royce Conway by-pass engines. More will be. Experts estimate the engine makes 10 per cent less noise than turbo jets currently installed.

Most aircraft departures at O'Hare occur between 5 and 6:30 p.m. during the noise of rush hour automobile traffic.

The National Aircraft Noise Abatement Council sponsors a continual research program aimed at discovering new, practical ways of muffling jet noise.

O'Hare ranks 11th nationally in air carrier flights and 16th in all flights. One official estimated this week that within two years it will rank fifth or sixth in air carrier flights. During October 548 planes arrived and departed. Among them were 160 turbo jets and 140 helicopters.

Industries are and will be locating here because of the proximity of speedy intercontinental transportation. United Airlines' national headquarters is under construction on Dempster road in Elk Grove township.

In the wake of industrial and business development will come people who swell our populations and become markets for goods and services.

Just as many of our towns grew first because the railroad came, so they are on the verge of another spurt because they are near O'Hare's unexcelled national and intercontinental air transport and passenger service.

Suburban Press Seeks to Better Serve Communities

The first editorial clinic of the Suburban Press Foundation was held last week at Paddock Publications. Object of the day-long meeting was to enable the editorial staffs and publishers affiliated with the non-profit organization to determine how they can better serve their 140,000 Chicago area subscribers.

The newspapers of the nine charter members of the Foundation, including Paddock Publications, were frankly appraised by Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall, professor of journalism at Northwestern university and a leading authority on newspapers and public opinion.

Along with an occasional pat on the back, Dr. MacDougall cited specific examples of member newspapers' inadequate coverage of community problems, avoidance of controversial matters, lack of depth reporting, and promotion of favored causes and candidates in supposedly neutral news columns.

These shortcomings came as no revelation, and are, of course, not limited to suburban newspapers but apply to 99 per cent of the nation's press.

The most significant aspect of the clinic was that the publishers and editors concurred in many of the criticisms made and welcomed suggestions for improvement. A resolution was passed providing for future meetings.

Coming from a group not noted for self-criticism, the attitude of those present cannot help but benefit suburban subscribers, their communities, and the newspapers involved.

Layer Cake Government?

Federal, Local Functions Have Become Inter-Related

by NATALIE McKENZIE

The popular American image of layer cake government is wrong according to a university of Chicago professor who has devoted the past three years to testing the relationship of local, state and federal government.

Traditionally, national and state governments are thought of as separate layers stacked neatly above local government. Close under the bottom layer is the mass of citizens, the platter on which the cake rests.

Morton Grodzins, political science professor, said that another image, that of a marble cake, illustrates the real situation. Government functions are shared between all levels.

HE THINKS the marble cake shows lines of force that are stronger from bottom to top than from top to bottom. He also believes that the fear of federal "encroachment" on state and local ties is unwarranted.

"The American system of government is decentralized today," he said, "and it is primarily the 'unique' way American political parties operate which keep it decentralized.

"In the sweep of history, this conclusion emerges from a series of ironies," he said. "The constitutional fathers rigged a government to dissuade the formation of political parties and to prevent concentrations of power under the aegis of parties in the national government. They did this by establishing a system of separations, within the federal government and between the federal government and the states.

"The first irony is that the formal separations have become relatively unimportant.

"The second irony is that, instead of preventing the formation of parties, the fathers' scheme has aided in producing a pattern of weak nation-wide parties.

"The final irony is that the dispersion of power that remains in our governmental system follows from the dynamics of parties. What the fathers abhorred—the parties—serve to produce what the fathers sought—devolved power. The path may be perverse, but the constitutional intent has been substantially fulfilled."

THE GROUND for Grodzin's research was eight small towns where he investigated how much so-called local government activity goes on without federal collaboration.

His conclusion: It is difficult to find any service performed or regulation imposed at the local level that does not involve the federal and state governments in important responsibilities. A close look at the cotton and farming town of Casa Grande, Ariz., is an example.

Casa Grande was for years nothing but a desert stop-off. In 1950 its population was 1,545. In 1958, unofficial estimates placed the figure at 9,000.

Local government had little or no responsibility for the following activities: agricultural conservation and stabilization; bank examination and deposit insurance; education; employment security; Farmers Home administration; hospital; industrial safety; inspection of boilers, weights and measures, and other commercial inspection; inspection of food and drugs; labor relations; National Guard; postal service; professional licensing and examinations; public health; public welfare; Selective Service; soil conservation.

Though none of the functions involved the formal responsibility of the city, other local governments have important roles in them. These include the county, special governments for education and for the hospital, and the federally sponsored local governments in the large-spending agricultural programs and in Selective Service. State and federal governments, of course, have central responsibilities in these functions.

THE LIST of activities for which the city government had important responsibilities included: the local airport; city planning; civil defense; courts; fire protection; garbage disposal; library; parks; police; recreation; sewage and sanitation; streets and highways; zoning and housing.

Grodzins points out that in most of these activities the state and federal governments play important roles. Even the apparent exceptions—garbage disposal, library, and recreation—turned out to be indirectly involved in federal programs.

"In sum, then, the federal government supplies more services to the citizens of Casa Grande without the participation of the city of Casa Grande than the city provides without the participation of federal government. Local services are not exclusively or principally the province of local governments. All governments in the American system provide local services. And the characteristic means of providing any given service is through the collaboration of several governments."

Grodzins has also examined the other extreme of the traditional "layer cake" — the federal government itself. He found both administration and legislation at the federal level powerfully interwoven with state, local, and special interests. The American political parties, dispersers, rather than gatherers of power, operate to produce this state-local influence in national affairs.

GRODZINS has coined the term "multiple cracks" to illustrate the openness of the American political system.

"The lack of party discipline allows individuals, groups, and institutions including state and local governments to attempt to influence national policy at every step of the legislative-administrative process. 'Crack' has two meanings. It means not only that there are many fissures or access points; it also means, less statically, opportunities for wallops or smacks at government."

The World at Your Bookshelf

Picture of America Is Depressing One

by MARTIN MARTY

"Rabbit, Run" (Knopf, $4) is the title of the novel that will certainly and deservedly be the most talked-about this autumn.

Were I asked to name the top young novelists of our country, its author, 28-year-old John Updike, would certainly be at or near the head of the list.

As a stylist, prophet, analyst, and entertainer he has few equals. His account of Ted Williams' last game with the Boston Red Sox in the New Yorker several weeks ago was an emphatic masterpiece. His first novel, "Poorhouse Fair" and his short stories are chipped, clipped, coolly emotional dissections of people in our time.

But none of these prepared us for the shocker that "Rabbit, Run" turned out to be. The account of a former basketball star, 'Rabbit' Angstrom, who makes his way between a sloppy, old-fashioned-swilling wife; a disbelieving case-working minister; a hopelessly unappealing 'mistress' (that, in her case, is a euphemism.

THE pointlessness of the lives of an overgrown just-out-of-diapers generation is delineated in every line. If this is America today, heaven help us. If this is not, let's set out to disprove it. Chances are, Updike has just enough truth in his uneditorial portrayal of an irresponsible that it ought to cause considerable soul-searching. 'Rabbit' is usually on the run, as he makes his rounds; running from reality toward disillusion. The effect of the depiction is depressing, however brilliant the writing.

Unfortunately, Updike finds it necessary here for the first time to use sex as the symbol of alienation and separation. I don't think he is saying that our root problem is sexual; he is an informed Christian who would probably say it is theological—but it manifests itself in joyless, purposeless sex and its joyless, agonizing consequences. Like most of the other dead-ending novelists today he seems to be newly obsessed with this theme and the result is a documentation in explicit fashion that might turn some stomachs. Evidently for the moment the day of social novels dealing with issues are to be eclipsed by the sexual fascination.

I SAY 'for the moment' because I hope that Updike and others equally brilliant in their craft will soon again write the kind of books we can display and share and recommend unreservedly. As a piece of craftsmanship and perception this is first rate; as a moral document —ugh! I do not hesitate to mention this, for the book could hardly conceivably appeal to prurient interests. When Updike's people make love they are indescribably ugly.

Summary: The terror of the times; hard to avoid this one—but please don't say that it was I who recommended it!

Tail of Traffic

Expressway Is Driver Dream

by DICK HOFFMANN

If you've ever seen a school snake dance from any kind of vantage point, you can imagine what the Northwest expressway looked like Monday morning.

I was at the tail of the traffic snaking its way into Chicago's Loop. The expressway had opened Saturday, but this was its first test of accommodating the daily crush.

I'd meant to get into the middle of rush hour traffic pouring into the city around 8 a.m., but a contrary automatic choke delayed my departure (automobile manufacturers should retire this obstinate instrument of torture to the boneyard; automatic chokes can get as mulish as a mare at the water trough).

I SWUNG ONTO the Northwest Tollway at Elmhurst rd. just south of Oakton st. about 9 a.m., and headed east, my vision glued on those complicated directional signs which hypnotize motorists.

Ignoring such suggestions as "Keep Right for the Tri-State Tollway South," I kept in the left lane for the Tri-State Tollway north, and found my faith in such compass contradictions justified (since I wanted to go southwest) when I spied "Northwest Expressway" arrows below the Tri-State directions.

While the traffic picture's been radically altered by opening of this newest artery, Chicago motorists' habits are unchanging. I was reminded of this at the River rd. toll plaza, where some errant driver heading for the automatic toll taker swerved in front of me to an attendant toll station at the last minute.

From the point where I left the toll plaza, traffic started to bunch like ripe fruit. I was in the middle of some of the 170,000 vehicles expected to use the expressway each day.

IT WAS AN orderly procession, however, as if motorists were still testing their reflexes on unfamiliar ground. It made Lake Shore dr. traffic the equal of the Indianapolis speedway by comparison.

The pace was leisurely, and I had time to consider some of my fellow motorists. Hmm, that old couple plodding along in the right hand lane seemd to be on a pioneering trip, they probably were comparing it with the Overland Trail trek.

The car radio announced that the only traffic tangle reported that morning was where the Northwest route connected with Edens expressway near Kostner ave. just north of Montrose ave. I braced for the experience.

I knew I had reached the point of no turning back when I looked in the rear view mirror and realized I was surrounded by a swinging cadre of Detroit's carriages. But the traffic's flow was still even, spaced and uninterrupted.

GLANCING at the neighhood around the expressway in this vicinity, it appeared like a giant playroom where a child had strode, kicking toys out of his way. There was still some tidying up to do through this scarred neighborhood, shoved aside to make way for progress. Workmen were still busy grooming the roadway's banks and barriers.

I was jarred by a sign stating "Michigan ave. exit," and casting a suspicious peek at my watch was amazed to see that the trip only took 30 minutes from the time I turned onto the Tollway, just a little off estimates figured by the Chicago Motor club on normal days.

It's an hour by train and costs considerably more, I thought, although I didn't attempt to find a Loop parking place (which might have dashed my enthusiasm). Instead, I followed the route to where the expressways' loop through the city is knotted at Congress st.

Another saving, I found upon studying the motor club's report, is you get 21.5 miles per gallon of gas mileage as compared to 12.8 mpg taking city streets. (Most important saving - beyond time and gas - is that the Northwest expressway is expected to reduce traffic fatalities by 36 persons a year.)

Heading west on the Congress st. expressway, I noticed motorists were more accelerator-prone. Whoosh! Tail fins can seem more like dorsal fins for the unwary driver at this pace. Maybe it was a preview of what to anticipate on the newest Northwest speedway once drivers got their bearings and started bearing down.

Mutual Admiration

Families with babies and families without babies are sorry for each other. -- E. W. Howe.

Letters to the Fence Post

Everyone Has Obligation To Help the Impoverished

In her letter to the Fence Post on Nov. 3, Mrs. Paulos stated that her family experienced poverty and "did without" but that she is not sorry for The Poor. I, too, do not feel sorry for the people who have no TV set, or electric lights, or automobiles, or indoor toilets because after all these things are relative. If you go back 60 years you find that nobody had them.

The essentials for happiness lie in a good conscience the exchange of love and affection among people and the opportunities it gives us for acting unselfishly, and also the satisfaction of using our abilities and talents in our daily round of duties and work. Education, of course, expands our personality and makes us more useful to the community and increases our opportunities.

THERE IS, however a certain class of poor, those who suffer real hunger, and real cold, and serious sickness, whom we cannot dismiss with a philosophical argument. Their state can be compared to that of an auto driver who is lying by the roadside in a wrecked car. My mother was unfortunate to have been in just such an accident a few years back. She was bleeding badly, and when the ambulance arrived, I thank God that in this emergency he did not stop to ask the question. "Madam, was this your own fault?"

And this brings us to another point. Each of us seems to extend sympathy and generosity to those in our immediate family circle who experience trouble. But is not all mankind a family? One author I recently read said that if there is anything that stands out about our age it is the massive movement of mankind to unity. For the first time the world is one and is conscious of it. To reject our responsibilities to those in serious need is a denial of the providence of God, who created all men in His image, who assumed Fatherhood of all through the Son, who sends His rain on the just and the unjust.

REAL HUNGER, and real cold, and serious sickness is to be found in our state, and in our country. The Herald has presented evidence of it.

As regards these needs in other parts of the world, there is an order to charity, and those who are our own have first claim to our help.

Is She Above All Suffering?

Please tell your smug reader who pays "125 a month rent" (good for her)! never to become incurably ill, suffer from emotional or mental disease, let her husband become disengaged from his good union that sees he gets toprate wages all his life, lift a finger to support aged parents or relatives or retarded children, etc., become bankrupt from hospital bills for one or more member of her family (or herself?) suffer from fire, flood, or any other clamity! She seems so inhuman (lacking in good sense) that we trust she is above all this, of course.

Honor System Ha: Her All Riled Up

Last night I attended a T.P.C. meeting at Arlington high and received a card with a suggestion for the February meeting discussion.

I've been trying to formulate this question which has been bothering me for the past four years; it is the honor system and rating.

I am so steamed up about it I can't seem to see clearly and wondered if by writing to you perhaps you can help me to clarify my own thoughts.

I honestly believe this system should be either completely abolished or else made very clear to everyone when these tests are announced or rating of students discussed, that this is rated and determined merely in the subject the student is taking:

What I'm trying to say is that a child, say a freshman, could get an "A" in 8th grade math or an "A" in algebra. Shouldn't there be some differentiation?

A child can be rated in the upper half of his graduating class and yet take much easier courses than other children. But, does anyone realize this when he is the upper "third" or "half".

I could go on indefinitely, but wish you would publish this letter in the Fence Post.

Don't we all look up to our doctors, priests and teachers and feel they have earned something because they have accomplished themselves in higher learning? Where does this lead us?

Have I made myself clear or am I merely talking in circles?

You can argue that the student has arrived on the "Honor Roll" in the line of his capabilities, but if that is so then please stress it--it is merely that and nothing more.

Kathleen Albin
Rolling Meadows

P.S. I would like to add this postscript. Say a child were determined to make the Honor Roll or a high rating. All he would have to do when he went to high school was determine the subjects he could easily master and then attain them, instead of trying new and hard fields of endeavor. Why bother. Just like trying to get on a TV program to win; it just doesn't make sense to me. (FP

Armchair Mutters Don't Help Party

Lately I have heard some criticism of the Republican organization in Arlington Heights. Let's review the facts.

Did you know that Republican headquarters is manned entirely by volunteer workers who also have families and other obligations? Did you know the local group must pay for every button, sticker and piece of literature it has made available to the Republicans in the area? Did you know this organization is pitifully lacking in volunteers, and I don't mean the kind that come out of the woodwork a week or two before elections?

IF YOU want more literature and more efficiency, support the Party's fund raising efforts—their dances, rallies, picnics, etc. AND, if there are delays at the polls on November 8, accept them as a minor inconvenience compared to the great privilege of voting as an American.

If, after the election, you are unable or unwilling to help the party of your choice, please, let's have less armchair mutterings about the job that is being done. Remember, politics will never be any better than the prople in it. The only way to improve its quality is to encourage (not discourage) more persons with high ideals to take an active part in everything that comes under the heading of ligitimate politics.

VOTING IS not enough! If you discourage the good honest people of high ideals, corrupt politicians step into the vacuum. This is what happened in Chicago. Unless people realize that politics is everyone's business twelve months of the year, Chicago's plight could be repeated in Arlington Heights. Either you run the government, or the government runs you.

Last, but not least, many thanks to the many block workers in Precinct 34 for their wonderful cooperation. Without them, my husband and I could never have covered the Precinct.

Edgewood's Streets Are Controversy

People in the Edgewood and outlying sections of Bensenville noted with interest the item in the Register about our town trustees' idea of repairing all the unimproved streets in town.

What, we'd like to know, village board members, is: Are we going to have to watch you repair again and again all the streets of the village close to the downtown area as we have done so many times already, or are we really going to get some decent streets?

I DON'T KNOW how many times Mason st. up to Tioga school has been black-topped, etc, while we people out in the Edgewood area have been wondering when our turn is coming. So far it never has come and WHY NOT? We don't even have sidewalks so we have something decent to walk on.

People in the close-in area of town get their sidewalks cleaned by a plow in the wintertime—we are lucky if our roads get plowed by late in the day. Why are we always ignored? We pay high taxes too, and probably more in the long run than people closer in because out here most of us have to have two cars, paying more gasoline tax. Our children walk in the middle of the road to go to school for lack of sidewalks. You put street lights on Third Ave., but we need them on the sidestreets where the homes are, not on the edge of the town where very few people walk. How about using your heads?

We'd like to suggest to you that when you start putting in those new streets with gas-tax money, you start out here in these neglected areas and work in to the center of the village until the gas-tax money is exhausted.

An Edgewood Resident,
Bensenville

Annual Bazaar Was Successful

On behalf of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church of Arlington Heights, may I offer a great big "thank you" to Paddock Publications for the excellent publicity given to our annual bazaar, Holiday Gift House, which was held last Thursday, Nov. 3.

The success of the bazaar was due in great measure to your kind cooperation, and we appreciate it very much.

Palatine Woman Is On Her 'Soap Box'

Hurrah to the Palatine Park board!! This amazing group is planning to buy some land adjacent to Paddock school, here in Palatine, to build a swimming pool and park.

A year ago I was one of the rain-soaked workers who went around getting petitions signed in favor of purchasing the Glade farm, an ideal and, incidentally, the only good-size piece of land left on the south side of Palatine.

AT THAT time, the park board was broke. Poor park board—no bonding power. Couldn't afford to build a swimming pool for 10 years at least.

That's why I say "Hats off to this ambitious group, who in a year's time can crowd a school and a park together with no thought of the excuses we heard a year ago."

Do you want to know what park I take my kids to? Maybe you don't, but it's Pioneer park in Arlington.

THIS REMINDS me of the Palatine library. Nothing ever done quite right. Every time there's rain or snow I get wet dodging the overflow from the roof (no gutters above main entrance). I've often wondered if the librarian, who sets out the roasting pans inside to catch the leaking water, gets paid extra.

I shall now get down from my soap box and go back to my box of soap.

Nona Bruns

School Board Appreciative

Board of education for the Bensenville Elementary Schools, District No. 2 hereby extends their thanks and appreciation to the members of the Citizens' Advisory Council and to all of the other committee workers who gave so generously of their time and energy in working for the recent school referendum.

The Board also wishes to publicly thank Editor Bob Cummins and the Paddock Publications in general, for their excellent coverage and continued cooperation in the interests of the local schools.

Election's Over

Last Saturday, I drove thru my precinct for the second time, tearing down the Democratic posters . . . WHY? . . . Because the Republican posters had been torn down twice.

I did this in broad daylight instead of sneaking around at night to pull them down. Therefore I had an audience. And before I could say "SCAT," I was talking to three handsome policemen . . .

By this time, I had them all pulled down except one!

BUT I AM warning the Democrats, continue to play dirty and I'll play dirty too. But instead of being bold and honest about it, I shall sneak around at night . . . I shall hide behind the telephone pole as the police car goes by, so the handsome young patrolman won't see me.

Rolling Meadows is not all Democrats. There are a lot of Republicans that live here, too. If your posters stay on the telephone poles so do mine . . .

EQUAL PUBLICITY IS RIGHT . . . AND . . . I'LL FIGHT FOR WHAT IS RIGHT.

So how about it? Shall we play fair? Anyway, by the time you read this the election will be over, and we'll be on speaking terms again.

Margaret E. Chapman
Republican Precinct Capt.
Rolling Meadows

Auxiliary Is Appreciative

The entire committee of our Pink Ladies' bazaar wishes to express appreciation for the excellent publicity in your papers recently, advertising our sale on October 21 and 22 at Pioneer Park.

We also want to thank everyone who came to our sale to browse and buy. They will no doubt be pleased to know that because of their support this event was an outstanding success.

The proceeds from our bazaar will be applied to the second $25,000 pledge made by the Women's Auxiliary to our Northwest Community Hospital, and we are indeed grateful to everyone for helping us along the way towards meeting our goal.

HELP! HELP! HELP!

WANTED One or two ambitious men to cooperate with me in both the real estate and building business here & in Florida. Besides owning my real estate office located here in one of the very liveliest sections of the great northwest side, I also own, free and clear 2 attractive subdivisions along 2 busy highways down in Florida all ready for building and selling. In fact, I have almost finished a model 3 bedrm. brick veneer home (also mortgage free) ready for public inspection, which one of these men I seek may occupy if he desires. Are you that man? This is not only a job but a real honest to goodness opportunity to make some big money—but—you must also HAVE SOME MONEY to invest along with experience in saving money. WHY? Because about 40 years of experience in this business with the accumulation of some very valuable assets has taught me that any man who makes real money MUST have his heart in his work, and nothing accomplishes that as well as having your own money in the work. Success breeds success so that the AMOUNT of money is not so important as is the use to which it is put. The smart man puts the overalls on his dollars to make an early date for shedding those overalls from himself. Are you that smart? Today a challenging problem that is becoming more acute every day is the building of retirement homes. One developer SOLD over 1½ million dollars worth from an advance blueprint and after the consulted banker said 'Twas impractical—finished up with a 7 million dollar deal all paid for and a waiting list for the next 10 years! You don't believe it? Consult January, 1960 Reader's Digest Magazine, Page 193. My plan is, I believe, even BETTER than theirs. So if you believe you can HELP, believe you would like to get into this attractive, profitable and almost FABULOUS business—write me a letter in strict confidence about yourself. What you have done in the last 5 years; what you would like to do in the next 5 years; what you have to offer an "old timer" like myself who is tolerant, understanding but a terrific worker. What have you to lose except your time? You may learn of a more profitable, happier and longer life in a region where you don't have to be a millionaire in order to live like one. REMEMBER—nobody will push you to success. Even a ball player on second base has to take a chance in getting to home plate. The men I select will be able to start from 3rd base with a flying opportunity to reach home plate. I'll be looking for your letter. Address:

Week's Best food buys

In the interest of saving space for editors reporting election results, Chicago's food markets cooperated this week by being reasonably unchanged.

The University of Illinois consumer service weekly survey for the period ending November 12 notes the following values without need for lengthy qualification:

Meats—lamb leg roasts, shoulder roasts and rib chops, beef sirloin and round steaks, rump and rib roasts; Poultry—medium sized eggs, large turkeys, fryers; Produce—grapes, grapefruit, Michigan apples, pears, cabbage, peppers, cauliflower, carrots, celery, cucumbers.

Lamb rates the top spot on the basis of wholesale costs reaching 1960 lows, reflecting further retail drops. New price tags show leg roasts 65-69 cents, shoulder roasts 39-49 cents, rib chops 98 cents top, loin chops $1.15-1.25 top, shoulder chops 75-79 cents. Selective values are on dealers choice basis.

BEEF reflects lagging demand on steaks and ribs, retail prices being lower and ranging more widely. Costs at live and wholesale markets moved only fractionally. Retail tags show round steaks 69-89 cents, sirloins 79-98 cents, porterhouse 89 cents-$1.15. Ground beef, depending on mix, quotes 49 cents commonly but 59-65 cents for ground chuck. In roasts, blade cut chucks are priced limitedly at 39 cents and more commonly 49 cents, round bone 59 cents, 5th-6th cut ribs 59-69 cents, 1st-4th cuts 75-85 cents—but can be 10 cents a pound lower on promotion.

Pork is out of the value running. Although retails are steady, a rising trend is in progress based on limited supplies likely to continue for the balance of the year. Live quotes were up fractionally. Retail tags hold for the time being at: rib roasts 45-49 cents, loin ends 55-59 cents as a competitive low, center chops 89-98 cents, fresh butts 49-59 cents mostly but can be lower, spare ribs 39-49 cents. A firmer market is noted for bacon but retails hold a current 65-69 cents for first lines, 55-59 cents for seconds, and 89 cents-$1.05 for two-pound thick sliced.

IN POULTRY, fryers are slightly lower at wholesale but revert to a general 35-39 cents range to wipe out recent retail low points. Stewing hens are unchanged at 39-43 cents. Beltsville and hen turkeys continue to show 49 cent tags, lighter weight toms 45 cents—with those over 18 pounds occasionally reflecting a promotional 39 cent low. Eggs, with receipts 15 per cent under year-ago and storage stocks 178,600 cases under year-ago, continue to advance at wholesale, without changing retails significantly this week. Large grade A whites continue the 65-69 cent range, but mediums become a better value with more stores featuring a 49 cent tag.

Produce markets record price declines for more fruits—six out of 12 major items normally checked record lower. Eastern and midwestern apples (especially Michigans) are lowest priced. Western supplies are much higher on short crop supplies. Vegetables scored six major items lower, 12 steady and only four pricing higher.

Groceries are slightly higher again across the board, a trend noted previously, The grapefruit pack, now completed, deserves this note—large supply, ample to meet consumer needs. No serious shortage inflicted by recent hurricanes. Too early to note retail price reflections but wholesale quotes trend up.

Bluederry Torte Perfect Kaffee Klatsch Addition

by LOIS SEILER

A delicious dessert for "coffee and" is the Blueberry Torte we are featuring today. The recipe has been shared with us by Mrs. Gerhardt Wallies of Mt. Prospect, and it is one of her favorites for a bridge or an evening dessert.

"Men seem to like this torte as well as women," commented this good cook, "and it can be served any time of the year."

This appealing dessert has a graham cracker crust and a cream cheese filling which is baked for 30 minutes. When cool, blueberry pie filling is spread over the top and the torte is served with whipped cream.

"CHERRY or strawberry pie filling may be substituted for the blueberry," suggested Mrs. Wallies, "and is equally as good."

Not only is this versatile recipe easy to make, but it may be prepared a day in advance. And because it serves 18, it is perfect for a large group.

In addition to her culinary interests, Mrs. Wallies is active in St. John's United Church of Christ, where she is a member of the Martha circle and teaches Sunday school. She is also co-leader of a Bluebird troop.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallies and their three children, Bruce, 12, Becky, 9, and Claudia, 7, live at 112 N. Russell in Mt. Prospect.

BLUEBERRY TORTE

Crust:

16 graham crackers, crushed
1/3 cup melted butter
½ cup sugar

Mix ingredients together and press into the bottom of a 9 by 13 inch pan.

Filling:

1 8-ounce package cream cheese
½ cup sugar
2 eggs

Cream the cheese and gradually add the sugar. Add the eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Spread over the crust and bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes.

When thoroughly cooled spread over the top: 1 can blueberry pie filling.

Serve topped with whipped cream. Serves 18. (Cherry or strawberry pie filling may be substituted for the blueberry, if desired.) (SH

SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

'Chicken Kayos Calories' States Broiler Council

Thursday, Nov. 10, 1960

An experienced homemaker keeps her family well fed at little cost. But a smart one keeps them healthfully slender too.

The National Broiler council advises these keepers of the key to health that chicken is lower in calories than most other meats. It is a prime source of high quality protein, and in year-round supply. To budget jugglers it is low in cost, and to all who have known the monotony of dieting, it is deliciously versatile.

ADAPTABLE to family dining or entertaining, broiler-fryer chickens can be simmered, broiled, braised, or baked with equally favorable results. Try this festive dish for Herb-Broiled Chicken. It will serve four people generously and yields only 275 calories per chicken quarter.

Herb-Broiled Chicken

1 broiler-fryer chicken, quartered
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
Salt and pepper
Juice of ½ lemon
2 teaspoons melted butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon each, basil and rosemary

Sprinkle chicken with monosodium glutamate, salt and pepper. Line broiler pan with aluminum foil. Turn temperature control to "broil" and place broiler pan 7 to 8 inches from heat. Place chicken, skin side down, on pan.

Combine remaining ingredients; brush half the herb mixture over chicken. Broil 30 minutes. Turn chicken and brush with remaining mixture. Broil 15 to 20 minutes longer. Yield: 4 servings, 275 calories per serving.

Lessons For Longer Life

No one needs to be told that fatalities resulting from highway accidents are increasing every year, as more cars are owned by more people. And no one has to be told that these fatalities bring misery and unexpected grief to large numbers of people across the country.

But practically everyone has been told, and still needs to be reminded again and again, that the causes of most highway accidents can be corrected and fatalities thereby decreased.

THE EXPERTS at the Purolator Automotive Research bureau claim that alcoholic beverages are one of the major causes of accidents. A driver's reflexes are slowed down and the driver, imbued with a false sense of safety, becomes a tyro behind the wheel. Follow the oft-quoted phrase: Don't drink while driving.

Other causes of accidents are exceeding speed limits; Don't! Stay within the regulations. And don't drive when you are overly tired, especially during bad weather or in heavy traffic.

REMEMBER, if you and the driver of the car alongside you or in front of and behind you observe necessary precautions, the toll of highway deaths will be reduced considerably. How much it can be reduced is up to you.

Q. Who goes first down the aisle of a motion picture theater, the man or the woman?

A. The woman precedes. And unless she is with her husband, fiance, or someone she knows real well, she should turn to him and ask, "is this all right?" This gives him a chance—should he be near or farsighted, to suggest a seat that is closer or farther away from the screen.

Q. If a girl, who becomes engaged, has no family of her own, would it be all right for her fiance's family to announce the engagement?

A. No. This is always the privilege of the bride-elect. If she does not have the means of giving an announcement party, then she can extend her "good news" through the local newspaper.

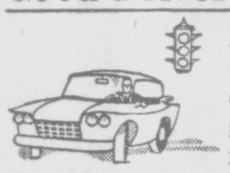
ILLINOIS MOTORISTS: Good News About Auto Insurance!

NEW

Good Driver Discounts plus Tailor-Made Rates

Now Allstate helps motorists save money two ways on top-quality protection

Good Driver Discounts



Here's a special reward for safe drivers and it makes good sense. It's a merit-rating plan that Allstate has recently introduced in Illinois that rewards good drivers and charges higher rates for bad drivers. After one year of accident-free driving under the plan, you earn a special discount. After the second year with a clear record, you earn an additional discount, and after 3 years with a record of accident-free driving, you earn Allstate's highest discount—15% off Allstate's base rates. The only accidents which raise your rates are those which require payment of $50.00 or more to "the other guy" under your liability coverage.

"Tailor-made Rates"

Allstate has always believed that insurance ought to be fitted to you—not you to the insurance. Since 1937, we have designed our rates according to such factors as where a man lives and how his car is used. We now have over a hundred different ways ("rating categories") to help determine the fairest price possible for auto insurance based on individual driving habits. A man who drives only for pleasure, for example, pays a lower rate than a man who drives for business. With these "tailor-made" categories, our policyholders may save from $20 to $50 a year compared to the rates of most other companies for similar coverage.

These are two of the most important advantages you get with an Allstate policy.

But don't overlook the many other pluses that Allstate Crusader policyholders enjoy. Allstate—long famous for low rates—also gives you:

* 10% discounts on liability and collision insurance for most compact cars

* 25% discounts on liability and collision insurance for most second and third cars

* Econo-rate finance plan—low-cost auto financing through cooperating banks

* The services of the largest staff of full-time salaried claims people in the auto insurance business.

You're in good hands with Allstate ... always. For over a quarter century now, Allstate has waged a constant battle to bring down the cost of auto insurance while increasing its benefits and advantages. In so doing, it has become one of the largest companies in the field, with over 5 million policies. The features described here may save you money, and we urge you to find out more about them as soon as possible. See an Allstate Agent at the Allstate Sales Office in Sears, at a convenient Allstate Insurance Office, or in your home, if you prefer. May we help you?

Be sure to ask your Allstate Agent about our new auto liability insurance which, after it has been in force 90 days, can't be cancelled just because you have an accident. Available only from Allstate—and at no extra cost!

Quick Breakfast Answer To Teen's Morning Rush

"I like something that I can eat in a hurry," a teen-ager commented and her mother agreed. The answer? An orange flavored cereal nog with honey bran muffins. It takes just 5 seconds to whirl the cereal nog and the muffins are ready to eat just as is!

Such a speedy breakfast provides one-fourth of the recommended amounts of calories for a teen-age girl and one-third of the protein allowance.

IF YOUR teen-age daughter refuses to eat breakfast because she "doesn't have time," encourage her to try a cereal nog with muffins. It's quick, refreshingly different, and makes a good contribution towards meeting her daily nutritional requirements.

Encourage your teen-agers to start each day with an adequate morning meal. They will feel better, work better, and be less fatigued throughout the entire morning.

Orange Cereal Nog

1 cup cooled cooked rolled oats, quick or regular; or cooled cooked hot whole wheat cereal, instant or regular
1 cup chilled orange juice
1 egg
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup instant dry milk solids.
½ cup chilled milk

Measure all ingredients into blender container. Blend about 5 seconds. If no blender is available beat until throughly mixed with hand or electric mixer. Chill if desired. Yield : 3 cups.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

Robert Day-Dean's has been catering for New York birthday parties, debuts, anniversaries, teas and other social events for more than one hundred years. Looking back over the years, menus show what a tremendous difference has taken place in the food taste of their clients.

During the "Gay Nineties", the party fare was very elaborate and consisted of very fancy and high-calorie foods. Today, the keynote is simplicity — simplicity in flavor, presentation, ingredients and color. Day-Dean's, whose slogan is, "We cater to 50 or 5,000," menu today consists of tiny and deliciously simple sandwiches and cookies decoratively displayed on attractive trays.

It's A Man's World

Few events in a parent's life are more solemn and and heart-rending than the experience of having one's darling baby boy step into a man's world for the first time by having the neighborhood barber remove those fluffy, feathery curlets forever.

Only slightly less of an emotional milestone will be reached when young "Casey" Walsh of St. Louis reaches the stage when he asks dad if he can borrow his razor. Between 16 months and 16 years, he'll be in a rough, tough world.

It will include climbing (to the tip-top) of at least 10,000 trees, scaling three times that many fences and wearing out innumerable knees of blue jeans. He will also track in tons of dirt and mud which will be distributed on carpets, furniture slip covers, towels, bedspreads, tablecloths and the clothes he wears.

AUTOMATIC washers and dryers along with heavy duty dry aids such as dry chlorine bleach are available and on the side of mothers in fighting the good fight to make a cleaner, healthier, whiter and brighter world in which their children can live.

Dry chlorine bleaches not only whiten clothes generally but also remove stubborn grass stains and other hard to get out soiled spots which any active boy collects during his daily inspection of fences, trees, ditches and playgrounds.

Commentator to Speak to Group

Len O'Connor, TV news commentator, will discuss "What Does It Look Like for the Chicago Area Now That the Election Is Over?" at the Wednesday, Nov. 16 meeting of the Northwest Industrial Council.

The meeting will be held at the Elk's Club in Des Plaines. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Guests are welcomed. Reservations may be made by calling Richard Bruce at LE 7-1100.

The council meets bimonthly and is open to representatives of business and industry in the Northwest suburbs. (B8

Concentrated Juice Adds Zest To Seasonal Fruits

When will people realize that desserts don't have "to go" as soon as a pound is gained, and that desserts don't have to be sweet and heavy. Seasonal fruits are so refreshing to both eye and palate it's a shame we don't enjoy them more often.

Desserts can even be estively fancy without being calorie-laden. Tangy undiluted frozen Florida grapefruit juice concentrate spooned over summer fruit is refreshing and looks picture-pretty.

ANY FROZEN concentrate left over can be reconstituted with three times as much water for breakfast juice! Frozen Florida grapefruit juice is an excellent source of vitamin C, which helps keep up our vitality in hot weather.

Easy-does-it Dessert

Arrange blueberries, banana slices, melon balls and canned grapefruit sections on serving dish. Spoon over all undiluted frozen Florida grapefruit juice concentrate.

Fruit Medley

Combine one package of frozen or one cup of fresh raspberries, two bananas sliced, and a partially thawed undiluted 6-ounce can of frozen Florida grapefruit juice concentrate. Let stand an hour before serving. Spoon into six sherbet glasses.

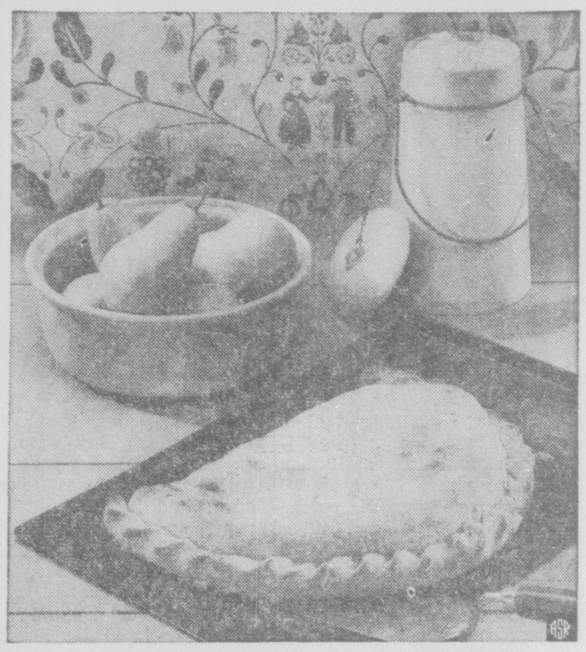
Amish Half-Moon Dessert Filled With Fresh Pears



You might describe this Amish Half-Moon Pie as a man-size turnover, wholesome as a Pennsylvania countryside. It is filled with fresh California Bartlett pears and cottage cheese.

Amish Half-Moon Pie

There's a trick to rolling out this mammoth turnover, but the reward in praise is well worth the trouble. Make up pastry for a double crust 9-inch pie. Chill thoroughly. Now core and slice 4 medium-sized fresh California Bartletts.

Mix with ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, the rind and juice of ½ lemon and a dash of salt. Lightly stir in ½ pint creamed cottage cheese. If you like a spicy pie, sprinkle with cinnamon and nutmeg.

To Roll Out Pastry

Put a large sheet of waxed paper under a cookie sheet, extending about 12 inches beyond the sheet. Sprinkle with flour. Now roll out pastry in one big circle, half on the cookie sheet and half on the waxed paper.

Top the cookie sheet half with the pear mixture; dot with butter or margarine and carefully fold over other half (use corners of waxed paper to pull pastry over). Crimp edges. Prick to allow steam to escape. Bake in hot over (425 degrees) 40 to 45 minutes or until crust is golden.

Condensed Soup Combines Well With Sharp Cheese

The variety in canned condensed soups contributes in a measurable way to our daily nutritional requirements. Soups are an excellent dietary adjunct and especially signiicant, when included on a rational dieting menu.

The many ingredients in the different kinds of canned soups allow for a considerable range of nutrition. When soups are combined with nutritious dairy products, menus burs forth with well balanced eating.

FOR INSTANCE, canned condensed vegetable soup, wealthy in nutrition and low in calories, combines so well with cheese (about 65 per serving), to make a hearty main dish soup.

It fits into many eating patterns, diets, and even the youngsters' meals, especially when served with perky franks in rolls. Fruit and glasses of chilled milk are perfect "go-withs."

Try this recipe for Vegetable Cheese Soup:

Vegetable Cheese Soup

1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed vegetable soup
1 soup can water
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded sharp process cheese
2 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled

In saucepan, combine soup, water and cheese. Heat, stirring now and then, until cheese is melted and is hot. Garnish with bacon. Makes 2 to 3 servings. (SH

Pears For Future Eating

Ripe golden pears offer rich dividends for your jelly shelf now, and ready rewards for the breakfast table later on this winter. Simply follow today's easy recipe, and you will have 11 medium glasses of golden Pear Jam in less than 15 minutes after the fruit has been prepared.

Pear Jam

Yield: about 11 medium glasses (5½ lbs. jam)

4 cups prepared fruit (about 3 lbs. ripe pears)
¼ cup lemon juice (2 lemons)
7½ cups sugar
½ bottle Certo liquid fruit pectin

First, prepare the fruit. Peel and pit abut 3 pounds fully ripe pears. Grind or chop very fine. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Squeeze the juice from 2 medium-sized lemons. Measure ¼ cup juice into saucepan with pears.

Then make the jam. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin.

SKIM OFF foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with 1/8 inch hot paraffin. If jars are used, seal. Note: This jam may set slowly—allow about 2 weeks.

Q. When serving a fruit juice as a first course at the dinner table, where is this glass placed?

A. On the place plate—not with the water glass.

Q. My fiance's married brother is to be his best man at our wedding. Am I obligated to ask his wife to serve as one of my bridesmaids?

A. You are under no obligation to do this, unless you wish. It is your privilege to choose your best friends.
